Master Robert Mills spent a happy fourth birthday anniversary Saturday afternoon, when 11 of his little playmates responded to invitations issued by his mother, Mrs. K. K. Mills. Games and contests were held on the lawn of the Mills home. Suckers and whistles were given the guests during their lay. Late in the afternoon the guests were called into the house and refreshments were served. At each place were place cards to which a ribbon was tied leading to a fish pond in the center of the table, where the other end of the ribbon was tied to a favor for each guest. In addition lollypops were used as favors. Brick tea-crown, individual cakes decorated with a large "4", brownie cookies and a birthday cake were served. Those invited were Blar-jorie Ellen Tins, Joe Grube, Dana and Charlotte Burkholder, Frank and Earl Baldwin, Ray Dickson, Mary James Smith, Robert Grannis, Patricia Short and Dan Trank.

Mrs. Albert C. Woodard entertained the Utopia club Thursday last, the afternoon being pleasantly spent socially. Attractive bouquets of large bouquet dahlia and asters of brilliant shades were the decorations for the room. A delicious two-course luncheon was served, the table being centered with a bouquet of dahlia in artistic arrangement. An additional guest for the afternoon was Miss Ha Buell, of Falls City, sister of Mrs. Woodard, who was visiting at the Woodard home. The club presented little Miss Marjorie H. Woodard, daughter of Mrs. Woodard, with a pretty hairline as she is the first baby to come into the home of a member of the club since its organization. The next meeting will be held October 23 with Mrs. Omer Moore.

The Social Twelve met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. R. Job for their first meeting since the summer vacation. Following the social hour, a dainty luncheon was served, the table being decorated with Vandike dahlias of the orchid shades. Cosmos in pretty arrangement made the rooms attractive. Mrs. D. T. Aubrey and Mrs. F. E. Meendenhall were invited guests of the club. The next meeting will be held next Thursday at the home of Miss Esther Sishy.

BIG NATIONAL PARK FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Fifty-Mile Preserve for Its Fauna and Flora.

Cape Town.—South Africa is to have a great national park similar to those which exist in America, Canada and Australia. It lies in a wondrous country, Mont-aux-Sources, in Drakensberg, a land of peaks and pine forests unequalled in splendor throughout South Africa. Here are the caves containing the Bushman paintings, subject of profoundly interesting historical controversy.

It is here too that the lordly Tugela takes its source in a water-cut tunnel through which the stream drops from a height of 2,000 feet. Nearly the whole of the region in its fifty miles extent is owned by the government, and the Natal people have cordially accepted the ownership of this glorious natural paradise.

The fauna and flora are to be protected, and arrangements have been made for the reintroduction of the natural buck. Thousands of years ago the zebra and the koodoo and the eland used to roam this gorgeous country, and soon it is hoped that these animals will find here a natural playground.

All shooting of game in the park and the destruction of bush by natives has been prohibited, and the Natal administration is confident that all these species will increase and the bush and grass soon be restored. In the Mont-aux-Sources area a park superintendent is now in residence with a staff of rangers. Certain parts of the national park are especially fitted for the purposes of afforestation, and exotic timber trees are to be introduced.

The Natal administration is considering the erection of a larger hotel for the accommodation of visitors than the single buildings at present existing. The idea is that the new hotel should be on a site about 4,000 feet above sea level, with the mountains several thousand feet above, and within easy access to bushes, streams and waterfalls, so that picnic parties can have a wide choice of beauty spots and bathing pools.

Advertisement for Ear Brings Several Offers

Chicago.—Philanthropy, mother love, bravado, desperation and a father's anxiety to obtain money to care for a little son, all figured in answers to the advertisement by a plastic surgeon for some one who would sell part of a human ear.

The surgeon has a patient, a young man, who was in a runaway accident eight months ago and half his left ear had to be amputated. Now he desires to marry and is anxious to have the ear patched up.

An Englishman was a philanthropist. He wanted no pay, but desired to help out an unfortunate man. He already has given away blood for transfusion and a number of persons are wearing patches of his skin, contributed in grafting operations.

The mother of six children, of whom she was the sole support, offered her ear. She already has sold her blood in cases of transfusion. She said she needed the money and could drape her hair over the missing ear.

A lake sailor came in and said he would contribute an ear just for the fun of the thing—merely a case of bravado, the surgeons say.

All the ears submitted are normal and the surgeon insists upon an abnormally large ear.

Soulful Greetings Block Traffic in Paris Subway

Paris.—Romance has to get out of the path of progress. Paris, among its other picturesque aspects, always seemed to Americans like a great "lovers' lane," especially in the morning and evening, when young people go along hand in hand to and from work, and at parting and reuniting stand sometimes for minutes locked in a fond embrace as though saying farewell forever.

The city authorities have stationed censors to break up these soulful greetings in the subway stations.

London Society Is "Hunting Treasure"

London.—A fine and suspenseful her driving license, imposed on the Hon. Lois Sturt, a socially prominent young woman of London, for speeding at the rate of 50 miles an hour in Regent park, has brought into the light the activities of what has come to be known as the "Society of Bright Young People."

The arrest and fine revealed that the latest hobby of the younger social set is the elaborately organized "treasure hunt." Money is secreted in various parts of London, and motor parties follow the trail from point to point, with clues which involve a combination of quotations or the solving of acrostics.

Lady Diana Cooper is one of the keenest players in this game, the style of which may henceforth be cramped, however, by Miss Sturt's breach of the speed laws. She was glad to inform the court, however, that she had carried off the prize in the contest.

Advertised Goods Stay on the Market

MRS. HOUSEWIFE, if you picked up your family paper this evening and saw a new baking powder advertised—would you try that brand tomorrow? Hardly! Why? Because you do not know the brand. How do you become familiar, then, with most of your household necessities? Through advertising. An article that you see advertised continuously appeals to you. Your good sense tells you that it must be right, else it could not remain on the market. And what advertising is to an individual article it is to a business institution. Advertising draws trade to a store. If that store continues to advertise, it is satisfying its customers. No business can amount to much without advertising, nor can advertising do any business any good unless that business lives up to its advertisements. Here then is plainly seen why it pays to trade with the continuous advertiser.
