Some Questions to Puzzle the Friends of the Lane County Commissioners

In response to an attack upon the editor of The Sentinel made by E. J. Horton, of Junction City, and published in both Eugene papers, the editor of The Sentinel submitted the following questions to Mr. Horton through The Guard:

Why was it necessary to pay to the Warren construction company for rock for the Lorane road $5000 more than a bona fide offer made to the county?

Why was the Warren Construction company relieved of the $25-a-day penalty on this road, a total of about $7500?

Why did the commissioners disregard the law and contract a debt of $2400 in trading one road roller for another old road roller?

Why does the company which profited by the trade refuse to answer questions as to when this old roller was made, how long it has been used and what it was actually worth?

How did it happen that the commissioners were so insistent upon changing the report of their own engineer upon the excavation of the Cheshire north road, when doing so meant a profit of many thousand dollars to the contractor?

Do you think it happened just accidentally that the price for intermediate upon this job was $1.90, when the average price theretofore paid by the county, as shown by the records, for exactly the same kind of excavation was 60 cents?

Explain how it was possible that one yard of earth moved was worth 37 cents and the next yard moved with the same equipment and at practically the same expense was worth $1.90, or five times as much. How does it come that these commissioners came to adopt the policy of considering their county engineer a mere errand boy when former commissioners had implicit trust in his ability?

The commissioners will tell you that it is up to them to share the responsibility with the engineer and that the engineer was not giving the contractors a square deal upon the Cheshire north road; that some of the dirt was slightly more expensive to move than common. Grant that such was the case and answer these questions:

If the commissioners were so sympathetic for the poor contractors, why didn't the contractors imitate the example of the commissioners and reduce the price to what it should have been? Why did they insist upon taking advantage of the accidental (?) fact that they had a bid in at more than twice what it was worth to move intermediate? The commissioners had the contractor over a barrel. They could have accepted their engineer's figures, as other county courts have done, in which case the contractor could have whistled for his $1.90 the yard. Why didn't they insist that the contractors emulate the commissioners' noble example of playing fair instead of demanding their pound of flesh?

Did you ever hear of a contractor returning to the county any part of an excess profit?

If not, why are the commissioners so solicitous for the welfare of those who have no sympathy for others?

Do you approve of the county furnishing traveling expenses for a candidate for office, which seems to be the principal idea behind the appointment of a candidate for sheriff to a special inspector's job?

Don't you believe it was extravagant to pay $1000 for legal services to an outside attorney for advice which the commissioners afterwards refused to follow?

Mr. Sharp holds a personal grudge against a certain manufacturer of goods used in large quantities by the county. Do you think that he acted as a commissioner should when he stated to this manufacturer (using some of the ribald language that characterizes his conversation) that this manufacturer could not sell to the county regardless of quality or price?

What is your defense of paying for superintendency of the Florence bridge an amount equal to the actual cost of doing the work?

What is your defense of threats that no road work would be done for those who signed recall petitions?

What is your defense of the idea of turning moonshiners and bootleggers out of the county jail to work eight hours for the county and spend the remainder around their usual haunts?

What is your defense of a statement by a county commissioner that he was "damned glad" that two bootleggers, or moonshiners—a man and a woman—made their escape and got married? That is a rather effeminate statement made by Commissioner Sharp before the taxpayers' meeting.

Why are the commissioners' personal expenses double those of former commissioner?

Why did Commissioner Sharp urge former employees of the county to present claims for back wages aggregating $6000, when they are well satisfied with their settlement with the county?

What is your defense of the sale of Roney's bridge tools to the county a few days after he became commissioner?

Why was it a crime to borrow market road money for use on a Cottage Grove bridge when Sharp was hectoring Harlow and Barnard, while there is now nothing wrong in juggling huge sums of the taxpayers' money from one fund to another without so much as a legal transfer?

Why is a county cruise at 22 1/2 cents any better than a private cruise of timber at 10 cents, or 15 cents, or 16 cent the highest price ever paid for like work by the timber owners?

What is your defense of payment of wages to a road superintendent while he was not even in the county?

Aren't you afraid that some of the letter writers for the commissioners are going to deceive the Hebrews into believing that the second coming of the Savior is an accomplished fact and that He is a dual personality?

Protect your car by patronizing the dealers who protect you. You'll never have to drive very far to find a red, white and blue Red Crown sign, and your car will run better and farther if you let nothing go into your fuel tank except clean, reliable "Red Crown." Quick on the start, prompt on the pick-up, economical on the long run—"Red Crown" has all the qualities you demand of a motor fuel, and has them uniformly.

Incidentally, it's worth reflecting that the garage man, service station, or other dealer who refuses to let his customers take chances with inferior or unknown motor fuels, is likely to be equally responsible and reliable if your car needs inspection or repairs. Look for the Red Crown disc and the red, white and blue pump—the two signs that identify a reliable dealer.

YOU USE THE FORESTS. (Contributed.) You use the forests when you build a home, when you eat a meal, when you read a newspaper, when you go camping or hunting, when you drive an automobile, when you ride on a train, when you go to a movie, when you build a fire. In these and hundreds of other things you do, you use the forests—every day—in one form or another. Abundant forests stand for a better America, a higher standard of living, happier and more prosperous homes, a greater outdoors, better fishing and hunting, more beautiful roads, more wild flowers and wild life—for all that makes for a better, cleaner and healthier life—you, Mr. American Citizen, are using your forest capital more than five times faster than it is being replaced. If you handled your bank account in that manner what would you leave your children?
