Edd Jenks Gets Judgment.
Edd Jenks has been given judgment in the sum of $6000 against the Oregon and Ohio Mines company, operating in the Bohemia district. Foreclosure was ordered on a number of liens on mining claims to secure payment.

Models of Politeness.
Miss Mildred Melville Mallison, the anti-vice worker, said in an address at Pittsburg: "The freedom now granted to women is a gain but it is also a loss. In one of my recent anti-vice campaigns I put up at a New Orleans hotel. Entering the breakfast room one morning I found three fat men established there, each with a newspaper and a black cigar. The room was full of smoke. While waiting for my breakfast I coughed several times, but nobody took the hint, so I said as if to myself, 'H'm! I always understood that New Orleans men were models of French politeness.' The three fat men were on their feet in an instant, smiling and bowing like so many monkeys. 'Pardon me, madam,' said they in chorus, and each opened and extended to me courteously a cigar case full of big black cigars."

The armor plate trust is naturally impervious to all attacks of its enemies.

DUE TO MENTAL IRRITATION

Propensity for Smashing Things Explained by British Institute of Industrial Psychology.

What makes the cook smash dishes, even when she is not angry, and what causes a factory hand to damage production unintentionally, has been puzzled out by experts of the National Institute of Industrial Psychology of Great Britain.

Pieces of mental grit get into human machinery and play hob. A large amount of breakage is due to mental irritation, which is largely a result of fatigue. The worker who is not tired has sufficient energy to use in checking his irritability; the worker who has been performing mechanical motions all day shows his boredom by crashing something to the floor.

Breakage becomes epidemic at times, the British experts have found. Where groups of workers are engaged in handling the same material, excitement, fluster, hurry or irritation in one section quickly spreads to another. Where there is a regular flow of material with rush periods it is found that both the excitement of the rush and the reaction of the slack time damage efficiency and incidentally damage the things that are being handled. By introducing a steady flow of material there is a noticeable rise in efficiency.

DIDN'T PAY TO KEEP BOOKS

On the Contrary, New York Storekeeper Found He Made Money by Not Doing So.

A prominent denizen of Wall Street, who summers at a fashionable seashore resort, was annoyed on his return home to receive a bill for a few small trinkets for which he was sure he had paid previous to his departure. Having always prided himself on his efficient business methods, and since the same store had done the identical thing the year before, he wrote a scathing letter to the storekeeper, giving his opinion of the man who employed methods which were the direct antithesis of his own. The incident soon slipped his mind and was not recalled until the following summer when he happened to pass the store. His anger having cooled he determined to give the storekeeper some friendly advice.

"Well," said the storekeeper, in reply to his lengthy discourse, "we don't keep any books and, to tell the truth, it pays us not to. For example, last summer I sold a saddle, but when it came time to make out the bill I couldn't for the life of me remember who bought it. I finally narrowed it down to four people and sent them all bills. As a result, I was paid by three of them, so you see there is no necessity for our keeping books."

Custom of Breaking Money.

To break a piece of money at parting, each keeping a part, was a bond of fidelity at one time among lovers. This came from very remote times, before inns and houses of public accommodation were known.

Travelers had then to trust to the hospitality of strangers living on the road, and it was customary at parting to divide some article, such as a white stone or small coin, and for the host and guest each to take a part, that if the host required similar hospitality from his guest he might claim it by showing his token.

In the Revelation of St. John this custom is referred to where Christ says, "To him that overcometh will I give a white stone," so that at the Day of Judgment he may demand admission into heaven.

Electro-Chemical Colors.

The preparation of mineral and artificial organic colors by the aid of electricity has made considerable progress and it is suggested that the products of the industry may eventually replace those derived from coal tar. Among the colors now produced in commercial quantities by the employment of the electric current are vermilion, Scheel's green, cadmium yellow, Japanese red, cerise or cherry red, Berlin green and zinc white, besides a number of organic colors. The process consists essentially in sending an electric current through a solution containing the elements required for the production by precipitation, of the coloring matter desired.—Exchange.

Famous Old Restaurants.

What is the oldest restaurant in the world now open for business? Paris has at least one restaurant, the Cafe de la Regence, which is more than 200 years old; the Mitre hotel at Oxford, England, is said to be 500 years old; the Rathskeller at Bremen was built in 1405, the curious little restaurant known as the Burtwurstloeklein, in Nuremberg, which is part of a church, has, it is believed, been serving roast sausages since the year 1400; and the Capello Nero restaurant, in Venice, traces its beginnings back to the year 1370.

Hawaii's Equable Climate.

There is no question but that Hawaii has great natural beauty and a climate that is probably the most equable in the world. The average temperature for 30 years in Honolulu was 78 degrees, 24 hours a day, 12 months in the year. There is probably no other spot in the world that can boast such an even climate; but the rainfall varies according to the location. Honolulu rainfalls average about thirty inches a year, but on the windward side of some of the islands the rainfall sometimes reaches 300 and 400 inches a year.—Adventure Magazine.

Mr. Live Business Man!

There are many forms which a business firm may use that cost but little yet save a great deal of time and make a record that often proves convenient and valuable.

For example it is often convenient to have a carbon copy of each order that is sent to a wholesale house. It is then possible to find in a moment what goods have been ordered. The date they were ordered can be learned at the same time. It is often important to know whether a mistake in an order was made by the person placing the order or by the person shipping it. The carbon copy gives the information in a moment.

It is often important to have a list of items covered by a check, as well as a record of discounts taken. Duplicate remittance blanks give this information at once to the person receiving the check and the same information is on file with the person making the remittance.

The Sentinel can make these or other forms upon short notice. Many firms in Cottage Grove are now using these and other forms printed by The Sentinel.

If there is any kind of record you wish to keep and are in doubt as to the kind of form best adapted for the purpose, The Sentinel is always ready to assist you. It has worked out forms for many customers and is ready to do the same for you.
