

WORKER SAFETY

National Safety Stand-Down to prevent falls in construction

For construction workers, falls continue to be the leading cause of death on the job, accounting for 401 of the 1,061 construction fatalities recorded in 2019. Every one of those deaths was preventable. To increase awareness and prevent fall fatalities and injuries, OSHA is asking construction employers to schedule a break some time during the week of May 3-7 for a meeting to talk about fall hazards and fall prevention.

For more info, suggestions on how to hold the stand-down safety meeting, and to download a fall prevention training guide covering ladder, scaffold and roof safety, visit osha.gov/stop-falls-stand-down

VANCOUVER SUPPORTS NURSES Southwest Washington Central Labor Council president Shannon Myers (above) rallied at the Vancouver Waterfront April 10 alongside Vancouver Mayor Anne McEnerny-Ogle and several hundred others to support a call by PeaceHealth

SW Medical Center nurses for safer staffing levels. Washington State Nurses Association, which is bargaining a new contract for 1,100 registered nurses at the hospital, says below-market compensation is making it difficult for PeaceHealth to attract and retain nurses.
