

To the Girls and Boys and All My Friends

I wish to inform you that I have been sending Toys and Christmas Goods of all kinds to The Fair Store for the last three months. I have instructed them to hurry up and get them so you all can see them. They have informed me that they will have out a great many Toys and Novelties and all their Cut Glass and Chinaware on SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, and they will have their complete

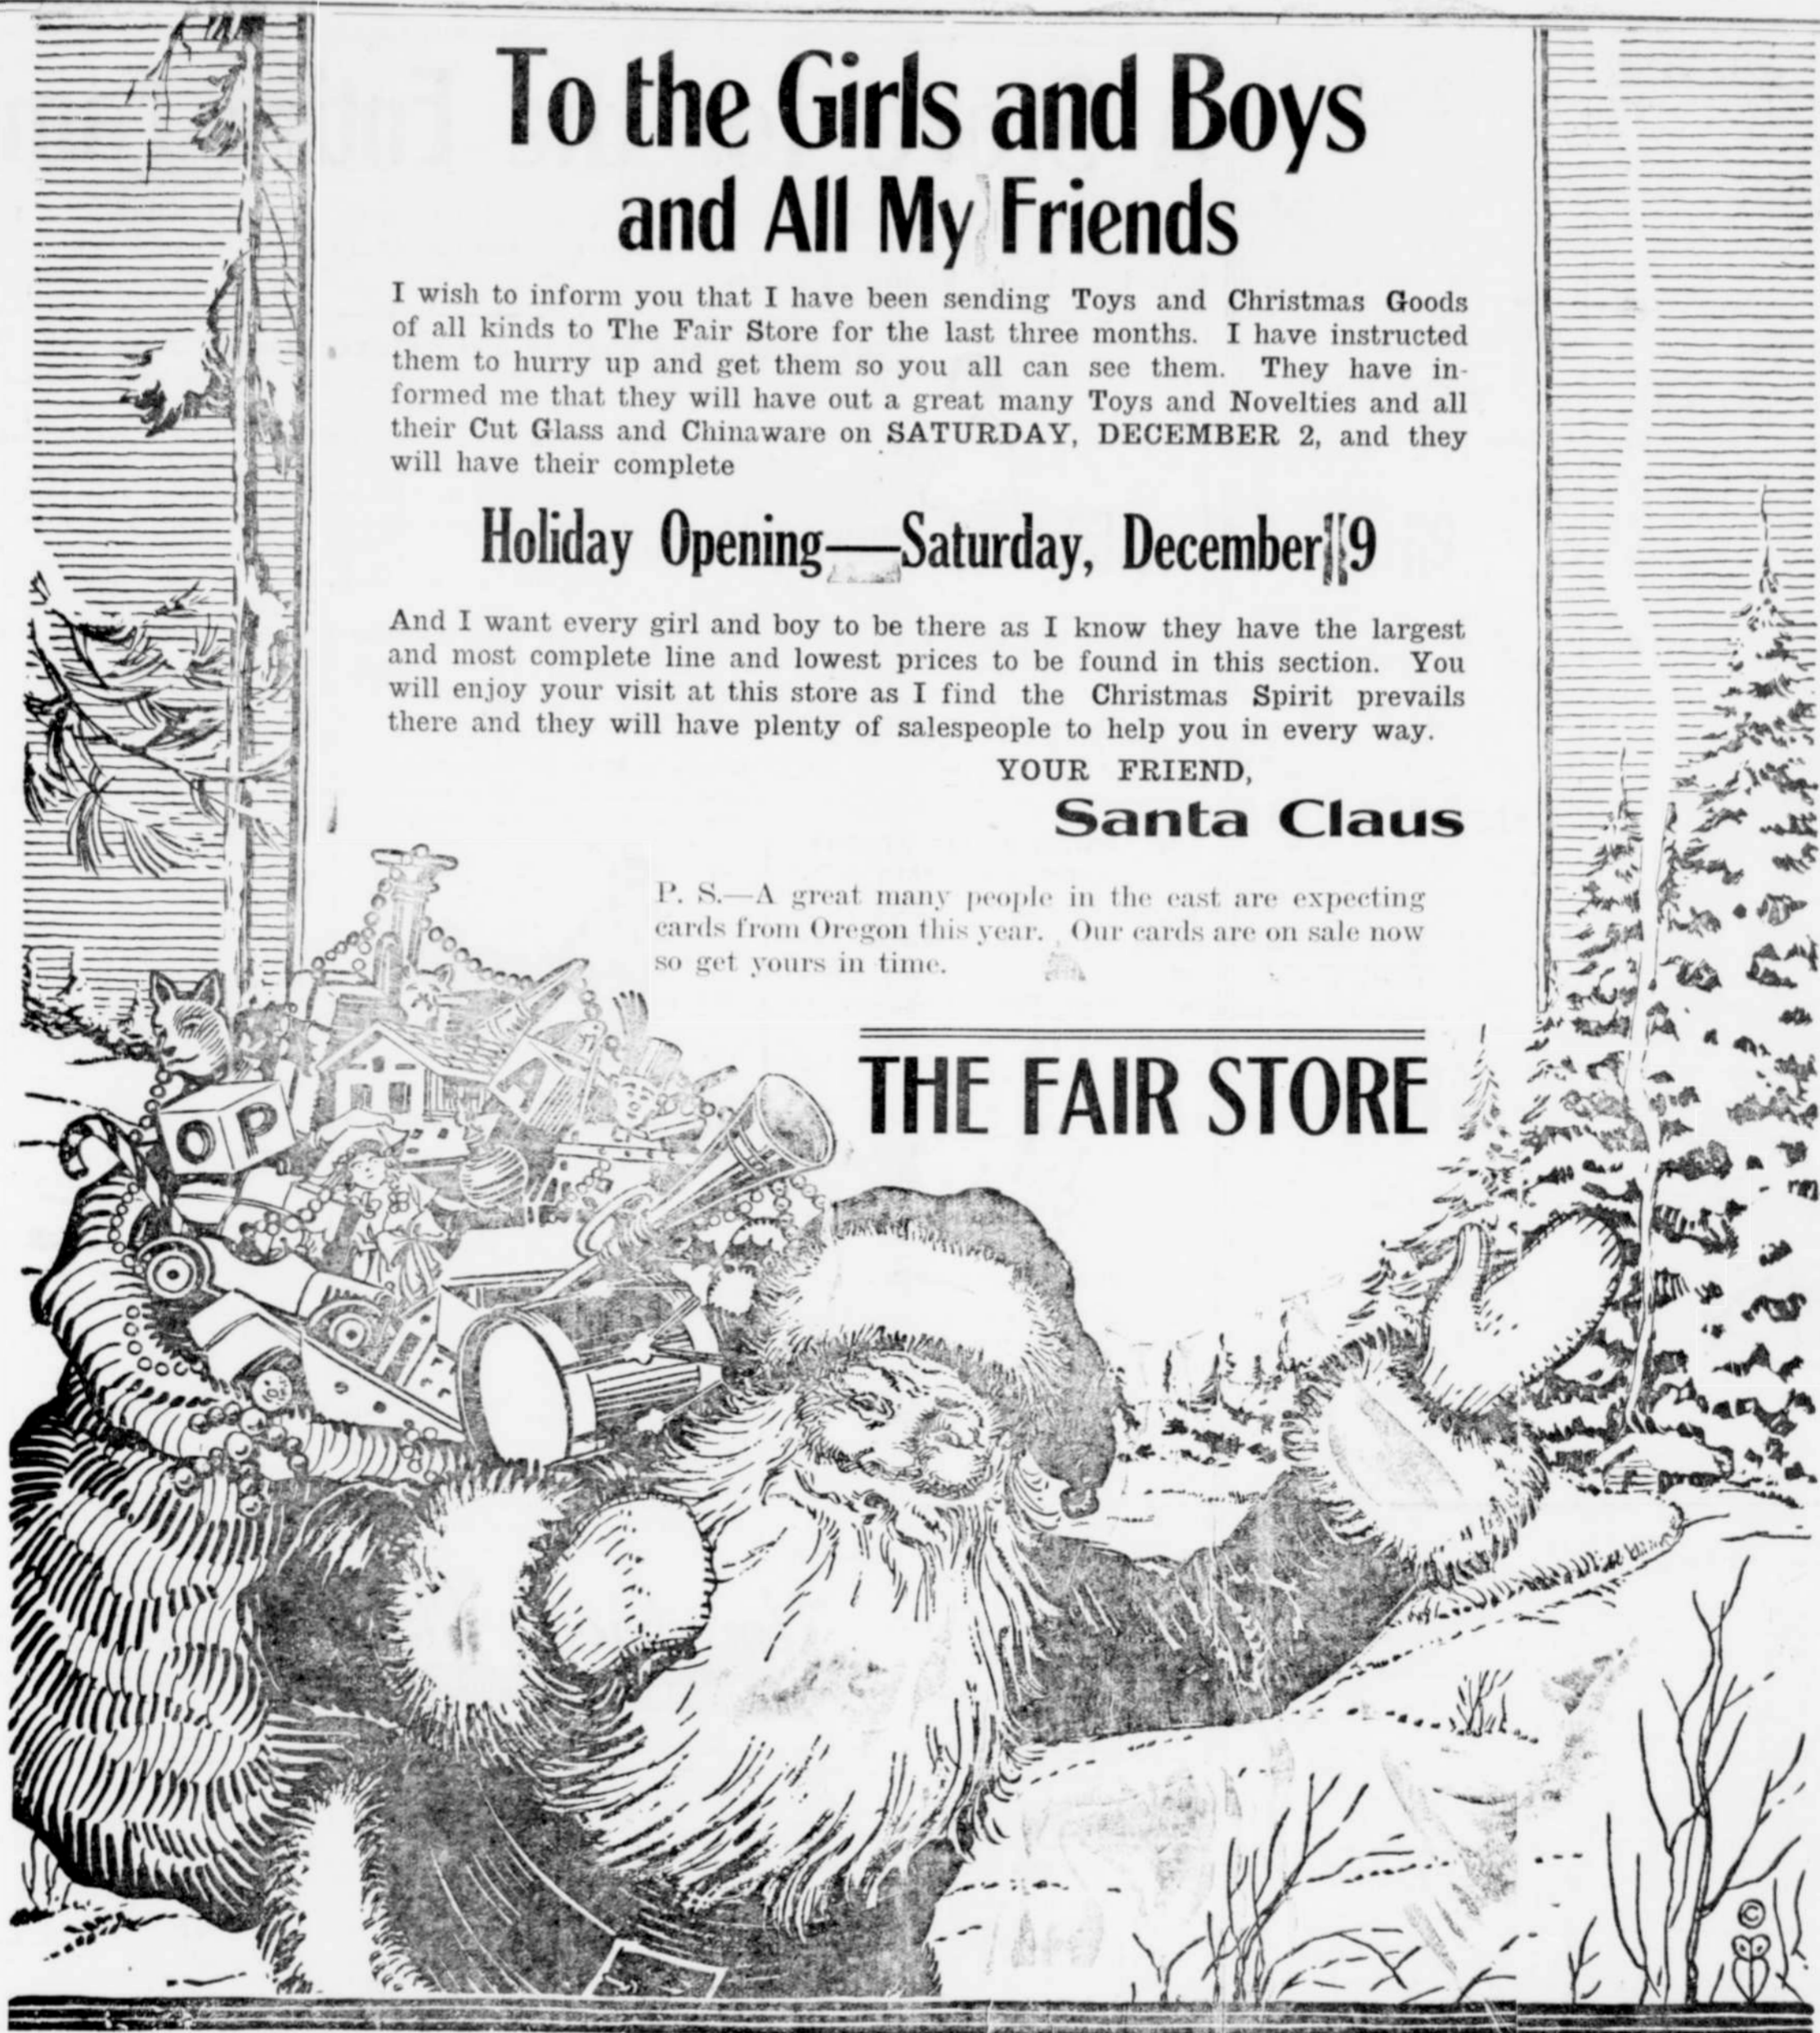

Holiday Opening—Saturday, December 19

And I want every girl and boy to be there as I know they have the largest and most complete line and lowest prices to be found in this section. You will enjoy your visit at this store as I find the Christmas Spirit prevails there and they will have plenty of salespeople to help you in every way.

YOUR FRIEND,
Santa Claus

P. S.—A great many people in the east are expecting cards from Oregon this year. Our cards are on sale now so get yours in time.

THINGS WE THINK

Things Others Think and What We Think of the Things Others Think

If folks using the telephone only know the difference in the impression made between "Who is this?" and "Is this so-and-so?" they would never use the former.

The pay envelope contains a message of good cheer.

There are two stages in a man's life when he acts like a dunce. Once is when he is a boy—the second, when he has a boy.

We shout our denunciations to the scolding masses; our praises we whisper to the sighing forests.

