The White Pharmacy

Switching of automobile license plates has become a common offense among unscrupulous motorists in Oregon. During June a total of twenty-nine arrests were made by officers of the state traffic department for this offense.

C. A. Sloat, Oakville, Linn county, school teacher, was "dropped in" at the same penitentiary after having pleaded guilty to assaulting two small Salem girls and being immediately sentenced to two life terms in prison by Judge Percy R. Kelly.

Three hundred petitions providing for 100 names each were put in circulation by the state headquarters of the American Legion through all local posts, seeking to have placed on the November ballot an initiative act entitled "anti-alien land ownership bill."

The Rosewell mineral springs property, once one of the state's most famous resorts, has been purchased by a Roseburg company which will proceed at once to restore the baths and develop a modern resort which is expected to become immediately popular.

Oregon will receive approximately $3,000,000 for road improvement work from the federal government during the next three years under the terms of the transportation bill just signed by President Harding, according to Herbert Nunn, state highway engineer.

Tragedy marred the Portland Rose Festival marine parade, when H. B. Conroy, boatswain's mate aboard the battleship Connecticut, fell overboard from his vessel's entry in the parade and was drowned in the river a few feet below the draw span of the Morrison-street bridge.

Eight crews, all said to be employed by the same interests, have begun cruising as many separate tracts of timber in the Nehalem valley. Who the crews represent is not known but the extensive cruising is believed to be the forerunner of the sale of some large holdings of timberlands in that district.

Through action of the national geographic board, made known in a letter received at Bend Commercial club headquarters, the name of John Y. Todd, early pioneer of central Oregon, receives a permanent place on the scenic map of the state. Lost lake has ceased to be. Todd lake takes its place.

When the period for filing applications with the state bonus and loan commission expired, a total of 31,974 ex-service men had applied for loans and cash bonuses. No further applications will be accepted. Cash applications received total 18,287, representing $3,528,589.70, and applications for loans number 13,687, requesting loans in the amount of $33,751,400.

At a special meeting of the Canby city council, an ordinance providing for the collection of a license fee from all stage companies stopping in Canby, was passed. The license fee was not set by the councilmen, but probably will be at the first meeting in July. The fact that the stages will be charged a fee when stopping here has aroused public interest. A number of business men have expressed disapproval of the ordinance.

According to a statement issued by Clyde G. Huntley, 67,640 personal income tax returns, representing net income of $198,652,281 and normal and surtax of $6,649,011, were filed in the Oregon office of the internal revenue collector for the calendar year of 1926. These figures show 17,877 more returns filed than in 1919, and a total net increase in income of $27,411,675, but a decrease of $1,583,426 in tax collected in Oregon.

George Potter, St. Helens city marshal and Cal Hoffmiller, deputy marshal and city traffic officer, pleaded guilty in City Recorder Godfrey's court to charges of disorderly conduct, and were fined $10 each. The fines were the result of the fist fight in the McBride school shed in West St. Helens between Officer Hoffmiller and E. E. Dewey Harrison, St. Helens groceryman. The fight was refereed by Marshal Potter.

Appeals in four of the friendly suits filed against the state bonus commission to test angles of the bonus law were filed with the supreme court under a stipulation which provides for the argument of all four cases at the same time. Points involved in the four suits include the right of a mother of a deceased ex-service man to participate in the bonus benefits, the right of an ex-service man to invest his bonus loan in business stocks and the question as to whether bonus money was to be regarded as part of the estate of a deceased ex-service man or went to the widow as a personal gift.

David F. West, 70, a farmer, shot and killed C. M. Kendall, sheriff of Linn county, and the Rev. Roy Healy, pastor of the Albany First Christian church, at West's farm home near Plainview, where they had gone to look for an illicit still, concerning which the sheriff had received information. Relatives of West telephoned the news of what had occurred and a posse of officers and citizens gathered and surrounded the house. West thereupon bade his wife a goodbye, which he told her would be his last, sent her to the home of a neighbor and then shot and killed himself.

NEW DANCE HAS MADE HIT

Gothamites Take to Importation From London, Though It Seems Rather a Childish Pastime.

