At Hot August Clay Shoot, a fundraiser for Labor's Community Service Agency and Sunrise Dental's Sunrise for Children

The fifth annual Hot August Clay Shoot sponsored by Sunrise Dental raised $3,012.39 for both Labor's Community Service Agency and Sunrise for Children, a program to help end child slavery and human trafficking. The event was held Aug. 25 at the Mid-Valley Clays & Shooting School in Gervais, Oregon.

First place went to the Machinists Lodge 63 team of Ken Kogle and his son, Zack, with a score of 307. Zack also was the top shooter, hitting 81 of 100 targets. Jaimie Garver, CEO of Portland Local 8 Federal Credit Union, was the top woman shooter, hitting 27 targets.

Top contributors were Carpenters Local 146, Machinists Lodge 63, Laborers of Washington, the American Federation of Government Employees Local 2157, Kaiser Permanente, IBEW Local 48, Roofers Local 49, and Sunrise Dental of Gresham.

LEFT: A team from Vancouver Laborers Local 335 finished third. Team members are Josh Holland, Dan Logan, Deken Letinich, and Wade Urban.

RIGHT: A group of retirees from Plumbers and Fitters Local 290 took second place. They are Rick Ferrell, Forest Hobensack, and Mike Williams.

Wanted: labor union members interested in running for office

Know a union member who ought to run for public office? Maybe it's you? Oregon unions want members to run, because no one can represent the interests of working people as effectively as working people themselves. That's why a group of unions founded the Oregon Labor Candidate School six years ago. The school offers a free six-month, one-Saturday-a-month course in the mechanics of political campaigns — for union members who want to promote a pro-labor agenda in public office. A dozen alumni now hold elected office, including seats in the Oregon Legislature, city halls, and school boards.

The school is now recruiting participants who want to run in 2020 or beyond. Classes start in October. The deadline to apply is Sept. 14. To find out more, and apply online — or to nominate someone you know — visit:
