NEWSPAPER ENGLISH(?)

Pupils of our schools and universities have often stated that there is a difference between good English and newspaper English. After a perusal of a number of our exchanges we are inclined to revise our oft-expressed opinion to the contrary and to agree with such pupils that sometimes such is the case. Just for fun, with no intent to hurt anyone's feelings, and with the anticipation that the boys will go through The Sentinel with a fine-tooth comb for the purpose of evening the score, we shall illustrate our point with actual quotations.

The Exodus, published as a part of the McMinnville Reporter at such times as the occasion requires, had this to say of the visit of a number of McMinnville boosters to Longview, Wash.:

"Some of the caravanners felt like singing, 'It's a long, long way to Longview,' for it is quite a jaunt from McMinnville, Oregon, to the 'city that vision built' on the bank of the Columbia, across from old Rainier, the place noted for an exhilarating beverage famous in olden days."

A high school lad brought the item to us to ask what kind of a beverage an exhilarating beverage is (or was, if you believe that the prohibition laws are being enforced). The lad said he couldn't find an explanation in the dictionary. We couldn't tell him that there is no such animal—possibly "exhilarating" is correct enough for the kind of beverage that is drunk these days—but the word, despite its common use, is in no standard dictionary.

The recent issue of Oregon Exchange contains a reprint of a circular which our friend, A. E. Veatch, of the Rainier Review, uses in boosting the efficacy of the advertising columns of his paper. The circular states, or Oregon Exchange changes has the circular state, "When times are hard is the time to show your metal by advertising." We are wondering whether the word "metal" is to be translated to mean brass, or whether that spelling of "metal" is supposed to be a cute little pun in these slug-casting days.

The Burnt Woods correspondent of the Philomath Review furnishes the following pulsating item of interest from her neck of the woods: "Mrs. Orville Weaver, of Albany, came home Friday night to visit husband and baby, returning Sunday evening to her work." The young folk are right, times have changed, but we didn't imagine they would change to the extent that this item indicates. We trust that the father and baby "are doing as well as could be expected" and that the parents have had no trouble in selecting a name for the wee one.

The Tillamook Headlight joshes us as follows:

"The only newspaper in Oregon to admit that it has a devil on its staff, according to Oregon Exchange, is the Cottage Grove Sentinel. We think the devil has just cause for a libel suit against Bro. Bede, for monkeying with the devil is a dangerous procedure."

It is passing strange how few there are who can spell, "Sentinel." Many who can do it is spelled in the above quotation.

Yes, we admit that we have a devil but that may be merely because we are more honest than the other newspapers of the state.

The Headlight speaks of "job printing," and so do many of the leading typographical journals, but Hal Hoas has several times informed The Sentinel that such an expression is bad English. Bad English, as Hal might suggest were he addicted to thinking, is appropriate in describing some printing.

Three thousand people read The Sentinel each week. What have you to tell this vast throng? xxx

SOCIETY

Mrs. George Hawley, Mrs. Maude Hohl and Mrs. C. L. Churchill were hostesses Monday evening at a birthday surprise party in honor of Mrs. George Hohl held at the George Hohl home. Daffodils were in profusion about the rooms. Five hundred was the diversion and dainty refreshments were served at a late hour. Those to enjoy the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Vera Garoutte, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Allison, Mrs. Barbara Hohl and family, Miss Gertrude Whitsett, C. L. Churchill, George Hawley, Einar Johnson, Ed Lundbom and W. A. Ward.

The fourth annual birthday meeting of the Tuesday Bridge club was held this week at the home of Mrs. C. S. Roberts, president. The regular 1 o'clock luncheon was enjoyed, a pretty birthday cake being the centerpiece of the table. Daffodils were the table decorations. The place cards were artistically designed with yellow as the predominating color and yellow favors were used. At the bridge session high honors were won by Mrs. F. L. Grannis and the consolation prize went to Mrs. Raymond Grube. Mrs. Grube was an invited guest of the club.

Mrs. J. P. Graham and Mrs. H. A. Miller entertained the Tillamook club last evening at the Miller home. The guests wore the club's costume. Five hundred, the usual diversion, was enjoyed and was followed by the serving of a tempting two-course luncheon. The rooms were prettily decorated with an abundance of daffodils, while hyacinths were the table decorations. Guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lebow and L. C. Michener.

Mrs. Elbert Smith was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the M. P. G. club. Fancy work and social conversation, the usual diversions, were enjoyed. A delicious two-course luncheon was served, the centerpiece of the table being an artistic bouquet of delicately tinted wild flowers mixed with moss. Pretty sweet pea corsages were the favors. Mrs. Dan Hamant was a guest of the club.

The Elmartes club held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Anderson. Needlework was the diversion. A delightful two-course luncheon was served, a potted plant being the attractive centerpiece. Mrs. Dale Hawkins was an invited guest of the club.

L. W. Peters surprised Mrs. Peters Saturday evening by having a few of their friends in for dinner and a social evening, the occasion being Mrs. Peter's birthday anniversary. The following day Mr. and Mrs. Peters and daughter were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stewart.

