WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

JAY-WALKING DANGEROUS

Have mercy on the jay-walker. When he jay-walks in the middle of the block he has to watch traffic from two directions only while at the corners he often has to watch it from four directions.

Then too on one-way streets the jay-walker has to watch traffic from one direction only. But when the one-way street jay-walker gets into a strange city where one-way streets are unknown he must take care he isn't run down because of his failure to look both ways.

Jay-walking is encouraged when pedestrians are not permitted to cross streets before cars are instructed to make turns.

Jay-walking is especially dangerous because the driver naturally does not expect to encounter pedestrians in the middle of the block in the middle of the street but accident statistics show that the pedestrian may be anywhere any time.

TRAFFIC LAWS NEED CO-ORDINATION

State laws should be co-ordinated to provide careful examination of all drivers, enforcements of laws affecting use of public highways and streets and finally there should be adequate marking of crossings and curves.

Eventually all railroad crossings must be either overhead or underneath motor vehicle highways.

Traffic officers should be so dressed at night that they can be seen easily. The use of white gloves helps. Better still a spotlight should be focused upon them. In some cities all white uniforms have been used together with lights.

Streets and highways should be patrolled by traffic officers and that fact should be made known as it is in some states with signs which read: "This road is patrolled. Please observe the law."

TRAFFIC OFFICERS STOP BEFORE CROSSING

Traffic officers should blow their whistles twice before permitting traffic to move. The first whistle should serve as a warning to the pedestrians in the street that the street must be cleared and it must serve as a warning to those on sidewalks that they must wait until the traffic has moved before they start to cross the street.

In some cities where a single whistle is blown it often happens that a person is caught directly in front of a moving vehicle. The average person is not a mind reader and so there is every reason why the warning signal should be given.

For their own sake pedestrians should be governed by traffic regulations just like motorists are.

Motor cars should be compelled to stop before crossing railroad tracks. In some states laws requiring cars to stop have been attacked on the ground that the motorist loses time. What of it? A minute may save a life. Examination of drivers is all right but those who do the examining should be examined also. Examination is of little value unless the examining is competent. If necessary states should increase the salaries of those who do the examining to make sure that competent personnel is employed. Traffic relief has to do not only with the convenience of city dwellers but also with their safety. Is any other reason needed why care should be taken always by both pedestrian and motorist?

DAOSHUND FINDS BOON IN GAS-HEATED OVENS

The slang phrase, "hot dog," has acquired a new meaning, a meaning in German that is quite different from the phrase as used in our best flapper circles.

Ills of dogs are being treated by baking in Germany. For that purpose and to aid in scientific research, gas ovens have been installed in the Berlin veterinary university's clinic. The application of gas heat to animals is said to act in the same way that a steam bath does to the human body.

Oh, Lady, Lady!

The sick man had just come out of a long delirium. "Where am I?" he said feebly, as he felt the loving hands making him comfortable. "Where am I? In heaven?" "No dear," cooed his loving wife. "I am still with you."

TAX LEVY FOR COUNTY JAIL IS RECOMMENDED

A new county jail has again been recommended by the grand jury, but this time the recommendation is unusual in that a new location is suggested.

The location suggested is at the northwest corner of the court house, which would make it much more convenient for taking prisoners to and from the circuit court room. The grand jury suggests that the old jail be razed and that the ground on which it stands be transferred into a park.

To finance the project the grand jury made the recommendation that the county court submit to the voters at the next election a special tax levy.

Nearly every grand jury that has been called for several years back has recommended that a new jail be built, and while everybody acquainted with the conditions at the old jail realizes the necessity of such a move little attention has been paid to the recommendations, but the suggestion of the grand jury that has just adjourned has caused favorable comment on the part of county officials and others.

Attention!

Most people, after wearing a white shirt or blouse for a few days, will wash it or send it to the laundry, simply because the accumulated soil shows quickly.

Did you ever stop to think that a colored garment, such as a suit, coat, skirt, sweater or gloves, accumulates soil even more quickly than hard white cotton or silk fabric? How dirty do you suppose that suit is after it has been worn one month without cleaning!

Our cleaning fluid is treated every day, so that it is always clear and clean and pure, and there is no odor left after cleaning. The cleaned garments are then put under 60 pounds pressure of live, hot steam—enough to kill every germ, moth or moth egg.

We can handle any dyeing, bleaching of any kind or dry cleaning that you wish done.

OUR BOYS WHO FOUGHT FOR THE RED, WHITE AND BLUE.

To our boys who fought for the red, white and blue
And are sleeping so sweet under sod and dew,
Sleeping the years of their youth away,
Awaiting the call of the judgment day—
Boys who were once so staunch and true,
Our boys who fought for the red, white and blue.

Weep not, Mother, for your gallant son,
Whose young life on earth had just begun,
For he's crossed to the shore where he hears no more
The rifle's crack or the cannon's roar.

Sweet memories live in that heart so true,
Of our boys who fought for the red, white and blue.

Weep not, brother, sister or kindred dear,
O'er the khaki suit or the vacant chair;
For he's crossed the river so deep and wide,
And waits for you on the other side.

Where we will meet those loved ones true—
Our boys who fought for the red, white and blue.

Be proud, oh Father, of your noble son,
The battles he longed to win he has won;
He gave his life for his country's call,
And for home and loved ones was content to fall.

And we'll guard their graves and flowers we'll strew
O'er the boys who fought for the red, white and blue.

A Plain Case.

A prominent New York lawyer was putting a witness through a hard cross-examination when the subject of absentmindedness arose.

"What do you think is absentmindedness?" asked the lawyer. "Well," replied the witness in a slow, deliberate tone, "if a man who thought he had left his watch at home, took it out of his pocket to see if he had time to go back and get it, I would call him a little absentminded."
