

THINGS WE THINK

Things Others Think and What We Think of the Things Others Think

HIGHER MATHEMATICS.
The man who was sent to the insane asylum because he insisted there were 20 in his family, while the court found that there were only he and his wife, may have figured that his wife was 2 and he was the 0.

The man who is a brute is usually an ass.

All happiness would be lost if we should attain every ambition.

SOME THINGS BEST KEPT QUIET.
Many people who mourn that they receive no public attention would feel much worse if the public insisted on knowing all about everything they did.

A woman would rather not know a secret than not have anyone to tell it to.

The harder the climb the greater the reward—if it be only your own satisfaction over the achievement.

Folks will do a lot of foolish things trying to make others believe they know a lot more than they do.

THE BLUSHING, RETIRING BRIDE.
A woman doesn't like to get married in a town that doesn't have at least two newspapers.

CATCH 'EM YOUNG; TREAT 'EM ROUGH.
When a girl is being courted she likes to feel that she has a boss whose wishes must be obeyed. We advise young men to make the most of that feeling while it lasts.

HARD TO PLEASE.
Your wife gets just about as tired of having you around all the time as of not having you around any of the time.

Once in a while you'll find an old maid who doesn't want to get married.

When a man gets unsteady on his legs the cop is likely to put him in limbo.

LUXURIES COME CHEAP.
At St. Joseph, Mo., the value of a man's love has been fixed at $2. Living is not very high for girls in that city.

The girl is all the world to her lover—and all the world loves a lover.

The biggest fool is the one who knows it all.

With two young women on a sofa, give a man an inch and he'll get between them.

A man who doesn't care for any opinion but his own isn't always so certain that he is well thought of.

Every man has a hope that somewhere there is a rich relative he has never heard of who may die and leave him a wad of money.

THE MILLS OF THE GODS.
It takes almost as long to get a case through the several courts of trial and appeal as it does a woman to get ready for a show when she knows a social rival has seats near by.

where the concern is weak on management.

The ship of state gets into deep water when the government goes after the stock of the big corporations.

A physical giant is quite often the smallest, meanliest whelp on earth.

Often a compliment is much more diplomatic than the truth.

THE ANVIL CHORUS.
People of Philadelphia say one of the new plays is too loud. It must be a noisy one to have disturbed that town.

When anger or passion has made a person not himself is when he shows what he is.

There were 70 volcanoes in the world before Senators Johnson and LaFollette were born.

ADVANCING UPON THE REAR.
Some well-to-do philanthropists, with much commendable concern for the common people, have elucidated, after much investigation, a theory that if we substitute rump roasts for high-priced steaks on our bill-of-fare, the price of beef will decline. This is at least getting behind the meat question.

A man is not as bad as his wife thinks he was before he came under her influence—nor half as good as she thinks she has made him.

We suggest that a steering committee be sent to Washington to see if something can't be done about the price of beef.

SAFETY FIRST.
We are again informed that the end of the world is near at hand. Well, let 'er come; we don't intend to risk our life trying to stop it.

A man naturally draws around him friends adapted to his own code of morals.

Pawnbrokers probably know the redeeming characteristics of a lot of people.

WHAT'S THE IDEA!
It is not plain whether the prosecution for shipment of liquor into Kentucky is instigated by prohibitionists or is for the protection of home industry.

NO USE OVERDOING IT.
Why launder paper money! None of us carries it as much as a week, and a bath often that would be a waste of energy.

BOOZY BUSY BEES.
Clatsop county, Oregon, honey producers advertise that their bees find and feed on piles of mash thrown away by moonshiners. That story about bees flying on a straight line home will have to go into the discard.

A person who has the blues isn't necessarily a colored person.

Some men haven't sense enough to make use of what sense they have.

A DISTANT GOAL.
If we could be as important a factor in the progress of this and other worlds as some folks think they are, we would be more than content.

ALWAYS MISUNDERSTOOD.
When you are about to compliment yourself for exhibiting firmness at the proper moment, doesn't it irritate you to have someone accuse you of being wilfully obstinate?

Love is blind—that is why it gets along just as well without a light.

There is not such a cry for higher education as there is for just common, ordinary common sense.

The road to glory is full of chuck holes.

MANY BACHELORS LEFT.
There are still many men in the world who will have nothing to do with anything they don't thoroughly understand—so there is no danger of the supply of bachelors running out.

THERE ARE NONE SUCH.
The man who keeps his eyes on his work while a plump woman pines in a knee skirt, is too innocent and unobserving to be allowed on the street without a chaperon.

KISSES AND TENSES MIXED.
There is no use to fuss about whether to spell it "kissed" or "kist." You can spend your time much more profitably by trying to make it present tense.

BAD ASSOCIATES.
Limburger cheese is now being made from the soja bean. The hitherto respectable and unassuming bean is forming associations that may bring it into ill-repute.

It's funny how a man will wake up and lie awake on mornings that he can lie abed if he wants to.

LET GEORGE DO IT.
It's funny how much confidence human beings have that someone else can fix something that they have given up themselves.

A member of a watch trust is reported to be in danger of getting a jail sentence with a 20-year guarantee.

Some married people don't get well enough acquainted with one another—others too well.

The college man who is eminently successful would have survived anyway.

Just as soon as a man gets a dollar's worth of stock in a million-dollar concern he begins to see

About Precocious Children.
It always gladdens the mother's heart to see the pert little duplicates of herself take to books with eagerness, and to stand at the head of the class at school. She likes to hear the teacher say that her children are precocious or advanced for their age. The diligent little bookworm is the pet of the family. His mother and sisters will not only encourage him, but assist him in his abnormal swallowing of knowledge—by way of giving him books that are too difficult for him, or allowing him to work over his lessons long hours at night. They sometimes harbor the idea that when he grows up he may be a genius. Such tendencies among mothers always remind one of the "intellectual forcing" of little Dombey under Dr. Blimber, the consequences of which many will remember. Any mother who may be affected with vanity of this kind ought to forewarn herself. Nature demands a nice balance in everything and if parents are partial to the mind and neglect the body during the period of most rapid physical growth, a reckoning of some kind is bound to come. My advice to mothers is, don't "push" your children at school when they are small, especially if they are tiny and feeble. If precocious, try to restrain their abnormal mental proclivities by insisting on out-door play as much as possible. Pride yourself rather on their robust health, for where that exists and is sustained through youth the brain will have ample support to grapple with hard mental tasks when they are due.—Spirit Lake Herald.

"WHY MAN OF TODAY IS ONLY 50% EFFICIENT" is a little book now being given away by us. It tells interestingly and scientifically why "that tired feeling", headaches and biliousness are but forerunners of more serious troubles, if we only knew it, as well as keeping us but half fit for the strenuous life necessary for the success that should be ours.

It also tells how, by the scientific use of simple warm water, this condition can be permanently corrected, and we can be one hundred per cent every morning in the year.

Medicine has no part in the result, but millions of enlightened Americans have read this book in the past few years, and are now delighted with the health they enjoy through the simple home practice which it explains.

It is free to you. Ask for it today while it is still on your mind.
