

The Scuttlebutt - News From Around Our Town

Where Do You Read the Voice?
Dave and Brooke VanMeter took along their copy of Vernonia's Voice on a recent hike to the top of Saddle Mountain.

Karen Miller had a copy of the Voice with her on a boat to Women's Island in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. The island is the site of the ruthless killing of women and children by the Khmer Rouge in the 1970's. "Reading the Voice from home brings a smile to an otherwise sobering adventure," said Karen.

Concert and Dance
The Timberbound Project (pictured: Kate Sandgren and Joe Seamons) played a concert at the Vernonia Scout Cabin on Saturday, October 26th. The concert celebrated the music of John Cunnick and was followed by a square dance.

Happy Halloween! Local kids and adults took part in the annual Halloween parade in downtown Vernonia on October 31st. Well over 300 masked and caped kids walked the sidewalks and collected treats from businesses.
