HOSPITAL UNIT 46 AUTHORIZED FOR MEDICAL SCHOOL

Surgeon General of U. S. Army Places Reserve Group at U. of O. Branch in Portland.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Jan. 30—The establishment of a general hospital unit with a complete complement of reserve officers, enlisted personnel and nurses at the University of Oregon school of medicine in Portland has been authorized by the surgeon general of the army, according to advices just received from Washington. The unit will be known as General Hospital No. 46, and will be available for service in time of emergency.

A reserve officers training corps, in which medical students are trained in military hygiene, medicine and surgery, was recently established at the school of medicine. With the organization of the hospital unit, the school of medicine is prepared to do its part effectively should the army call for its services. Lieutenant-Colonel W. A. Powell, U. S. Medical Corps, retired, has been assigned to conduct the training. Students who take the four-year B. O. T. C. course are eligible for first Lieutenancies in the medical corps.

During the world war base hospital No. 46 was organized at the school of medicine, and officers, enlisted men and nurses who composed the unit served in France for more than a year. The hospital was financed by the Elks lodge, the order donating $60,000 toward its equipment. The unit was under the command of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Yonney, who was professor of medicine in the medical school at the time of his death. The hospital rendered distinguished service and Colonel Yonney was decorated in recognition of his services.

The unit included, among others, a number of the faculty of the school of medicine who held rank as follows: Major Richard B. Dillehunt, Major Robert Louis Benson, Major Laurence Selling, Major William S. Knox, Major Ralph A. Fenton, Major O. B. Wright and Lieutenant Arthur S. Rosenfeld. A number of other members of the medical school faculty saw service in other units. All of these men will be eligible for enrollment in the officer personnel of general hospital No. 46.

COURSES IN RELIGION OFFERED AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Minister and Churches of City Operate to Give Biblical Literature and Philosophy.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Jan. 30, 1923—(Special)—The recently organized Council of Religion of the University of Oregon is offering three courses in religion this winter to students wishing to continue their study of Biblical literature and the philosophy of religion. The courses are designed to give the student a comprehensive understanding of religion and are of university standard, according to members of the council.

Rev. W. H. L. Marshall, pastor of the Congregational church of Eugene is offering a course in the outlines of the philosophy of religion. Students in this class are meeting twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. The general aim of this course is to aid the student in organizing and systematizing his own religious beliefs in the light of the religious experience and knowledge of mankind and the generally accepted and established truths of science.

Masterpieces of Biblical literature is the course offered by Rev. Bruce J. Giffen, Presbyterian University Pastor. The Bible is the main textbook of this course. Students learn how the Bible grew, tracing the development of religious ideas through the Bible. The term's work will begin early in February with the study of selected portions from the narrative prose of the Old Testament.

While no University credits are given in the courses the University has welcomed the offering of the work by the Council of Religion. The Council of Religion is composed of faculty and student representatives of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A., with representatives of the following churches: Baptist, Christian, Congregational, Methodist, Episcopal and Presbyterian.

FARM POINTERS

(From O. A. C. Experiment Station Bulletin.)
Making plans for the garden at this time is wise, since the gardener has more time available to consider carefully what crops he is going to grow this year, and how much of each. For commercial gardens the crops and acreage of each should be carefully thought out before actual decision is made. Too great an acreage of vegetables is often heedlessly planned without forethought as to where the crop will be sold.

Sixteen cars of certified seed wheat were shipped out of Umatilla county for use as seed in the inland empire. Turkey red, Hybrid 128 and Jenkin club were the varieties in demand. Additional orders for certified wheat are being received by the growers.

Good farming is one of the best methods of combating insect pests. Rotation of crops, fall and winter plowing, destruction of crop remnants and cleaning up of trash on the fields, cleaning up or burning over fence rows and ditches, good seed in well-repaired bed, right use of fertilizers, and frequent summer surface cultivation, all help to keep the crop up and the insect down. Progressive farmers generally suffer less from insect damage than their less progressive neighbors.

