

BEWARE OF UNCLEAN MILK

Milk is a ready carrier of anything with which it comes in contact. The only safe milk to use is that which is kept clean from the time it leaves the udder until it is used.

Powell's dairy is open to inspection at any and all times. Visit it in your Sunday best, if you wish. You will carry away no odor of any kind. Sanitation is our watchword. Our milk reaches the pasteurizing and bottling station under most sanitary conditions and then it touches nothing but machinery that has been sterilized. It goes into bottles that have been sterilized and is not touched at any time by human hands.

Pasteurizing does away with the possibility of germs of any kind and there is no chance anywhere in its handling for foreign substances of any kind to get into it.

Important Road Bills Expected Soon at Salem

By ELBERT BEDL. STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Ore., Jan. 15.—(Special)—That roads and highways legislation of importance is before the session, or is about to be brought before it, is indicated by the presence here of W. B. Dennis, of Carlton, formerly of Cottage Grove, now better known as the road encyclopedia of the state. He and his brief case are prominent in the lobby and in the roads and highway committee room.

He will be here during a large part of the session and at his own expense. He became a compendium of information upon road legislation during the time that he was a member and chairman of the roads and highways committee. Nine Sacks of Wheat and Fob Cause Sale of Pigs

Last Thursday evening Ernest Sears was tripping the light fantastic at the Armory, worrying not at all about the things he had left at home, and perhaps thinking only occasionally of the dozens and dozens of eggs which he was planning on coaxing from his hens during the coming spring. In his granary were nine sacks of wheat, stored away to feed his poultry.

Next morning he went to the granary to feed his chickens. As the expectant fowles swarmed around, he opened the door, and behold, the nine sacks of wheat had disappeared. Meanwhile at the mill the miller was emptying nine sacks of wheat he had just purchased and thinking what good flour he could make with it. But while emptying one sack he came across a watch fob and laid it aside thinking that was a funny thing to find in a sack of wheat.

While Roy Taplin was looking for his lost watch fob, Deputy Sheriff G. B. Pitcher brought it to him. Taplin has agreed to sell his pigs to pay for the wheat so the officers will drop the case.

Winter Farm Products Supplied Trains From West

Fresh green vegetables, right from the fields where they are grown, are now available to winter residents and travelers in Oregon and the West.

Fresh berries, too, may be had virtually all the year round, together with many western grown fruits.

The rapid development of winter farming in Oregon, California and neighboring states, now is producing a constant supply of excellent fresh green vegetables, so that such canned products practically have been eliminated from dining cars of the Southern Pacific Company.

This fact is brought to the fore in a report just issued by Allan Pollok, manager of dining cars, restaurants and railway clubs of the railroad.

Favorable comment on these winter products of the West is made daily by travelers from the East on trains of the Southern Pacific, Pollok added.

At present the company is obtaining exceptionally fine cabbage and cauliflower from Oregon. The cabbage is firm, tender and sweet. Farmers in the Roseburg district have developed an excellent grade of broccoli.

Apples of a uniform size are specially packed at the orchards in Oregon and California for Southern Pacific dining cars. Travelers frequently comment upon their good flavor.

Ranches in a number of favored sections of the Pacific Coast are supplying winter-grown "summer" squash, new potatoes, fresh peas, lettuce, asparagus, eggplant and many other varieties of vegetables to tempt the palate of the traveler.

"In fact," Pollok stated, "during the last two years the development of winter farming in the West has made almost unbelievable strides.

"And when an eastern diner eats such products in our dinner cars in winter and learns they are fresh from our ranches he can not help but wish he had a home out here and his own garden."

"THE HOUR GLASS."

Ceaselessly the scholl of time unrolls, bringing to every mortal the changes to which are attached whatever of interest life may hold. The hour glass, which symbolizes the passing of time, supplies the title for a photoplay as told in motion pictures, which will help to bring to every man who is, or hopes to become head of a family a fuller realization of his responsibilities.

First presentation of "The Hour Glass" in Cottage Grove will be given at the Armory, Thursday evening, January 22, at 7:30 o'clock. It will be shown under the auspices of Cottage Grove Camp No. 6424, Modern Woodman of America, by special arrangement with the national headquarters at Rock Island, Ill. This is a brand new four-reel film with unusual spectacular features and true-to-life action. Part of the story was filmed at the Society's free Sanatorium near Colorado Springs where the bright sun and vivid color contrasts make the camera so effective. Here, in large part, was enacted an interesting little drama which might have ended in tragedy, but didn't. Modern Woodman who know the signs of the forest may guess why. Others will be afforded the opportunity to find out for themselves when they witness the showing of this interesting photoplay.

Admission will be free and the public is invited to come as guests of Cottage Grove Camp 6424, M. W. A. Dancing after the show. Music by The Troubadours.
