Carl Wilkerson

Creswell native, LCSO chief deputy is FBI grad

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Lane County Sheriff's Office (LCSO) Chief Deputy Carl Wilkerson Jr., a Creswell native, recently completed one of the toughest challenges available to local law enforcement officers: the FBI National Academy.

Chief Deputy Wilkerson and two other Oregon law enforcement officers graduated a 10-week training session at the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Virginia, in September.

There is a highly competitive process local law enforcement officers must go through to be selected for this honor. That process includes nomination by a supervisor; interviews with the candidate and co-workers to determine leadership skills and abilities; a background check; determination of physical fitness; and the support of former National Academy graduates within the candidate's organization.

"The exceptional leaders selected to attend the National Academy have a great opportunity to share their experiences with peers and learn best practices from across the country and the world," said Renn Cannon, special agent in charge of the FBI in Oregon. "Only a few law enforcement officers from Oregon attend each year, and we are proud to sponsor Chief Deputy Wilkerson and our other local partners in the National Academy."

Chief Deputy Wilkerson started with LCSO in 1994. He became a deputy in 1996, working in corrections and later transferring to the Police Services Division.

He served as a patrol deputy on the Traffic Safety Team, as a Creswell contract deputy, and on county patrol, serving community members over an area of 4,600 square miles.

In 2005, the agency promoted him to detective in the Criminal Investigations Section, and, in 2013, to sergeant.

In 2018, he was promoted to the position of police services lieutenant before accepting the promotion to chief deputy, second in command to the sheriff, in 2019.

Chief Deputy Wilkerson has served on the Marijuana Eradication Team, as a drug recognition expert; as a SWAT operator; and on the Interagency Deadly Force Investigations Team.

"I am extremely proud of Chief Deputy Wilkerson and thankful he was able to participate in this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for law enforcement leaders in this nation," said LCSO Sheriff Cliff Harrold, another Creswell native. "I am looking forward to his return to the office where the information, knowledge, and skills he gained at the FBI National Academy will be used for the betterment of our organization and the community we serve."

CHRONICLE FLASHBACK

Billy Halvorson, left, and Carl Wilkerson III are seen in 1993 after their Eagle Scout Courts of Honor – fully developed celebrations recognizing Scouts who have attained Scouting's highest rank (Eagle Scout). Both boys went on to become deputies with the Lane County Sheriff's Office, and Wilkerson just graduated from the FBI National Academy. CHRONICLE ARCHIVES

Creswell teens become Eagles

EXCERPT FROM OCT. 27, 1993 CHRONICLE – Billy Halvorson and Carl Wilkerson Jr., both of Creswell, will receive the Eagle Scout (award during a) Court of Honor next month.

The two 19-year-olds, who started Scouts together 10 years ago and became best friends, will be named (as Eagle Scouts) Nov. 6 at the Creswell Church of the Nazarene. The award will be presented by Rev. Sam Morgan, who is pastor at New Hope Baptist Church.

Wilkerson earned 24 merit badges, including brotherhood, member of the Order of the Arrow, a service award, and for organizing and helping to build a lifeguard tower at Camp Makualla. He held numerous offices, including counselor at Camp Baker. Wilkerson was on the Honor Roll at Creswell High School, and lettered all four years, as well as being student body treasurer. His scouting service project was the construction of a complete room of shelves at the Creswell Nazarene Food Bank. He also was active in the church and traveled to Mexico.

Halvorson, the son of Rev. Ron and Debby Halvorson of Creswell, is with Troop #28 and Carl Wilkerson Jr. is scoutmaster. Wilkerson is the son of Carl and Ann Wilkerson Jr., and is with Troop #140. Larry Stegall is scoutmaster.

Halvorson earned 21 merit badges including aviation, scholarship, drafting and sports. He was a senior patrol leader for the past six months, and patrol leader in charge of a new branch for a year. He was a Cub Scout for two years and a Webelo Scout for one year. Halvorson participated in football and track at Creswell High School, and was a member of the National Honor Society.

He was youth/teen president for two years of Nazarene Young People's International, and worked in Tecate, Mexico. His scouting service project was the construction of a concession building at the high school to replace an old trailer previously used.
