Murder... at the library

FROM STAFF REPORTS

CRESWELL – There will be a murder in Creswell Library, and one of you will be arrested for the crime.

On Saturday, Nov. 9 Creswell Library, located at 64 W. Oregon Ave. will host its first Murder Mystery Party – with a western twist. Kicking the night off at 5 p.m., the party for teenagers and adults will begin with an old-fashioned western dinner catered by Texas Roadhouse. Participants are encouraged to dress up in their western duds, said program coordinator Patti Scott.

Scott said that with the recent renovations and expansion of Creswell Library, she wants to help make the library the “heart of Creswell.”

However, be still your heart, because after dinner, someone in the group will be “murdered” and it will be up to participants to find out whodunnit. The night will wrap up around 8 p.m., with a sheriff hauling off the cold-blooded “murderer.”

Tickets can be purchased at Creswell Library for $25, which includes dinner and drinks, including beer and wine. There will also be a dessert silent auction and raffle prizes. All proceeds benefit the library.

Creswell Girl Scout wins Gold Award

FROM STAFF REPORTS

CRESWELL – Girl Scouts of Oregon and Southwest Washington recently highlighted the achievements of 24 local Gold Award Girl Scouts who together contributed more than 1,920 hours of service to communities throughout Oregon and Southwest Washington.

Regan Humble, 19, of Creswell won the Gold Award for her Festival of Trees project. She has been a Girl Scout member of Creswell Troop 20247 for six years.

Humble created the Creswell Festival of Trees to bring awareness to the Creswell Library and support its expansion. Regan recruited community volunteers to decorate the trees and publicized the event, which took place the first week of December 2017. Humble formed a local group continued the tradition with a successful Second Annual Festival of Trees in December 2018.

The Girl Scout Gold Award represents the highest achievement in Girl Scouting and recognizes girls in grades nine through 12 who demonstrate extraordinary leadership. On average, only 6% of Girl Scouts nationwide earn the Gold Award. Recipients are part of a sisterhood of more than one million women who have earned the Gold Award or its equivalent since its inception in 1916.

Regan Humble

Girl Scouts have a bronze, silver and the most coveted Gold Award which is equivalent to the Boy Scouts Eagle Scout.

Humble said she wanted to bring awareness to the Creswell Library’s need for the computer lab expansion, a specialized teen room and additional social services so that the students, low income and elderly citizens of Creswell have the ability to access these resources. Humble chose Creswell’s Patti Scott as her advisor.

Humble has created a “How to Booklet” that will help the next person or group that want to carry on this tradition. If you are interested in this handbook, email troop20247@gmail.com.
