BEAVERTON

Mayor

Lacey Beaty is a Beaverton City Council member and a manager at Virginia Garcia Health Center. She advocated for paid family medical leave, and wants more investment in affordable housing and sidewalks. Incumbent mayor Denny Doyle is president League of Oregon Cities, and his opposition there to expanding prevailing wage to Enterprise Zones was also a factor for some unions that backed his challenger. City Council, Position 3

Vince Jones Dixon was appointed to fill

DEMOCRATIC RENEWAL Gresham may be on the verge of a political shift. Backed by local unions and the group East County Rising, a group of candidates are running together as a team: Eddy Morales for Gresham mayor, and Dave Dyk, Vince Jones-Dixon, and Dina Dinucci for Gresham City Council. If they win, expect greater community input on public budgets, greater attention to affordable housing, and possibly the creation of a parks and fire districts to improve services. Above, Morales (front and center) and other candidates and their supporters gather outside East County Rising office as they do every Saturday, before heading out to drop campaign literature on voters doorsteps.

City Council Position 2

Denyse McGriff incumbent, is a retired city planner and AFSCME union member; she faces business owner Dave Hayden AFSCME DenyseForOC.com

PORTLAND

Measure 26-213 (Parks Bond)

YES Measure 26-213 would give Portland Parks and Recreation a secure funding source. It would restore recreation programs, including fitness classes, arts, senior programs, and youth programs, and keep the doors open at Multnomah Arts Center, Community Music Center, and Interstate Firehouse Cultural Center. It's a property tax levy of $0.80 per $1,000 of assessed value, and would raise an estimated $48 million a year over five years. NOLC, CPBCTC, AFSCME 189, IBEW 48, LiUNA,

LiUNA 483, Protec17 PortlandersForParks.org

Measure 26-217 (Police Accountability)

YES his measure would create a new police accountability system for the City of Portland, with an independent staff and sufficient power to investigate the most serious complaints of excessive force, including shootings and deaths in custody. OFNHP, PAT, SEIU RealPoliceAccountability.org

Mayor

Ted Wheeler, having doubled homeless shelter capacity and built 800 new units of affordable housing, is seeking a second four-year term as mayor of Portland. By and large, unions that had dealings with the city don't think Wheeler had a faultless first term, but they see a knowledgeable mayor who has worked to maintain good relationships with unions dating back to his time as state treasurer and county chair. NOLC, CPBCTC, IBEW 48, UFCW TedWheeler.com

Commissioner, Position 4

Chloe Eudaly, the incumbent commissioner, delivered on what she ran on four years ago, and that's action on housing. Rent control was banned statewide, but Eudaly led passage of the closest thing to it: a renter relocation ordinance that required landlords to pay the equivalent three months rent if they raise rents more than 10%. PAT, PCCFAP, PROTEC17 VoteChloe.com

Mingus Mapps, a former political science professor, objected to Eudaly's plan to diminish the role of neighborhood associations and end funding for citizen crime patrols, and was fired from Eudaly's Portland Office of Community and Civic Life. Now he's running for his former boss's job. A number of labor organizations are backing him, in part because Eudaly has not been very accessible and has made little effort to build relationships with unions. CPBCTC, IAM, IBEW 48, SEIU, UBC MingusMapps.com

SPRINGFIELD

Councilor, Ward 3

Kori Rodley is a manager at United Way. He was the top vote-getter in the May primary and faces a runoff with Johannis Tadeo. LCLC, IAFF, IBT, SMART, UBC, UFCW KoriRodley.com

Measure 26-215

YES Measure 26-215 renews an existing bond, part of a series of bonds that are rebuilding or retrofitting Portland schools. This one allocates $310 million for a new/modernized Jefferson High School, funds new HVAC systems, roofs, and security systems, and pays for seismic retrofits. You'd think a bond measure like this would get enthusiastic support from construction unions. They're not opposing this one, but aren't endorsing it either — not just because much past work has gone to non-union firms but also because PPS construction project managers have lowered standards: In stark contrast to Multnomah County, which welcomed the help of union reps in finding wage theft, PPS has put up roadblocks, redacting public records and asking unions to pay thousands of dollars for public documents.
