Everything else is only new because Meyer made it or designed it new herself.

Meyer had previously been working from her home and garage before opening her retail space. She now uses the back of the shop as a workshop space, while displaying items in the three front rooms. She says she also sells a lot of her items on her Etsy webpage. Etsy is a website for people to buy and sell handmade items. "Ninety percent of what I sell is on-line," says Meyer. "Which means I don't have to worry too much when things are slow here in town and in the store."

Meyer says she loves doing custom orders. She can create programs for events as well as invitations for weddings and baby showers. "I love doing those types of projects," she says. She is also happy to change things she has already created. "If someone comes in and says 'I want that in pink,' I say, 'OK, I can do that.'"

Meyer says she is constantly updating the shop with new items and has been having a tough time keeping items in stock. Meyer and her young family recently purchased a home in Vernonia and look to be settling in for the foreseeable future. "We are Vernonians," says Meyer. "We're here to stay. I really like it here."

Landon Avenue Designs is located at 805 Bridge Street and is open Wednesday through Sunday. Their website is www.etsy.com/shop/LandonAveDesign. You can reach Tiffini Meyer by email at LandonAveDesign@gmail.com.

Vernonia Pride and Chamber Paint Curbs

The newly reformed Vernonia Pride group completed their first major project on Saturday June 21st. Vernonia Pride, along with project sponsor The Vernonia Area Chamber of Commerce, organized the painting of the curbs in the downtown corridor of Vernonia, from Rose Avenue, across the Rock Creek Bridge, and all the way to California Avenue. Members of Vernonia Pride and the Chamber worked together to plan the project, partner with several local business owners, gather supplies, and mobilize volunteers. Thanks to the City of Vernonia for providing the yellow paint.

Watch for more opportunities to volunteer on upcoming projects organized by Vernonia Pride.
