CONTENDS THAT LONDON GRAVEL IS COSTLY

Gets Figures From Former Superintendent to Support Union.

The controversy over whether or not the county got its money's worth on the London rock continues to be a live subject, due to the fact that the claim made by county officials that the rock was laid much cheaper this year than last, while several residents along the road claim that the saving was not sufficient to make the difference between crushed rock and crushed gravel. In a letter published today in the Eugene Register, W. T. Jones has the following to say:

"I have received a statement from J. A. Elledge that may be of interest in connection with this subject. Mr. Elledge was patrolman of road district No. 15 in 1923 and had full charge of both grading and rocking of the London road.

"He states that his records show that the crusher was operated in October, 1923, 27 days with an average of 60 1/2 yards per day at a cost of $1.05 per yard in the bin. In November 24 days with an average of 57 yards per day at a cost of $1.10 1/2 per yard in the bin. This included wages, wood and oil, but nothing for wear or breakage of machinery. This rock was put on the road with two Liberty trucks at an actual cost of $8.50 per day, including wages, gas and oil but Mr. Elledge states he thinks the court figured the trucks at $15 per day.

"It seems the figures given by J. A. Elledge, adding sprinkling, rolling and a reasonable allowance for wear and maintenance of the machinery and tools, would run very close to $2.34 for rock on the finished road. That would make one cubic yard of crushed rock measured loose in bins or trucks cost about $2.34 for quarrying, crushing, hauling, spreading, sprinkling and rolling.

"No doubt one reason for placing much stress on the $2.34 in the bunkers is to pacify the members of the Coast Fork local and make them think they got a bargain in the gravel at $2.15, but they are still wondering why someone does not tell them why the contractors were paid about $27,000 for a piece of road that the county could have built for half of the amount allowed."

The above is a reply to Mr. Crowe's statement that the $2.34 price was for the rock in the bin, and that another dollar was added in making it a part of the road.

NATURE HAS ITS WAY WHILE DOCTOR WORRIES ABOUT SWALLOWED PIN

Nature can do more than skilled science, declared a prominent Eugene physician and surgeon a few days ago and told this to prove it:

Friday forenoon the small baby of Mrs. C. Davis, 135 Lawrence street, swallowed a safety pin. Not such a terrible thing in itself under ordinary circumstances, but this was an open safety pin, and this was a baby that had not quite reached its first birthday.

The mother on Saturday afternoon brought the baby to the doctor. He studied the question, took X-ray photographs and developed them. They showed the pin to have reached the small intestine, point downward. There was a strong chance of death should an operation have to be performed, as the child was too small to stand an operation well, and the pin was so far down in its alimentary system that would have been exceedingly dangerous.

Could the pin's location be definitely determined, as to what loop in the bowels it had lodged, and whether it was moving or standing still, accurate knowledge might be had with which to proceed in operating. It was decided to take another X-ray Sunday forenoon and get the information.

Just before the scheduled visit there came a telephone call from the mother. "We have the pin," she cried.

Nature, again asserted the physician, is the greatest healer of all.

It Looked Like It.

A speaker, engaged to lecture in a small town in the Midlands, arrived in the afternoon. The place seemed to be poorly provided with bills, and he thought he would find out if people knew anything at all about what was in store for them. Accordingly he entered a grocer's shop.

"Good afternoon," he said to the man behind the counter. "Any entertainment going on here tonight? Anything that will help me to while away an evening?"

The storekeeper gazed at his interrogator, wiped his hands and then replied, slowly.

"Well, I expect there's goin' to be a lecture. I've been sellin' eggs all day."—London Answers.

NOTICE TO NEIGHBORHOOD READERS:

It is the wish of The Sentinel to give all the news of the Cottage Grove country—and to give neighborhood news as close as possible to the hour of publication. In the effort to get the news at as late a moment as possible, The Sentinel often finds it physically impossible to get it all into type and for that reason has to "blue pencil" many items which it would like to print but which do not seem to be of sufficient importance to warrant holding up the printing of the paper. There are many reasons why items are sometimes omitted. An item or two sometimes has to be "lifted" after having been put into type, because there is just room for a neighborhood letter with the one or two items omitted. The neighborhood correspondent is not to blame for exigencies which arise in the office of publication. Often the correspondent has taken great pains to get an item which has to be eliminated for one of the reasons given above, or for some other reason. The Sentinel asks its neighborhood readers to bear in mind that the neighborhood correspondent endeavors to send every available item and that The Sentinel endeavors to publish every item of interest dealing with the activities of its readers and their friends. If an item is omitted, no slight is intended, either by the correspondent or by The Sentinel. Readers will greatly assist by communicating important items to the neighborhood correspondent. The Sentinel particularly wishes unusual and good booster stories. Some way is always found to give space to them. Keep your neighborhood in the news columns. tf

Senator Walsh of Montana said in New York the other day: "Warlike states hate one another because they see their own faults reflected in one another. Its like the Washington-Jefferson story. 'Look-a-yere,' said Washington, as he slammed his cards down on the table, 'dat's twice yo's called me Jefferson! If yo' don't know no mo' dan to confuse me with dat bow-legged, flat-footed, hare-lipped, no 'count colored man, Jefferson, why, we'll stop de game right now.'" 'Ah axes yere pardon, Washington,' said the other player. 'Ah sure axes yere pardon, sah. Don't go and draw yere shooter on me same as Jefferson done 'tother evenin' when Ah called him Washington by mistake. You two fellers ain't like nobow 'cepting in yore looks and gen'ral characterizations."

In Name At Least.—Ike—"Ver-effer you go, over da world you will find Jews."
