Not a Boston Expression.
She—That's Mr. Osborn over there He married a million.
He—You don't say. Well, that beat Solomon to a frazzle.—Boston Transcript.

Bess—That's a quaint ring you're wearing. Is it an heirloom? Tess—Well, it dates from the Conquest.—Cleveland Leader.

Tramp—Say, mister, I haven't had a bite all day. Dejected Angler—Same here. Where did you fish?—Boston Transcript.

"Where is Hoang Kong, John?" asked teacher. "I don't know, sir," answered John. "I think he was in China last time I heard."

When John had a small piece of pie put on his plate he grumbled: "I wish cook wouldn't put so much shortening in this pastry."

"My doll is very sick," said Dottie, mournfully. "Yes," said her chum Polly, "she does look waxy. You ought to have her waxinated."

"What did you say last night when Jack asked you to marry him?" "I shook my head." "Sideways or up and down?"—Boston Transcript.

"Women have gained fame despite the men!" shouted the sharp-featured suffragette. "Yes, for untold ages," replied the mere meek man.—Judge.

"Oh, mamma," exclaimed Dottie, running in from the garden, where she saw a robin redbreast for the first time, "come and look at this sparrow with a red flannel shirt on!"

She after a long silence—Did I hear anything fall? He (timidly)—Why, no. She (with a yawn)—Oh, excuse me, I thought you dropped a remark.—Baltimore American.

Her—Yes, he used to take me to the theater and send me flowers and candy. Him—What did you do to him to make him quit it. Her—Oh, I went and married him!—Cleveland Leader.

"But, Willie," said the bad boy's mother, "didn't your conscience tell you that you were doing wrong?" "Yes'm," replied Willie, "but you know you told me not to believe everything I hear."

Medium (after the seance)—Can any one tell how spirits could have got into the room and moved the furniture when all the doors were locked? Bright Boy—(raising his hand)—With skeleton keys.

An old gentleman was playing with his little granddaughter one day, when she noticed that most of his hair was missing. "Grandpa," she queried earnestly, "why don't you wear a switch?"

"But I don't see that you need be so heart-broken because Mabel Fly-away has jilted you." "It isn't the jilting I mind, but she returned the ring in a parcel marked 'Glass. With care!'"—Exchange.

First Guest—Won't you join me in requesting young Squalls to recite? Second Guest—But I don't like recitations. First Guest—Neither do I. But if the young beggar doesn't recite he'll sing.—New York Globe.

"Pa," said John, the other day, "I planted some potatoes last summer, and what do you think came up?" "Potatoes, of course," answered Pa.

"Nup," said John. "There came up a drove of pigs and ate them all."

"Ma," cried Dot, "my button-shoes are hurting me." "Why, child, no wonder," exclaimed Ma; "you put them on the wrong feet!" Dot looked puzzled; then said: "What will I do, ma? They are all the feet I got."

"I can't do this example," pouted John. "You can do anything you want to do," replied his pa. "Even water may be carried in a sieve, if you only wait." "How long must I wait?" asked John. "Till it freezes," coolly answered Pa.

"John," she said, "don't you think this talk about trial marriages is just horrid?" "Oh, I dunno." "Why, you don't believe in them yourself, do you?" "Have to. If there's any marriage that ain't a trial, you just show me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Young Lady—Give me one yard of—why, haven't I seen you before? Draper's Assistant—Oh, Maud, have you forgotten me? I saved your life at the seaside last summer! Young Lady (warmly)—Why, of course you did. Then you may give me two yards of the ribbon, please.

One day Elsie's mother sent her to find a switch with which to chastise her little brother, who had been teasing her. After a time she returned with a dozen or more pebbles in her apron. "I couldn't find any switch, mamma," she explained, "but you can throw these rocks at him."

"Have you ever noticed," began the bald gentleman, who liked to entertain the people gathered in his corner of the hotel piazza, "that little men invariably marry large women?" "It may be so," murmured a mild-eyed fellow guest, "but I had always supposed that it was the other way about—that the large women married the small men."

He was poor, but otherwise honest, and he had just proposed to the heiress. "Are you sure," she queried after the manner of her kind, "that you do not want to marry me for my money?" "Of course I don't," he replied. "I am anxious to marry you because I haven't the heart to let you become an old maid merely because you happen to have a paltry half million."—The Wasp.

Too Much to Lose.

Manager of Touring Company—Here, buck up, Miss De Vere; else we shall lose the train.

Leading Lady—But I've lost my reticule and my jewel case with my diamonds in it.

Manager—O, let 'em go. We must catch this train.

Leading Lady—But my reticule had 20 shillings in it.—The Sketch.

What Inspired Him.
"The melancholy days have come"—So sang the weary bard; He'd just been raking autumn leaves Again from his back yard. —Chicago Tribune.

For Old People.
After reaching the age of forty the human system gradually declines. The accumulated poisons in the blood cause rheumatic pains in the joints, muscles and back. These warnings should be promptly relieved and serious illness avoided by using the following prescription which shows wonderful results even after the first few doses and it will eventually restore physical vigor:

"One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Toris compound; half pint of high grade whiskey. This to be mixed and used in tablespoonful doses before each meal and at bedtime. The bottle to be well shaken each time." Any druggist has these ingredients or he will get them from his wholesale house.

Dangerous Risk.
"Look out, Hi," shouted the farmer's wife as the big balloon soared over the farm with a trailing anchor. "Them thar arynaughts will hook you up like a fish if you don't watch out."

"Gosh, Mandy!" gasped the old farmer as he dropped his rake. "Yeou don't think they'd try to do sech a thing purposely, do yeu?"

"Wouldn't trust them, Hi. That tall chap looking down here with the eyeglasses is one of them thar Indiana writer folks and he's working on a book called 'The Uplifting of the Farmer.' Reckon you better keep your eye on that anchor."

The Professor Explains.
"Why is it?" inquired the doctor, "that astronomers, whose work must be peculiarly trying on their powers of vision, almost uniformly have strong eyes?"

"My friend," answered the professor, "it is because they have strong eyes that they are astronomers."

Effect of Envy.
If envy, like anger, did not burn itself in its own fire, and consume and destroy those persons it possesses before it destroys those it wishes worst to, it would set the whole world on fire, and leave the most excellent persons the most miserable.—Lord Clarendon.
