

Catarrh

Invites Consumption

It weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and breaks down the general health.

It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, and affects the voice.

Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy.

Go to any good prescription druggist and get the following and mix them. If he does not have these ingredients he will get them from his wholesale house.

"One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla, and one ounce Toris compound. Add these to a half pint of first-class whiskey, and use a table spoonful before each meal and at bed time. The bottle must be well shaken each time." This simple remedy is one of the most effective known. The restorative action will be felt after the first few doses.

The Sort of Man He Is.

"Biffers is a singularly narrow and selfish person, isn't he?"
"He is. Cook at the steak is far more interesting to him than Cook at the pole!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Over Her Head.

"Where are you going to spend your honeymoon?" asked the prospective bride's girl friend.
"O, it will not be a mere honeymoon!" exclaimed the prospective bride. "It will be a honey cycle!"
"So you're going to take your wedding journey on bikes, are you? How perfectly delightful!" gurgled the other.

"TEACHER'S CLOES."

Little People Knew What They Liked Best in School.

A teacher whose little pupils are for the most part immigrants asked them not long ago to each think a moment, and be ready to tell what thing in school they liked best. The first hand raised was Annetta's, and her answer came, at the nod of permission, with explosive enthusiasm. It was:
"Teacher's clo'es!"
Being, as it were, already accustomed to the unexpected in dealing with her flock, teacher accepted this reply as quite in the natural order of things, and proceeded to turn it to account. She was glad, she said, that Annetta liked her clothes, because she really took a good deal of pains to have them nice. They were, she pointed out, always very simple; but she tried to choose pretty colors, and above all things, to keep them neat. Nobody could help sometimes tearing holes or getting spots; but everybody should clean the spots and darn the holes as soon as possible. Indeed, a lady, or a ladylike little girl, would feel very uncomfortable if she had to stay untidy more than a little while. She added:
"See, I keep this little work-bag in my desk, and I will always lend it to any one who wants to mend her dress in recess. Perhaps I might even sometimes see a place that you could mend, but hadn't noticed; would you like me to tell you if I do? I am sure if there was anything wrong with my clothes that I could put right, I should wish to be told."

The lure of the dainty work-bag and the artful suggestion of reciprocity worked admirably toward an increase of tidiness for some days. Then came a visit from a group of distinguished educators. More chalk was needed in the course of a blackboard exercise, and teacher reached up for it to a high shelf. As she turned, several hands shot up, but she ignored them to finish the task in hand. Presently she raised her arm high in using the pointer. More hands waved excitedly. A moment later she did so again. Annetta could endure no more.
"Scusi, teacher," she cried, "but your waist buttons will be all bust off if I don't tell you! First it was one bust off, and then it was two bust off, and then it was one more bust off, and the last one that busted went down the register!"

It was a very flushed teacher, in a becoming if semi-detached blouse, who explained to three twinkling educators some additional points in her methods upon which she had not expected to dwell.—Youth's Companion.

Artful Young Barney Kehoe.

Will ye be for the Gap o' Dunloe, I dunno?
Oh! I'm glad o' that same!
All the tourists think shame
To be missin' the Gap o' Dunloe—
They do so.
Now, then, whisper! Mayhap
When ye come on the Gap
Ye'll be seein' a lass
On this side o' the pass
That'll ax for the toll.
She's a dacent good soul,
Though the eyes of her twinkle so droll,
Well, ye'll pay her the tax
An' ye'll wink an' ye'll ax:
"Would ye marry young Barney Kehoe?"
"Tis a bit of a joke
That the folk love to poke
At the lass o' the Gap o' Dunloe.
An' it's where, whin ye've done wid Dunloe,
Will ye go?
Ye'll be wise to come back
By this very same thrack,
Fur there's little that's back o' Dunloe—
There is so.
Sure, the hills are so bare
There's no scenery there
Like the kind that ye find
On this side, d'ye mind?
So, I'll watch for the day
Whin ye're passin' this way
Jist to hear what the lass had to say,
Whin she made her reply
To the wink o' yer eye
An' yer joke at the Gap o' Dunloe—
Is it who may I be?
Ye'll find me, d'ye see,
If ye'll ax for young Barney Kehoe.
—Catholic Standard and Times.

Not Used to It.

The new teacher was beginning the arithmetic lesson, says the London News.
"Now, boys, listen to me. Suppose John has five oranges and James gave him eleven more. Then if John handed seven to George, how many would he have left?"
Dead silence and great perplexity fell upon the class.
"Come, come; that's easy enough. Well, my lad, what is it?"
"Please, sir," said one of the boys, "we always does our sums in hapsles."
