Creswell Chamber postpones yard sale, cancels luncheons

CHRONICLE NEWS SERVICES
CRESWELL – The Creswell Chamber of Commerce leadership team issues a statement Tuesday afternoon regarding its monthly luncheons for business leaders and the city-wide yard sale, held annually on Mother's Day weekend in May.
Here is the full text of the statement, issued by board president Raina Napper:

As the situation around the Coronavirus (COVID-19) continues to evolve, the health and wellness of our community is our first priority. This is an uneasy time for all. We are following the recommendations from the public health authorities (state, federal, and the center for disease control).
We encourage everyone to follow the current guidelines for the limitations of public gatherings.

At this time we are canceling the chamber monthly luncheons until further notice from public health authorities.
We will be evaluating annual events, and making determinations on moving forward with these events.
To prevent the large gathering of people from a wide area, the citywide yard sale is postponed. A new date will be proposed when the situation becomes clearer.
Please watch for emails as new information is released regarding the annual banquet and Fourth of July events.
Note: Chronicle publisher Noel Nash is a member of the Chamber board of directors.

Library takes quick action

BY GINI DAVIS
THE CHRONICLE
CRESWELL — All programs at Creswell Library, as well as the annual Friends of the Creswell Library Spring Book Sale scheduled for last weekend, have been canceled and the library is closed at least through March 31 as area leaders respond to the global pandemic, COVID-19.
“We are sorry for the inconvenience, but we feel that this is what is best for our community,” said youth librarian Nick Caum.
State officials are ordering new guidelines almost daily.
“I’ve been following the news very carefully because I feel responsible for the well-being of a lot of vulnerable people,” said library director Su Liudahl, noting that most library volunteers “fit the high-risk criteria, and they mean too much to us to take any chances with their health.”
Due dates and fines will be suspended until the library and schools reopen – and with the situation fluid and rapidly evolving, no one is certain when that might be.
As of now, employees are primarily working remotely. Plans are to keep the Wi-Fi on so people can access the internet from the parking lot, using their own devices. Electronic books continue to be available from the library website, creswell-library.org, and the Libby app.
