The Character of a Store Depends Upon Its Ideals

STORES, as well as individuals, must have ideals. Only so will the right kind of success come. From the time this store was established there has been on the part of the house a definite sense of our obligation to the community. For it is self-evident that only from our ability to be or service will our right to prosperity and success come.

How well we are living up to our store ideals is for our customers to judge. You have a right to judge our sincerity of purpose from the results manifested in our treatment of you as a customer. We should be glad to have you tell us of ways in which our service to you may be improved.

Historical Bits About Combs

The oldest known combs, made of bone, were found among the relics of the stone age of man in Denmark. Like all other articles of personal use, combs soon became articles of luxury. To relieve harrassed husbands, Dioeletian, Roman emperor during the fourth century, ordered that no woman should buy or wear combs which cost more than 14 denarii apiece. It is a long, long way from then to now. Our combs are so reasonably priced that no decree or legislation is needed. The first combs were shaped like hands. The latest combs we have in stock are for bobbed hair, are manufactured of celluloid with colored tops, set with brilliants and priced only 20 cents.

New barettes, in every wanted shape and color, priced 15 to 50 cents.

New bandeaus, "The Halo," ideal for auto driving and sports of all kinds. Fits perfectly across forehead; no elastic in front to cause pressure and discomfort. All the leading shades. Priced 50 cents.

Also new ladies' sport head bands.

New hairpins for bobbed hair that will "stay put." priced 10 cents.
