

ARCADE THEATER WEEKLY PROGRAM

Fri., Jan. 13.—"Why Trust Your Husband?" One of the brightest, speediest and most humorous entertainments offered in this theatre in many months. With the beautiful Miss Eileen Percy in the leading role, it should prove a rare delight to all who love sparkling fun on the screen.

"Winners of the West," chapter No. 3.

Sat., Jan. 14.—Tom Mix is coming in "The Untamed." One of the strangest companionships known in popular literature forms the basis of the story of "The Untamed." A remarkable trio, bound together by their primitive instincts, include an eerie through lovable sort of superman, a fiery stallion and a demon dog, because of their isolation from others of their kind by barriers of their unusual traits, these three find companionship in one another.

Comedy, "Janitors."

Sun., Jan. 15.—"The House That Jazz Built." Sophie Keel's Saturday Evening Post story, "Sweetie Peach," has been rechristened "The House That Jazz Built" for screen purposes. The title is misleading for it is a much better picture than one would be led to believe from this caption. There is very little jazz in it. It is a pleasant little story of domestic misunderstanding and is quite the best thing Miss Wanda Hawley has done thus far.

Also a Comedy.

Mon., Jan. 16.—"Partners of the Tide." A sea story containing many thrilling underwater fights. A Cape Cod romance with well developed threads of human interest and plaintive humor. The cast includes Jack Perrin, Daisy Robinson, Gordon Mullen, J. P. Loekney and many others. It offers good entertainment.

Comedy "Alfalfa Love."

Tues., Jan. 17.—"Officer 666," starring Tom Moore. A hilarious mix-up of officers, crooks and ordinary honest folks. Warning! Don't go to see this show if your lips are cracked.

Comedy, "Running Wild."

Wed., Jan. 18.—"Man Trackers." An all star cast with George Larkin and Josephine Hill in a rousing story of two human men—one splendid woman—the great white wilderness—love—jealousy—red courage—a crashing end—a great picture.

And a comedy.

Thurs., Jan. 19.—"Midnight Gambols." In this picture the dainty Marie Doro, supported by Godfrey Tearle, brings into effective play the full sport of her wonderful talent. She plays the part of a young woman reared in the quiet seclusion of a boarding school, who possesses two natures, one pure and desired in act, while her other self is drawn toward the garish life of excitement and adventure like a moth toward a flame.

XIII.—RHODE ISLAND

RHODE ISLAND is not really the name of this state. As can be seen from the state seal, the official name is the "State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations." It originated from two distinct settlements. The first was made by Roger Williams in 1636. He was the pastor of a church in Salem. As he advocated radical reforms he was ordered to return to England, but fled to the Narragansett tribe of Indians. From them he obtained a tract of land and called the town which he established Providence, in token of God's mercy which had so far provided for him.

About the same time Mrs. Anne Hutchinson and her followers were expelled from Massachusetts on account of a theological dispute. She made her way to the island of Aquidneck, which she purchased from the Indians for 40 fathoms of white wampum, 20 hoes and 10 coats. The name of this island was changed to the Isle of Rhodes, probably after the famous Greek island in the Mediterranean. By common usage it became known as Rhode Island. In 1662 Charles II gave Rhode Island a very liberal charter, and this remained in force until 1841, when a new state constitution was adopted by mass conventions, and two years later another new constitution was legally voted. The change in constitutions caused what was known as Dorr's rebellion.

The entrance of Rhode Island into the Union in 1790 completed the list of the original thirteen states. Though Rhode Island is the smallest of all the states, with only 1,248 square miles, it is very thickly populated and has five presidential electors, which is more than those of a number of states of much larger territory.

XIV.—VERMONT

THE derivation of the name Vermont comes from the French "verts monts," or green mountains, and it was likewise the French who were probably the first white men to see those lofty landmarks which so appropriately give this state its name. This was in July, 1699, when Champlain made his memorable voyage up the lake now called after him.

The first permanent settlement was made in 1724 at Brattleboro, where the Massachusetts colony established a fort as a buffer against invasion from the north. The territory used was part of what was known as the "Equivalent Lands," which were sold at public auction in Hartford for about a farthing an acre, the proceeds being donated to Yale college. Shortly after this, settlers pushed eastward from New York across Lake Champlain and westward from New Hampshire. This led to disputes between these two colonies as to their boundaries. Under the leadership of Ethan Allen New York's claims were resisted by a local military force, which proudly called themselves "the Green Mountain Boys." It was these same men who played such a brilliant part during the Revolution.

In 1777 a formal Constitution for the state was adopted and Vermonters are proud of the fact that theirs was the first of the states to prohibit slavery by constitutional provision. For a number of years Vermont remained as a separate republic, but in 1791 it was admitted to the Union as the first addition to the original thirteen states.

In size Vermont has 9,504 square miles, and its congressional delegation numbers four. It thus casts four votes for the president.

ANYTHING

THAT A FORD CAN'T DO, A FORDSON CAN DO.

Get one now to saw your wood, to run your sawmill, to do your logging, or to do anything where power is required, and have it ready for your farm work in the spring. Many buy Fordsons for power where they have no farm work. They are the real thing for any kind of portable power and will also keep plugging away on one job just as long as they are wanted on the job.

Cheese Canapes.

Allow the beaten white of one egg to each cup of finely crumbled or grated cheese, a speck of salt and cayenne. Remove the crust from inch thick slices of bread, hollow out the center, making a box, fill with the cheese mixture heated; bake about 10 minutes and serve on a napkin.

Horseradish Sauce.

Three tablespoons fresh grated horseradish, one tablespoon vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, three to four tablespoons heavy cream whipped. Mix horseradish, vinegar and seasoning. Fold in beaten cream and serve soon after making.

Meat Loaf.

Cup meat put through chopper, one tablespoon minced parsley (if you have it), one-half teaspoon salt, the same of pepper, one tablespoon poultry dressing, one-half cup bread crumbs. Mix well and moisten with any leftover gravy or hot water, being careful not to get it too "sloppy." Bake 30 minutes; serve hot with tomato sauce.