There's a new dance stunt in town. It's the balloon dance and it's from dear old London, don't you know. It's a bit of all right, too.

A few nights ago it was introduced at the Rendezvous—one of Broadway's most exclusive supper clubs. And it made a tremendous hit, says the New York World.

A toy balloon is tied to the ankle of each dancer of the fair sex and the idea is to get through a close-knit fox-trot or a toddle with the balloon still intact. That is the girl's idea.

The idea of the men dancers is to break as many balloons as possible without stepping out of the dance. On a crowded floor the balloons have about as much chance as a snowball in—well, a warmer place than New York. However, a prize is offered to the woman who can emerge from the maze of the dance with her balloon still flying.

One young lady at the Rendezvous actually won the prize. But the popping of the colored spheres reminded one of the popping of champagne corks. Anyway, it's a great boon for the balloon manufacturers. For the dance floors of the average toddle sanctuary are so small that the only way to keep off one's partner's balloon is to step on her feet—and that is not very popular with the fair sex.

RETURNING TO SWORD PLAY

New York Children in Their Games Seem to Have Abandoned "Modern Warfare."

Playwrights and theatrical producers predict the return of the costume play and the swashbucklin' melodrama. But the youngsters of New York seem to have realized this prophecy in their games.

Wooden swords, umbrella rib daggers and crossbows have supplanted dummy rifles and barrel stave artillery pieces that were popularized by the World war.

Sword play, with hickory rapiers and fragile crate-cover cutlasses seem to have asserted a romantic appeal over infantry charges and vocal "bing bangs." The vacant lot is no longer no man's land, but a rock-strewn heath or a tin can infested moor, where Frankie and Johnny would "do each other in mortal combat as Spaniard and Dutchman in the lowlands."

There is more realism in the sword than in the pistol, with which one must say "Bang! Bang!" Rock piles have become castles after the fashion of the Arthurian legends and lance-armed knights guard drawbridges of planks or old doors over imitation moats.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Discipline was real, from U. S. M. Maintaining discipline among one's superiors during the war sometimes called for the best quality of resourcefulness and tact among telephone men. Peter Lambert Schauble relates such an instance in "The First Battalion," the story of the Four Hundred and Sixth Telegraph battalion.

"The city of Langres was under strict military discipline, and Gallo of E company was left there with Mac-Ronald of D to operate the switchboard. Air alarms kept their hands full. It was Gallo's duty on such occasions to call up different officers to have them put out all lights. At one time an officer resented the instructions.

"Who are you?" he demanded.
"This is the chief operator. I am instructed to have that light put out," said Gallo.
"Well, who in h—l gave you those instructions?" from the officer.
"The commanding general, sir. Just a moment, I will connect you with him."
"No, no, never mind; I'll put the d—d light out," and up went the receiver.

Not So Many Marys.
Mary as a Christian name is not so popular as it was a few years ago. Reports from the different districts of the British Isles and in the Dominions show that in many cases the name Mary is absent even in large house holds, which always used to have at least one. Among school children the average was found to be only eight Marys out of every 100 girls.

Roof Fires Promptly Extinguished.

A small fire, started by a spark from the chimney, slightly damaged the roof at the C. H. Skinner home on the west side about noon yesterday. The blaze, which was discovered by children playing in the yard, started on the roof at the front of the house and burned through into the attic, but was extinguished by the use of a garden hose before the arrival of the fire department.

The roof of the J. E. Perrin residence on south Fifth street was somewhat damaged Wednesday by a fire started by sparks from the engine of the concrete mixer operated by the paving crew. A small hole was burned in the roof before it was discovered and extinguished. The fire department was not called.

Eyes Injured in Odd Manner.

Joe Smith is recovering from injuries to his eyes sustained in an odd manner. Bits of gravel were thrown into his car by a passing car and several of the bits lodged in his eyes. It was necessary to have the gravel removed by a physician but Mr. Smith did not realize that he had not removed all of the foreign substance and did not visit a physician until the next day, by which time the members had become inflamed and the injuries painful.