Kissing spreads microbes. Well, we're willing to give the microbes a chance.

If other people could go from tears to laughter as easily as the little tots, how much happier all of us would be.

It's proper to be frank and outspoken when you have something good to say.

A doctor has risen to fame by declaring that in the near future kissing will be confined to the lower classes. No one will want to graduate.

Divorce suits keep some lawyers in clothes.

A Wyoming man went crazy after mowing the lawn and spitting half a cord of wood. There must have been something wrong with him in the first place or he wouldn't have butted into his wife's work.

It is well to be on time, but the man who is always an hour ahead of his appointments may get the reputation of being a loafer.

The fellow who brags about his success is something of a bore, but he's a genial companion compared to the fellow who is always whining and finding fault.

The real law-abiding citizen is the one who obeys the law unconsciously and not for fear of the consequences.

When a political party is "in" for long it gets found out.

The mee of the future is said to have been found in the interior of Africa. We'll wager a reasonable amount that our own William Jennings Bryan will be in it.

It's funny that some people take pleasure in telling about what a disreputable bunch of relatives they have.

The world is growing better and Pittsburg is growing worse.

The straight-jacket is made for people with an evil bent.

Half of the people don't deserve the praise that they get and the other half don't get half what they deserve.

You quit looking further into your ancestry when you find that you must trace the thread through a hangman's noose.

When a girl seems to know the exact location where her head fits the best you may be sure that you are not the first one upon whose shoulder she has laid it.

The Corvallis (Ore.) Gazette-Times suggests that if the anti-kissing campaign results in a national law its enforcement be left to the prohibition director. The Gazette-Times probably also would suggest that its enforcement get about the same results that prohibition enforcement gets.

Some men who run for office take an entirely different gait in getting there after they are elected.

When a woman will love a man just because no one else will, how can you expect all marriages to be happy ones?

One reason that there seems to be so much badness in the world is because the good is so common that it passes without comment while crimes are scarce-headed to the world.

If everyone should at one time stop buying the things they don't need there would be an equal or greater number deprived of the means of buying what they have to have.

Anyone who would take the time to discover perpetual youth would frivolously waste his time without making any use of his discovery.
