Mr. Gross made good as our Salesman!

Read What He Says: "I have been representing the Washington Nursery Company for years and it gets more interesting every day. I have long ago ceased to worry as I used to in former years. I'm going to keep right on selling nursery stock, as it is the most pleasant, all-around real job that I have ever tackled, and the business is there if you have a good line to handle. I am contented, but not yet satisfied. I want to beat my last year's record, just as I beat the one year before last."

Get Into a Business of Your Own Here's a wonderful opportunity for the man who is looking for a real chance to get into a business of his own. We help you to make good. Washington Nursery advertising has made our trees, shrubs, roses and vines favorably known all along the coast. We still have desirable territory waiting for the right man. Are you that man?

$100,000 PEACE PLAN PRIZE AWARDED

Advocates Entering World Court and Cooperation With League Without Full Membership at Present—Suggests League Membership Be Opened to All Nations and Provides for Development of International Law.

The American Peace Award brought forth 22,165 plans and many thousands of letters. Since many of the plans were the composite work of organizations, universities, etc., a single plan often represented the views of hundreds or thousands of individuals. The content of these plans is therefore an index of the true feeling and judgment of hundreds of thousands of American citizens.

These plans come from every group in American life. Some are obviously from lifelong students of history and international law. Some are from persons who have studied little, but who have themselves seen and felt the horror of war—or who are even now living out its tragedy.

But among them all are these dominant currents: that if war is honestly to be prevented, there must be a face-about on the part of the nations in their attitude toward it; that by some progressive agreement the manufacture and purchase of the munitions of war must be limited or stopped; that while no political mechanism alone will insure cooperation among the nations, there must be some machinery of cooperation if the will to cooperate is to be made effective; that mutual counsel among the nations is the real hope for bringing about the disavowal of war by the open avowal of its real causes and open discussion of them; and finally that there must be some means of defining, recording, interpreting and developing the law of nations.

The only possible pathway to international agreement with reference to these complicated and difficult factors is through mutual counsel and cooperation which the plan selected contemplates. It is therefore the unanimous opinion of the Jury that of the 22,165 plans submitted, Plan Number 1469 is "the best practicable plan by which the United States may co-operate with other nations to achieve and preserve the peace of the world."

It is the unanimous hope of the Jury that the first fruit of the mutual counsel and cooperation among the nations which will result from the adoption of the plan selected will be a general prohibition of the manufacture and sale of all materials of war.

ELIHU ROOT, Chairman JAMES GUTHRIE HARBORD EDWARD M. HOUSE ELLEN FITZ PENDLETON ROSCOE POUND WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE BRAND WHITLOCK

The Question to Be Voted Upon The substantial provisions which constitute the plan selected by the Jury of Award, and upon which the vote of the American people is asked, are hereby submitted by the Policy Committee as follows:

I. ENTER THE PERMANENT COURT

That the United States adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice for the reasons and under the conditions stated by Secretary Hughes and President Harding in February, 1923.

II. COOPERATE WITH THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS, WITHOUT FULL MEMBERSHIP AT PRESENT

That without becoming a member of the League of Nations as at present constituted, the United States Government should extend its present cooperation with the League and propose participation in the work of its Assembly and Council under the following conditions and reservations:

Safeguarding of Monroe Doctrine

1. The United States accepts the League of Nations as an instrument of mutual counsel, but it will assume no obligation to interfere with political questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state.

In uniting its efforts with those of other States for the preservation of peace and the promotion of the common welfare, the United States insists upon the safeguarding of the Monroe Doctrine and does not abandon its traditional attitude concerning American independence of the Old World and does not consent to submit its long established policy concerning questions regarded by it as purely American to the recommendation or decision of other Powers.

No Military or Economic Force

2. That the only kind of compulsion which nations can freely engage to apply to each other in the name of Peace is that which arises from conference, from moral judgment, from full publicity, and from the power of public opinion.

