and Reinforcing Iron Workers. He was appointed to that post in 2011.

Prior to that he served for two years as the administrator of the Portland-based Pacific Northwest Ironworkers Trusts, and he was apprenticeship coordinator for Local 29's and Local 516's joint apprenticeship training committee for 13 years.

In tapping Worley, Perez said: "I continue to rely on the ACA for advice and recommendations on a variety of apprenticeship matters. ... Your leadership and expertise on matters impacting registered apprenticeship and workforce development are well established. Your service on the ACA will be highly beneficial."

The appointment was effective Aug. 1 and runs through July 31, 2018.

The ACA provides advice and recommendations to the Secretary of Labor on matters facing the Registered Apprenticeship System. The committee is composed of 27 to 30 individuals representing employers, labor unions, and members of the public.

Worley, 53, is the executive director of apprenticeship training for the International Association of Bridge, Structural, Ornamental

IBEW Local 125's Marcy Grail named to Oregon Energy Facility Siting Council

Marcy Grail, assistant to the business manager of IBEW Local 125, has been confirmed by the Oregon Senate to serve on the Energy Facility Siting Council. She will complete the unexpired term of John Mohlis, through June 30, 2018. Mohlis recently retired as executive director of the Oregon State Building Trades Council.

Marcy Grail

pointed by the governor, has regulatory and siting responsibility for large electric generating facilities, high voltage transmission lines, gas pipelines, and radioactive waste disposal sites. Oversight of energy facilities helps ensure that Oregon has an adequate energy supply while protecting the environment and public safety.

Grail has worked at Local 125 for 10 years.
