THE BEST INVESTMENT.

Albert Shaw in one of his lectures to young men says "the best investment a young man can make is in himself." The best qualification he can have also is a sufficient confidence in himself to make that investment even at a present sacrifice for the sake of the resulting greater capacity.

It is always something of a pull for a young man to let go of the sure small advantage to reach for the larger opportunity, and many a boy grows to old age intermittently feeling that he is wasting his life, and covering at the risk of letting go of the immediate advantage. He wraps his talent in his sure thing and hides it in mediocrity. It takes the same class of ability to do a thing in a large way that it does to do it successfully in a small way. The greater operation only requires the greater field and extending the same talent to cover it, and the young man who hesitates through fancied modesty really hesitates through cowardice.

It is all a matter of training and all training must begin in himself and end in himself. No one while remaining in a one-inch job can swell to the capacity of a two-inch job, but when he submits to the confinement of circumstances he has no excuse for railing at fate for suffering him to do so.

As Mr. Shaw says, "if trained capacity has been a valuable asset in the past, it becomes the one indispensable asset under the new conditions." And the trained capacity each boy and man should always have in stock is that which fits him for the position of the man above him, and he can only have this where he is willing to work beyond his immediate requirement for the reward in the work itself.

When a man's work has become drudgery he has reached the limit of his ability to perform it. When it becomes mere routine he has reached the limit of his growth in it or through it. Drudgery and routine are unworthy of any person and none with ambition can continue in it.

"The work itself must absorb the mind and the pay come as a secondary consideration" in order that a man shall return the highest value to society. For it is what a man likes best that he does best, and the joy of achievement must far outstrip any possible incentive from financial gain. Then it is that a man lives most during all his years and dies leaving the greatest possible heritage of which he was capable.

City Employee Is Out With Facts in Case

"Twice the Tanlac treatment made me feel like a different man, each time adding several pounds to my weight, so I am fully convinced of its wonderful building power," declares C. M. Rooves, city fireman, 1815 Cincinnati St., Spokane, Wash. "Two years ago I was so run-down I wasn't good for anything. All appetite had left me, and food, instead of nourishing me, bloated me up, forming gas that pressed round my heart so I couldn't breathe without suffering. "Three bottles of Tanlac made me feel as good as I ever had, and straightened out my stomach so I could eat three big meals every day, and I always felt ready for work.

"Last spring I took the treatment again when feeling run-down, and this time two bottles made me eat, sleep, work and feel splendid. Tanlac certainly does the work."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere. spt22

A CAMPAIGN SLOGAN
A new party, in its declaration of principles, made the following statement: "We affirm that the immediate need of this day is a closer, more intimate and more living relationship between the people and the government. If it had declared the immediate need as a closer, more intimate relationship between the stomach and the cost of living it would have struck a more popular chord."

Ex-president Taft hit the nail on the head in one of his recent addresses. He took the position that all girls should be surrounded with conditions to prevent them from marrying as a matter of necessity. He said that while he only proposed giving his girls a good education and a good name he intended to place his girls in a financial condition which would enable them to marry only when they freely chose to do so. If all girls were placed above actual want, there would be less failures and disappointments cropping out in the divorce courts.