The United States would assume no obligations under Article X in its present form, or under Article XVI in its present form in the Covenant, or in its amended form as now proposed, unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.

The United States proposes that Articles X and XVI be either dropped altogether or so amended and changed as to eliminate any suggestion of a general agreement to use coercion for obtaining conformity to the pledges of the Covenant.

No Obligations Under Versailles Treaty

3. That the United States will accept no responsibilities under the Treaty of Versailles unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.

League Open to All Nations

4. The United States Government proposes that Article I of the Covenant be construed and applied, or, if necessary, rerafted, so that admission to the League shall be assured to any self-governing State that wishes to join and that receives the favorable vote of two-thirds of the Assembly.

Development of International Law

5. As a condition of its participation in the work and councils of the League, the United States asks that the Assembly and Council consent—or obtain authority—to begin collaboration for the revision and development of international law, employing for this purpose the aid of a commission of jurists. This Commission would be directed to formulate anew existing rules of the law of nations, to reconcile divergent opinions, to consider points hitherto inadequately provided for but vital to the maintenance of international justice, and in general to define the social rights and duties of States. The recommendations of the Commission would be presented from time to time, in proper form for consideration, to the Assembly as to a recommending if not a law-making body.

Author's Name Not to Be Revealed Until After Referendum In order that the vote may be taken solely upon the merits of the plan, the Policy Committee, with the acquiescence of Mr. Bok, has decided not to disclose the authorship of the plan until after the referendum. The identity is unknown to the members of the Jury of Award and the Policy Committee, except one delegated member.

OREGON HAS 50,000 WILD DEER, FOREST ESTIMATE

Game census figures prepared by forest rangers in Oregon and Washington have just been compiled by the Portland office of the forest service. The figures relate only to the 27 million acres of national forest lands within these two states.

Forest officers call special attention to the fact that these game figures are necessarily rough estimates but, being made by the forest rangers, the men on the ground, approach perhaps nearer the point of accuracy than any other figures available.

According to the rangers' estimates there are over 50,000 deer in the fourteen national forests of Oregon, divided as follows: 35,000 black-tailed, 18,000 mule deer and 75 white-tailed. There are estimated to be 3000 elk, 50 mountain sheep and 20 antelope.

Some of the estimates for furbearing animals on national forests are as follows: 6000 badger, 8000 beaver, 3500 foxes, 11,000 mink, 1000 martens, 6500 muskrat, 400 otter and 90 lynx.

Under predatory animals rangers estimate that there are 8000 black or brown bear, 25,000 coyotes, 13,000 bobcats and 150 wolves within the national forests.

WHY DO THEY DO IT?

Oregonian: Let us nominate for membership in the society of pestiferous persons that individual of either sex, who persists in audible conversation at the theater, the recital or concert. It has been held by some that the gentleman who tramps on one's feet, as he makes his way to the lobby for a cigarette, merits the firing squad at sunrise. In no case, however great the aggravation, do we favor such drastic reprisal, but we yet maintain that the between-acts pedestrian is a relatively mild offender when contrasted with the chronic chatterer, the sibilant whisperer and—to seek another level—the zealous moron who roams the motion picture captions for the benefit of all.

Speaking personally, we do not attend the theater to listen to the ill-timed confidences of those near by on their latest operation, nor do we yearn to know, at that moment, their views of the play in progress. At concert or recital there are times when the last thing we wish in all the world is the opinion of the self-elected critic in the seat just behind, or before, as the case may be. Such wrath arises within us that we burn for vengeance, but vengeance is not ours. Unfortunately there seem to be no ordinances covering the offense and, while we would be confident of a sympathetic jury, we shrink from manslaughter.

Perhaps we are overnice, considering the provocation, but at any rate we shrink from it. Here is a question of consideration for the rights and wishes of a major part of the audience. With it is also involved a point of good manners and good breeding. One can only pray that sometime, when our culture is at a more advanced stage than now, the idea will penetrate even the most thoughtless mind, and audiences will possess the uninterrupted enjoyment of which they have paid for.
