able, unsafe and a menace to American government—and who of us are not Americans?

When a man assaults and would rend asunder the constitution of the United States—an instrument recognized throughout all the world as a masterpiece of government—my journey with him ends. I am no traitor. The American people want neither traitor nor deserter for president.

I have had one or two personal meetings with Mr. LaFollette and have listened to him do all the talking. He is a pleasant gentleman to meet. He is a man of some brilliancy of parts. He is also, and always has been, a radical speaker and actor, playing to the gallery and its gods. I dare say he has impressed few men in the several walks of life with thought of his alleged greatness and fitness for national honors.

In my opinion we have an hundred men in the state of Oregon, whose names I could immediately suggest, democrats and republicans, as well fitted and infinitely safer for the American form of government than LaFollette.

The American people, both native born and naturalized, need neither soap box orator, political upstart nor political renegade to tell them to shelve the constitution of the United States. That instrument is the base of every governmental success that has passed into the history of our country. It is the most perfect balance wheel that man has drafted. We have lived under it, in marked success, in pursuit of our own business and our own happiness, nationally and individually, since long before this Wisconsin agitator first saw light of day.

LaFollette made a ten-strike some twenty odd years ago in his own state, and Wisconsin's enthusiasm for a native son resulted in LaFollette's thinking that he was destined to become a great national (Concluded at foot next column.)

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

HAZARDS IN HANDLING GASOLINE

The Bureau of Mines of the Department of the Interior has published an instructive and valuable booklet entitled, "Hazards in Handling Gasoline." It can be had from the Government Printing Office at Washington for five cents.

The booklet covers the relation of properties of gasoline and of gasoline vapor to inflammability, precautions in handling gasoline, general asphyxiation by exhaust gases, gasoline fires caused by filtering gasoline through chamois skin, extinguishing liquid fires, use of foam or a frothy mixture to put out fires, etc.

No open lights, flame, nor any moving machine or belt capable of producing a spark should be allowed in a room where gasoline is being used.

PHILADELPHIA SETS EXAMPLE

Cities which are becoming discouraged because of increasing traffic congestion should take a look at Philadelphia where a pathway has been plowed through a mass of masonry. The Quaker City has created a great parkway that connects her outermost sections with the heart of the municipality, demolishing 2,000 structures that stood across the path of her progress.

Not content with merely creating this parkway beginning 150 feet wide at the City Hall, then gradually expanding to 600 feet and extending more than a mile, Philadelphia has made provision for protecting it. No building may be erected within 200 feet of this parkway which does not conform to its character, no letter legible from it may be placed on any structure without the approval of the Park Commission, no roof sign may be erected.

CARBON MONOXIDE IRRITATING TO PEDESTRIANS

In a booklet published by The Bureau of Mines of the Department of the Interior entitled, "Vitiation of Garage Air by Automobile Exhaust Gases" it is stressed that automobile engines frequently run in garages for considerable periods of time, and the exhaust gases unless removed by proper ventilation may make the atmosphere of the garage unsafe. Running an engine in a garage is particularly hazardous in winter when the weather is too cold for keeping doors and windows open.

In tests made by the authors, garage air was rendered poisonous after an automobile engine had been running 15 minutes.

An automobile engine should not be run in a small garage unless the doors and windows are wide open.

Copies of this booklet may be obtained from the Government Printing Office in Washington for five cents.

After motor cars have traveled East and West and the signal is given for cars to move North and South, pedestrians at P should be allowed to cross the street before cars C are permitted to turn to travel East. Permitting cars to turn before pedestrians can cross is irritating and pedestrians have a just complaint.

figure. From that day until this he has been trying to make us dear people believe it. The years that come and go have a tendency to wear men down both in body and mind. LaFollette has not escaped this wearing down process, and now, having told this same old "self praise" story for so many years, he actually believes it himself; but I doubt if he can make the people who have the interest of the American government at heart believe it on November 4. Of many things I have read about President Coolidge this is one that has brought him near to me and has gained for him my vote. Just before he was elected to the vice presidency, he and his good wife sat down one evening to figure over their possible income, that they might determine if they could afford a Ford touring car. When a man enters into that kind of partnership with his wife, he bears the earmarks of being fit to be president of the United States, and his wife is fit to be the first lady of the land.

Fighting Rooster Fish Is Caught off the Mexican Coast

Rarely caught, and then only after a terrific battle, the rooster fish is described by sportmen who have encountered it as one of the most beautiful and finest game fish to be found anywhere. Because it roams only in the waters off the west coast of Mexico and South America, it is said to be still unknown to most fishermen. Many expert anglers in the resorts of Lower California have reported the loss of their tackle after a struggle with this fish, so-called because of the grotesque appearance given it by a long fin on the back.
