

GASOLINE JUMPS 10 PER CENT

The inevitable has at last occurred. As previously reported, the peak of oil production was passed in the U. S. early in the summer, since which time the amount produced has been on the decline each month, and about the same time the N. Y. Stock Exchange began to quote a rise in oil shares, which has been continued from that date to the present time. From Wall street reports dated Dec. 31 we quote as follows: "The last day of the year on the curb market saw another sharp advance in oil shares"; Jan. 7: "Advance in a number of eastern grade crude oils"; Jan. 16: "Oil shares came to the front again in today's stock market, showing a further rise. * * * Mr. Sinclair said that the oil outlook had never been better, that domestic production had fallen below consumption, that he expected prices to continue going up and that if consumption abroad proves anything like what he expected to find it, the oil trade will be in for a serious shortage"; Jan. 21: "Oil shares came in for more attention than any other group. * * * The feature was the further advance in Associated Oil, accompanied by active buying in Pacific Oil at the highest prices yet reached on the present move."

Many more similar to the above can be given, but these will suffice to show the general trend, resulting in a 10% rise to Oregon consumers, with a still further rise quite possible at no distant date, judging from present indications. The only avenue through which our people can bring any influence to bear is by helping those endeavoring to develop this commodity within our own commonwealth and save the long haul expense, besides keeping our money at home and giving employment to our own citizens, as well as securing an investment with a bright outlook.

Recent developments here continue to grow more encouraging. Operations at the Cottage Grove well are most satisfactory. Oil bearing structures are encountered similar to those at Eugene, only at a shallower depth, showing the same oil possibilities at both places. Eugene's latest development consists of an unexpected headway of 30 feet being made in 24 hours through a rich formation of red paraffine substance, which still continues at last accounts and certainly spells OIL further down, so Head Driller Reeves says. He has had over 20 years' experience at this work and should be a competent judge.

Two more wells in Oregon, with even greater promise, may be added to these above at no distant date. Thus the movement assumes shape and grows. Are you considering taking a part in this most valuable undertaking? Let me tell you the rest of the story. TOM AWBREY.

Bread—Butter—Dollars

Our last week's ad, wherein we advocated spending Cottage Grove dollars for Cottage Grove butter to spend on Cottage Grove bread to the end that the dollars might remain in Cottage Grove, caused some comment as to our advertising bread. We believe in boosting for any Cottage Grove product as against any product that is shipped in from some other city.

The surest way to make Cottage Grove a city is to support the industries that have made it a town.
