Earning Her Keep

A statistician claims to have discovered that a married woman, who does all the work of her own household, will, in the course of 80 years' married life, prepare nearly 200,000 meals. This is counting a meal as the amount of food required by one person.

During this period she will probably order for household consumption about 3,000 jars of jam, will boil 500,000 potatoes, and devote about 35,000 hours to sweeping, washing and scrubbing.

Valuing this work at the accepted price now paid for "professional" aid, the housewife who does her own housework probably earns fully as much as her husband. But that is not to say that she gets it—oh, dear, no!—London Answers.

All the Details

Young Si had just returned from the city, and his chum was asking him about the experiences, in particular how he enjoyed eating in an automat restaurant.

"How do they work?" the friend asked.

"Well, you put your nickel in the wutchmenallit and press the thingumbob, and the doobkins turns around and gives you your food," explained Si.

"Isn't that marvelous?" echoed the chum. "I knew they were wonderful things, but I ain't heard the details before."

Only a Dream

Hubby listened intently. His wife and her mother were talking. The latter was saying: "You have indeed secured a splendid husband, and I think you ought to treat him with a little more tact and consideration. Don't always want to know where he is going, and if he comes home a little late, be agreeable and wait until he explains before you begin asking a lot of awkward questions. He's just the sort to appreciate any generosity on your part. Be kind to him."

Hubby stirred uneasily, trying to hear more, when—he awoke.

Few Druses in America

Druses are people of mixed origin who inhabit a district in Syria. Their religion is fundamentally Mohammedan, but their faith mingles the teaching of the Mosaic law, the Christian Gospels and the Sufi allegories with those of the Koran. They believe in the transmigration of souls with constant advancement and purification. Their teachings enjoin abstinence from wine and tobacco, from profanity and obscenity, and polygamy is unknown among them. There are a few hundred of this sect in the United States.

Why the Strife?

We are told that Cinesa the philosopher once asked Pyrrhus what he would do when he conquered Italy. "I will conquer Sicily." "And after Sicily?" "Then Africa." "And after you have conquered the world?" "I will take my ease and be merry." "Then," asked Cinesa, "why can you not take your ease and be merry now?"—Sir John Lubbock.
