THINGS WE THINK

Things Others Think and What We Think of the Things Others Think

Being extravagant in your compliments will not bring down upon you the charge of being a profligate.

Some beauty is not even skin deep—sometimes it is put on above the skin.

They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, but no man ever declined to marry a girl just because she couldn't cook.

The lies that hurt the worst are the ones that are so.

A marriage license gives a woman a legal right to make libelous remarks about her husband without being held accountable therefor.

A Massachusetts politician got married because the women declared they would work against him if he didn't. Some bright, unchivalrous paragrapher

Eyeglasses That Reflect Your Individuality

Men or women who are careful of their personal appearance are not satisfied with just any kind of glasses. They insist on having glasses made to meet their individual requirements. Nothing you wear is more conspicuous than your glasses and whether or not you "look well in glasses" depends wholly on the style of mounting and shape of lenses. Only glasses that are made to order can satisfy discriminating people.

Because of our shop on the premises we are prepared to fit you with that kind of glasses. And it costs you nothing extra.

Is Your Youngster Ready for School?

will be mean enough to remark, "Anything for an office."

The parent who lets his children race the streets is starting them on the wrong track.

One of the things we enjoy the most and don't know when we are getting it, is refreshing sleep.

February will have 29 days 24 times in this century—the largest possible number. The fellow who arranges these things must have realized that in this bustling age we need all the time we can get.

If there were no advertising in it, not nearly so much money would be given to charity.

Most people gauge their trust of other people by their knowledge of how far others can trust them.

Some people are beginning to believe that they are being fleeced by the woolen schedules.

The sins of the fathers shall be visited upon the children even unto the third and fourth generation, we are told—and some people will leave enough to go around.

The man who spends his time boasting of what he has done will not get anything else done to talk about.

There are too many good intentions in connection with the good roads movement.

The decolette woman may be retiring and still not appear as if she were trying to hide much.

The "drys" have accomplished a lot since the day the whole earth was covered with water.

Compliments, even when you don't mean them, are better any day in the week than knocks that you do mean.

You never live with a woman so long but that once in a while she will do something to dispel any incipient notion you may have had about understanding her.

If we only attempted to do those things which our contemporaries acknowledge that we are able to do, progress would come to a standstill. Do not be discouraged by ridicule.

The person who does not feel that he is an improvement on the general run of mankind usually is.

The person who hasn't any git to him will be compelled to work up enough energy to git out.

There are a lot of people who enjoy doing their duty when the grandstand is crowded.

The sun never sets for the person whose face always bears a smile.

No drug has ever been discovered that is strong enough to cure a heartache.

The man who doesn't do his best isn't getting all that there is in life for him.

A New York girl lost her mind while visiting in Philadelphia. Of course the police haven't a clue to the perpetrator of the theft as yet.

"Kissing Another Man's Wife Cost Him His Life" is a headline in a daily. The increased cost of living is a more serious matter than we had supposed.

When a man is "in the soup" he is not usually "in the swim."

Have you ever noticed how a married man will edge his way through a seemingly solid crowd? It comes from his practice in trying to get a word in edgewise.

PARTY LOYALTY SHOWN AT REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Personal Animities Gone; Committee Will Frame Platform for Candidates to Support.

Party loyalty and enthusiastic support of the candidates of the party in the coming election marked the meeting of Oregon republicans Saturday in Eugene, the first real assembly of the party in this state since the advent of the state primary law, and any personal animosities or differences that may have tended to separate the party were forgotten in the spirit of cooperation that was evident throughout the all-day session. Walter Tooze Jr., chairman of the state central committee, presided.

A program of republican principles and the party's stand on various issues will be worked out soon by a committee appointed by Chairman Tooze. Party responsibility rather than individual opinion of the candidates and others attending the caucus. An impassioned plea for an open declaration of the stand of the republican party, in regard to the various issues of the present campaign was made by George Neuner Jr., of Roseburg, who declared that the candidates should support the principles that have received the stamp of approval of the party and that the issues should be met in the open and the party policies placed on record in the form of a constructive program that will have the undivided support of every republican on the ticket.

The committee named to frame the party platform includes all the defeated candidates, except Senator Hall, who was not present at the meeting; Bruce Dennis, state senator, is the chairman. Others appointed are: L. L. Patterson, L. E. Benn, George A. White and J. D. Lee, who were candidates against Mr. Olett in the primary; R. E. Farrell, B. L. Eddy, E. D. Cusick and Gus C. Moser, candidates for president of the state senate; K. K. Kubli, Tom Kays, Denton Burdick and Herbert Gordon, candidates for speaker of the house of representatives; L. N. Day, who will be specialist on taxes; Lair W. Thompson, A. J. Johnson, George Neuner, Jr., T. T. Bennett, Jay Upton and Roy Ritzer. The following county chairmen were also placed in the committee: F. A. McCully, Enterprise; M. Fitzmaurice, Condon; Bert Anderson, Medford, and W. A. Massingill, Lakeview.

The committee will meet in Portland September 26.

A telegram was sent to President Harding pledging him support in this hour of trial in his administration and also wishing the speedy recovery of Mrs. Harding, who is seriously ill.

That success is assured for the Republican ticket and that solid party ranks will stand behind the candidates was the opinion of Walter Tooze, Jr., chairman of the state committee, following the gathering which he characterized as one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the party since the abolition of the convention system.

The day's meetings closed with a banquet at which Governor Ben W. Olett was the principal speaker. Other prominent figures in the party were also called upon for brief addresses, all of whom expressed only hope and confidence over the success of the campaign.

Mrs. F. L. Chambers was the only woman who spoke at the meetings. John Straub, dean of men at University of Oregon for 46 years, was another Republican who took an active part.

140 APPRAISALS ARE MADE BY LANE COUNTY BONUS BOARD

One hundred and forty pieces of farm and city property have been appraised as security for veterans' state aid loans by the Lane county board of appraisers for the bonus commission and the work is largely completed, according to members of the board. Only a few cases are in sight to be appraised at the present time. It was estimated that about 400 loans would be taken in the county but seemingly many of the ex-service men who have applied for loans are not yet ready to receive the money or have not the proper security at present.

Appraisements have been prompt in Lane county and the ex-service man has received his money soon after the claims were completed. John Hobbs and John Dillard, of Eugene, and Claude Washburne, of Junction City, comprise the Lane county board.

Swain, rural school supervisor, addressed the meeting, which was held preliminary to the opening of most of the rural schools of the county this week and next.