Smut treatment by copper carbonate dust demands a high grade of material to be effective, and an adequate method of application that will cover every kernel. Dusting the material on by shoveling over is not sufficient. The O. A. C. experiment station recommends that the seed be treated in some tight box or hopper that can be rotated like a churn.

Early plowing of sod land is advisable in February and March in western Oregon, where there is open weather. Plowing of clover and other sod offers opportunity for decay action and should result in better yields. For intensive crops, as potatoes or other cash crops, it will pay to plow shallow in late winter to start decay action, and then plow three or four inches deeper several weeks before the soil settles.

Alfalfa may be killed out by plowing deeply with a sharp plow.

Disking before plowing at this season is less necessary, and is usually undesirable.

Experienced buyers of vegetable seed for gardening choose standard varieties and specify their wants in such a manner as to get what they want and accept no inferior substitutes. No gardener who prides himself on any vegetables grown can be satisfied with a mere request for carrot or beet seed or a package of cabbage or corn seed. Vegetable varieties are as well defined as apple varieties or the different breeds of hogs. Why dilly dally along with a variety of seed of unknown value when you can get varieties of proved worth? A recommended list of horticultural varieties of vegetables will be sent to any grower sending a request to the Clerical Exchange, O. A. C., Corvallis, Ore.

Wonder If She Did?
Considerable publicity was recently accorded to an unusual incident. A lad in a neighboring town fell from a tree and dislocated the vertebrae of his neck. He was rushed to a hospital and the bones readjusted and in a few weeks he was as good as new. On his return to school his teacher told him he must bring a written excuse for his absence from one of his parents. The next day the teacher received a note signed by the mother and reading as follows: "Please excuse Johnny for being out of school for the last three weeks. He fell from a tree and broke his neck. By doing the same you will oblige."

Another Way of Taking It.
Two health enthusiasts were discussing methods, when one of them said: "You still take your morning bath, do you?"

"Never miss it, my boy," replied the other. "Sometimes I take it hot, sometimes cold, and when I'm in a rush I take it for granted."

Wanted Smaller Job.
Albert's mother had been watching him squirm as he studied his next church lesson. Finally she inquired: "What's the matter, Albert?"

"Oh mother," he burst out, "this catechism is awfully hard. Isn't there a kitty-chism I could study?"

And Then, Beware!
A motorist on entering the state of Connecticut is handed a card which lists a set of rules for the safety and convenience of everybody. The operator is expected to cooperate to successfully perform his duty whereby any accident may be avoided.

Better Than Counting Sheep.
When you can't get to sleep just jolly yourself with belief that it is morning and high time you were getting up and about. If you are once in this will put you to sleep at once.

Here is a Cottage Grove citizen's recommendation:

When Winter grips your oil

An overworked starter and exhausted batteries are only a part of the price you pay for using an oil which congeals in cold weather.

While the starter is grinding away and before the heat of the engine is sufficient to melt the congealed oil, serious damage may result from lack of lubrication to cylinder walls and bearing surfaces.

Zerolene Flows Freely at Zero

Zerolene No. 1, No. 3 and No. 5, which are good cold test oils, remain fluid and meet winter conditions perfectly. They move freely about the pistons and bearings, and offer a minimum of resistance in the engine, thereby relieving the battery.

Lubricate exclusively with Zerolene, adopting the cold weather recommendations in the Zerolene chart at garages and service stations, and you will avoid cold weather troubles.

Why Internal Baths Always Assure Vigorous Health

There's one good reason why you don't feel just as vigorous and confident one day as you do the next—

Also why most so-called healthy people are half sick all the time—

And this will continue to be so until we all do heavy manual labor every day or take an occasional Internal Bath.

The real reason for this is truthfully told in a little book "Why Man of Today is Only 50% Efficient", which I will be glad to give you free on request.

There are scientific facts here given in simple English, which are not commonly known—so why not ask for your copy today.
