Systematic Cleaning of Milking Machines Construction of Devices Makes Care Imperative.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is no short cut to cleanliness, says the United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin 1315, "Cleaning Milking Machines," just issued. Systematic cleaning and sterilizing of milking machines are of great importance in turning out a high-quality product. That careful dairymen can produce clean milk with machines is proved by the fact that they are used in dairies where certified milk is made. A great deal of market milk is now being drawn with machines.

The construction of the milking machine makes it necessary that great care be exercised in cleaning it. The parts requiring special attention are the rubber tubing including glass unions, teat cups and inflations, claws, pail, heat, valves, moisture traps, and vacuum lines.

The effectiveness of the heat method of sterilization described in the bulletin is shown by a comparison with other methods. Samples of milk taken on 13 farms using various methods other than heat for sterilizing the machines had an average bacterial count of 257,000 per cubic centimeter for 74 samples. When the heat method was used on these same farms 201 samples showed an average bacterial count of 19,800. All this work was done under actual farm conditions, the machines being handled by the farmers or their hired men.

The effect of heat on the rubber parts has not been thoroughly determined, but, so far, the temperatures used (100 to 170 degrees F.) have been but slightly, if at all, more detrimental to the life of the rubber than the other methods.

The steps necessary in properly sterilizing milking machines are illustrated in the bulletin by a series of pictures. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained by addressing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Spray Rings Favored to Reduce Cost of Spraying

Formation of spray rings by farmers for the purpose of obtaining good traction sprayers at a low initial cost to each member is advocated by R. C. Rose, extension specialist in crop pests with the University of Minnesota, as a means of controlling the leaf hopper and other pests which prey on potato vines. Mr. Rose has found that many potato growers feel they cannot afford the best machine and have attempted to get along with a cheap traction outfit, or possibly with hand sprayers. By a co-operative arrangement growers in a neighborhood can obtain, at light expense, a spraying machine that will maintain a pressure of 150 pounds or better and cover the plants thoroughly. Another advantage of the spray ring, as pointed out by Mr. Rose, is that members can purchase spray material collectively and thus get lower prices than they could if buying individually.

Plan to Obtain Supply of Soy Beans for Seed

Where only four or five bushels of seed is needed there is no better way of saving it than to allow the soy beans to fully ripen and then thresh them out on a wagon sheet or in a tight wagon box with a stick. The very best seed can be saved in this manner, better than any that is machine threshed, for this is seldom if ever free from cut and cracked beans. Soy beans are not as easily kept as is wheat, oats, or corn, and must be stored completely dry where the air can freely circulate, it being a good plan to put them in clean old fertilizer bags and set away in a crib or granary where there is no danger of dampness.

Effective Spraying Must Be Done at Right Time

"Doing it on time" is the key to many a farmer's success. Spraying, to be effective, should be done at precisely the right time. Otherwise, it may have to be repeated, or the disease may gain headway that is difficult to overcome.

Timeliness in farm operations is a factor that governs profits and work. In the end, it makes profits and eliminates much needless labor, much useless anxiety. It is the very cornerstone of farm system.

Balanced Farming Will Bring in Steady Income

A medium degree of diversity of farm products sufficient to keep men and teams busy, completely utilize and maintain the fertility of the land and bring in a steady income is better than extreme diversity or specialized farming. There ought to be three or four main cash products supplemented by as many small ones.

One Clover to Sweet Clover as Hog Pasture

Sweet clover has been used some as a hog pasture, and the hogs will eat the leaves and tender stems pretty well. The objection to sweet clover as a hog pasture is that it soon grows tall and coarse, and then the pigs do not eat much of it.

Light Comedy. Two gentlemen of Hebraic extraction, joint owners of a Ford, were haled into court on a charge of driving at night with only one headlight. The Hebraic gentlemen pleaded guilty and were fined $10. "Vell," said one of the partners, "the easiest way to settle the matter is for each von of us to pay half; ve both own the car and ve vasn't out." "No, no!" exclaimed the other. "My side vasn't out. My side vasn't out."—Exhaust.

GET AT THE CAUSE

Many Cottage Grove Folks Are Showing How to Avoid Needless Suffering.

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed a burden. Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys—have brought peace and comfort to many Cottage Grove people. Profit by this Cottage Grove resident's experience: J. H. Baker, proprietor of blacksmith shop, Pacific highway, says: "I have used Doan's Pills with benefit and am glad to endorse them. I was troubled with attacks of kidney trouble and my back was weak and lame. My kidneys annoyed me, too, by acting irregularly. Doan's Pills always helped me when I used them, strengthening my back and kidneys."
