McNARY-HAUGEN BILL LIKELY TO BECOME LAW

Bankers Are Supporting Measure
Which Is Designed for Relief of Wheat Farmers.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—George C. Jewett, president of the American Wheat Growers Association, who is here to assist in securing the passage in both the senate and the house of the McNary-Haugen bill for the relief of the wheat growers and farmers of the United States by stimulating an export demand for farm products, returned this morning from New York inspired by developments to believe the legislation which Senator McNary has sponsored and supported will become a law.

"Due to Senator McNary's efforts the measure is before the senate with a favorable report," Mr. Jewett said on his arrival here today. "Senator McNary has been untiring and resourceful in his powerful support of the McNary-Haugen bill and we who have been so keenly alive to the necessity of securing aid for the wheat growers and farmers are more and more certain that the measure can become law. The action of the senate in voting down the Norbeck-Burtess law leaves the field clear for this measure which will enable the sale of the exportable surplus of wheat and other commodities."

"As an example of the kind of assistance from the business world which Senator McNary is getting I desire to call attention to the fact that John R. Mitchell, president of the Capitol National bank, of St. Paul, and former member of the federal reserve bank board, is here to exert every possible influence in favor of the McNary-Haugen measure."

"Good bankers and economists who have studied the problem of the farmers and the need of definite and immediate relief for the food producer are more and more inclined to unite on this measure as one that will do more than any other suggested and we are greatly encouraged in the probability of a successful end to the fight which Senator McNary is making to get this legislation to President Coolidge for his signature."

CALIFORNIA BOOSTERS SET EXAMPLE FOR OREGONIANS

Californians are the greatest boosters in the world and Oregonians, with equal if not better natural advantages, should copy the methods of the Native Sons, according to the opinion of George H. McMorran and J. A. McLean, of Eugene, who have returned from a business visit of ten days in southern California.

"The Californians never lose sight of the advantage of talking of the wonders of their state," said Mr. McMorran. "He is imbued with the spirit of publicity and practically every visitor is soon made aware of the constant effort to make him feel that he is wanted in California and that it is to his advantage to establish there."

The Californians are taking advantage of everything in order to bring to the attention of prospective residents the benefits of the Golden state, Mr. McLean said. The boosters of the southland have seized on the Oregon income tax law as a talking point in their publicity and they seem to have a keen knowledge of the workings of the Oregon law to point out to the visitors the desirability of making their home or establishing their business in California in preference to coming to Oregon.

The results of the drought in southern California are evident and it is quite a contrast to come into the fresh green of Oregon after a trip through the brown parched hills of the southland, Mr. McLean reports.

New Trial Motion Filed

Motion for a new trial was filed Friday by S. D. Allen, attorney for James Palmer, who was convicted by a jury in circuit court a few days ago of the crime of manslaughter. Mr. Allen alleges errors at law during the progress of the trial.

Watch the litter at this time of the year and change as often as it becomes damp and heavy. In some localities it is best to change it every ten days. Damp litter causes the house to be damp and is the source of much disease.

The first week in the brooder house is the critical time. Watch the chicks carefully during this period. Most of the trouble is caused by overcrowding, piling in the corners and by chilling.
