

Did you know that the labor movement has their own financial services company?

90 years ago, a group of labor leaders founded The Union Labor Life Insurance Company to provide financial security to the movement's members and their families. Since then, Ullico Inc. and its family of companies has been devoted to making life better for millions of hard working Americans.

From insurance products for union members to investments that have created thousands of union jobs around the country, Ullico continues to meet the dynamic needs of labor like no other company.
