

MAGAZINE STOPS CIGARETTE ADVERTISING AT BIG COST

A physician wrote to the editor of the Saturday Evening Post protesting against the practice of its story writers persistently to bring subtle reference to the use of cigarettes by the heroines, with the evident purpose of popularizing the practice among women. He received a reply signed by the "Editors" in which is this statement:

"It may interest you to know that the Post has since discontinued entirely, at a cost of some $300,000 a year, the advertising of cigarettes, and that while we may not feel strongly against them as you do, we are always careful, whenever possible, to edit them out of both pictures and reading matter."

When the editors of a great magazine throw aside $300,000 a year because of some one thing, it is time for those who think that the sentiment against tobacco is not making headway to cheer up. This one thing shows clearly which way the wind is blowing the tobacco smoke.

Arthur Brisbane, who writes for a great syndicate of papers published all over the world, made this statement in one of his articles, after giving figures as to the extent of the tobacco business in this country: "Probably tobacco is worth all the trouble and all the money. Men that have only recently learned to walk on their hind legs, and have not yet learned to think, feel the need of something foolish."

SHERIFF MAY RESIGN HIS JOB TO GO INTO BUSINESS

Fred G. Stickels may resign his position in order to take up his duties as manager of a loan association recently organized in Eugene, to which position he has been elected by the directors of the association. His term of office does not expire until December 31. He recently announced that he would not be a candidate for reelection and evidently had this business proposition in mind at the time.

Tillamook Bans "Oleo."

Tillamook, Ore., Feb. 23.—No longer will oleomargarine be sold in Tillamook county. Without exception the merchants of the county have signed an agreement eliminating substitutes for dairy butter from their shelves.

The agreement was drawn up by directors of the county cow testing association, assisted by the county agent, W. J. Pine. Statements attributed to Tillamook county residents that oleomargarine was in demand also were repudiated through the agreement. The names of merchants attached include Rollie W. Watson, who most strongly opposed the passage of the oleo bill at the last legislature.

FARM POINTERS

(From O. A. C. Experiment Station.) Early spring vegetable plantings will include spinach, radish, lettuce, turnip, peas, and onion sets. Early transplantings of vegetable seedlings grown under glass will include cabbage, lettuce and a few other small plants. These early phases of work tend toward early production, choice vegetables and high prices.

Plan to have trees, shrubs and berries ready to plant just as soon as the ground can be worked. Pack dirt firmly around the roots. Plantings should be made just as early as the ground will permit packing without consequent baking. Winter planting is desirable only when the ground is dry enough to handle without baking.

The air in the incubator is no better than the air in the room. Special means should be provided in the incubator house to care for the heavy gases. Large pipes placed near the floor level and opening outside will help the situation. The lighter gases will escape through the windows.

Potatoes in some storage places are beginning to sprout. They need to be well aired out to keep them from heating and from getting worse. Where they are to be held for a long time it may be advisable to spread them out in shallow layers, either in light or dark places and if cool enough little sprouting will occur.

Because of the short cold snap in the middle of the winter some corn was not properly dried out or protected and may have the germination injured. Test should be made to determine its ability to germinate before planting to insure a stand.

The pollenizing problem is only partly solved when pollenizing varieties have been supplied. The pollen must be carried from tree to tree. While many other insects may prove beneficial, bees are the best carriers. Hives should be placed in the orchard during the blooming season at the rate of one hive an acre or one to two acres.

Seed stalks of radishes, turnips, and of various garden and truck crops that have remained as refuse materials in the garden, form one of the favorite breeding places for plant bugs which are to injure the crops next year. Removal of these materials will destroy one of the favored winter quarters of these insect pests.

Pruning of apples, pears, cherries, prunes and peaches can be started any time after the leaves fall in western Oregon. In eastern Oregon pruning had best be delayed until late winter or early spring to avoid the colder weather which is dangerous to pruning wounds.

Looking after the orchard spraying equipment is advisable at this season. Clean the sprayer with water and oil the pump cylinders thoroughly. It is well to drain the engine to prevent possible damage from freezing and store the equipment in a protected place ready for spring spraying.

House ants may be most effectively eradicated by the use of three grains of tartar emetic mixed with four tablespoonfuls of syrup.

Timber Cruise Starts Here.

The cruising of Lane county's timber for taxation purposes has been started, according to M. G. Nease, of the Nease Timber company, of Portland, who has the contract to cruise 100,000 acres this year.

The crew was started at work in the vicinity of Disston, in the Cascade mountains southeast of Cottage Grove, and later work will be done on tracts on the upper Siuslaw, upper Mohawk and upper McKenzie river districts designated by the county court.

The contract calls for the completion of the work by the latter part of August.

Grants Pass Girls Win Game.

The Cottage Grove high school girls' basketball squad was defeated by the Grants Pass high school girls' team in a fast game played here Saturday evening in the armory, the score being 16 to 11. The game between the local girls and the Corvallis high school girls' team, which was scheduled to be played here last Friday evening, was called off by the Corvallis high school because of the death of the president of their high school student body. The game probably will be played at a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Wilkins are here from Seattle to get their car which was wrecked when they were crowded off the highway a week ago by a car driven by J. Moser, of Los Angeles. When he learned that a large damage suit against him was also contemplated, he asked to be permitted to go to Eugene to consult an attorney. Since then nothing has been heard of him.

Youth Arrested for Theft.

Eugene Register: Donald Walker, 21, was brought to the county jail Tuesday by G. B. Pitcher, deputy sheriff and city marshal at Cottage Grove. Walker is charged with robbing Cole's cigar store there a short time ago. The deputy sheriff said that he is also accused of the theft of a radio outfit in Portland. Pitcher said that he suspected Walker of the cigar store burglary and gave him a certain time in which to return the goods and that the goods were promptly returned.

OREGON GUARD IN LEAD; LITTLE RADICALISM HERE

Salem, Ore., Feb. 18.—The Oregon national guard is in first place among seven Pacific coast and western states for the third consecutive year and will retain that position again this year, Adjutant General George A. White said today upon returning from San Francisco, where he attended a conference of military officials of the seven states. "Oregon also gets credit," said General White, "for marked decrease in red radicalism and the reds appear to have become thoroughly discouraged in their efforts in Oregon. California and Washington are the centers of most of the red radicalism on the Pacific coast, with California leading in that respect."
