

"The Way to Meet Difficulties Is to Face Them"

True enough, that statement—the motto of more than one successful man.

But there's another thought we suggest—"The way to meet difficulties is with weapons to overcome them."

There's no better asset for a business than a financial reserve. There's no business that can't build up one—even if only a few dollars are added each week.

A FEW LUMPS OF COAL LEAD TO DISCOVERY OF TREASURES ACROSS WATERS

The unusual role enacted by a few lumps of coal in starting an international investigation and recovery of loot by German police at Hamburg has been revealed by officials of the Southern Pacific company.

Expertly packed in straw, the coal was found in a shipping box delivered to a San Francisco firm. The box had been exported from the interior German town of Neuhaldensleben and was supposed to contain about $600 worth of ladies' kid gloves.

A claim for the gloves was made by the consignees and in its process of investigation the freight claim department of the Southern Pacific company had the coal samples analyzed by its department of tests.

It was found that the coal was dissimilar to any mined in the United States and strongly resembled that mined in the famous Ruhr district of Germany. Further evidence disclosed that pilferage of the package occurred prior to the entrance of the package into New York; German authorities were notified.

Proof of the correct assumption of the railroad's geological department as to the foreign nature of the coal is shown by the fact that the San Francisco glove company, to which the shipment was consigned, have just received word from their agent at Hamburg stating that seventy-five dozen of the gloves have been recovered by German police at Hamburg.

"The case is one of the most novel ever handled in this department," said William C. Fitch, freight claim agent for the Southern Pacific company. "The pilferage of the gloves was undoubtedly the act of a clever crook as the package had been so expertly repacked with straw and coal that the deception was not noted until its arrival in San Francisco."

COOLIDGE DAWES CARAVAN MAKES BRIEF STOP HERE

The Lincoln Coolidge-Dawes caravan of eight automobiles, which started its transcontinental tour September 9 from Coolidge's old home in Vermont, passed through here yesterday afternoon. A truck carries campaign literature, which is distributed at each stop. The caravan carries a book for the registration of those who voted for Lincoln. A rousing meeting was held last night in Eugene. It is said that the expense of the trip of the caravan, composed of Lincoln cars, is a gift of Henry Ford.

Radiator-Filling Pail

An ordinary pail fitted with legs, as shown in the drawing, will prove useful around the farm garage as it saves much work and prevents one from spilling water all over the radiator and hood. The pail should be of large size and a faucet is soldered in the side near the bottom. Four legs, cut from heavy sheet metal, are riveted to the underside of the pail, and these are covered with soft material in order to prevent scratching the hood. Ordinary cloth wound on the legs and tied with cord will serve to make non-scratching feet, but electrician's tape is better, if available. In use, the pail is filled with water, set on the hood so that the faucet comes directly over the radiator-filling hole, and as much water as necessary is then let into the radiator by opening the faucet.

NIGHT POLICE M'FARLAND IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Frank McFarland, night police, sustained serious injuries Tuesday morning while pursuing a suspicious looking man down First alley north, between Fifth and Sixth streets. He fell into a hole which had been dug that day by a Mountain States Power company crew for the erection of one of the poles of their new distribution system.

McFarland was so injured that he was unable to extricate himself and might have remained there all night except that his cries for help aroused Clarence Stoneberg, who was sleeping a few yards away in a room at the rear of his confectionery store, the Bon Ton.

McFarland sustained a fracture of the socket of the left shoulder and his entire left side was severely bruised.

The hole into which McFarland fell had been covered with a light board which evidently was not strong enough to hold McFarland's weight. The man being pursued escaped and has not been seen since.