The Methodist foreign missionary society met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Beidler. Spring flowers made the rooms attractive. Mrs. J. H. Chambers had charge of the study program. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Emit Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McKibben and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morse entertained the Jolly Bunch club Friday evening at another of its jolly dances. Light refreshments were served following the dancing.

Eleven members were present Saturday afternoon at the regular meeting of the women's relief corps.

APPROACHING EVENTS

Miss Clara Milne and Mrs. Ardle Eby will entertain the Toujours Prete club next Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Milne.

Mrs. F. E. Mendonhall, Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. M. F. Wyatt and Mrs. M. C. Bressler are the hostesses for the regular meeting of the Presbyterian ladies' aid society to be held next Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors.

The Tuesday Study club will hold its regular meeting next week at the home of Mrs. H. W. Titus, with Mrs. Titus and Mrs. R. A. Trask as leaders.

Mrs. T. C. Wheeler will be hostess Tuesday afternoon to the La-Camus club.

The Foremost club of the J. C. Penney store will hold a waffle feed tomorrow in observance of the store's first anniversary.

A large number was present yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Christian ladies' aid society for which Mrs. John Coffman, Mrs. S. C. Coffman, Mrs. Roscoe Forward, Mrs. George Hohl and Mrs. J. H. Groom were hostesses. A business session was held and the remainder of the afternoon spent socially. Delightful refreshments were served.

Mrs. William Thum, newlywed, was honor guest this noon at the regular luncheon of the Keepers of the Den held at the Gray Goose tea room. The club presented Mrs. Thum with a gift.

Thornton Corners Society.
Miss Elena Shortridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Shortridge, and James Maust, of Eugene, were married in Eugene last week and will make their home in that city.

Wesley Carlile Is Killed.

Word was received here today telling of the accidental killing at Bridge, Ore., of Wesley Carlile, former resident of this city and a brother of George Carlile, who died here some time ago as the result of an accident. He was also a brother of Mrs. J. Q. Young, with whom he made his home while a resident here. No details were given in the message. He was employed in a logging camp.

Unhappy Moment for Wearer of Crinoline

Mr. E. M. Ward has a host of good yarns in his remarkable "Memories of Ninety Years." There is, for instance, the terrible story of the punctured crinoline.

This unusual incident happened to a Mrs. Tooke, wife of the then vicar of Upton, after a confirmation service in the church the friends of the vicar were invited to meet the bishop of Oxford, Samuel Wilberforce—known as "Soapy Sam"—at the vicarage.

Mrs. Tooke was a woman who always dressed well. On this occasion she wore a black velvet crinoline, trimmed with old lace, which set off her remarkable complexion. After lunch, as she talked to the bishop, a curious sound like an angry serpent hissing penetrated the drawing room.

While the guests paused in astonishment, "Soapy Sam" looked mystified. Then a grumbling noise was heard, a decided squeak, a shriek, and loud report, followed by profound silence. When a little later Mrs. Tooke rose to bid her guests farewell her dress hung in heavy folds all around her.

Afterward she explained what had happened. Her dressmaker had persuaded her to have a special fixture in her crinoline which consisted of tubing, inflated with air, fastened tightly with a screw. This uncanny contrivance made the skirt flow out, but Mrs. Tooke struck her foot against the screw and the whole structure collapsed as the air escaped.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Settled Manhattan Island

In the first ship sent to the present territory of the United States by the Dutch West Indies company, the New Netherlands, which landed in the Hudson river in 1623, Walloons, led by Jesse de Forest, were passengers. The eight families left on Manhattan, which was named "New Avesnes," constituted the first settlement of that now famous and valuable island and the first homesteaders, in fact, in the Middle Atlantic states.

Fish and Meat Sauces

A DELICIOUS well-cooked fish is without any attractiveness to the average person unless accompanied by a good sauce. The gasping, too, adds much to its palatability.

Olive and Almond Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three of flour and when well blended pour on gradually one cupful of white stock. Just before serving add one teaspoonful of beef extract, eight olives stoned and cut into quarters, one-half teaspoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth cupful of shredded almonds, salt and pepper to taste. This sauce is served with boiled or steamed fish.

Cucumber Sauce.—Grated cucumber drained, and vinegar, salt and pepper added, is very good with broiled fish. Another is prepared by grating one cucumber, add one-half cupful of heavy cream which has been beaten stiff, salt and cayenne, and gradually two tablespoonfuls of vinegar.

Tartar Sauce.—Mix one tablespoonful of vinegar, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce in a bowl and heat over hot water. Brown one-third of a cupful of butter carefully and strain into the first mixture.

Oyster Sauce.—Heat one pint of oysters in their own liquor and cook until plump. Remove the oysters and prepare a sauce, using one-fourth cupful of flour and butter, one cupful of milk or chicken broth and the oyster liquor. Cook until smooth, add the oysters and serve on toast or with fish.

Maitre d'Hotel Butter.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add three-fourths of a tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-half tablespoonful of finely minced parsley, salt and cayenne. Serve with broiled steak or with fish.

Potatoes Stuffed With Sausage.—Select large potatoes and with an apple corer remove the centers lengthwise. Fill with little sausages and bake on the rack in a dripping pan. Serve with the gravy made from the drippings in the pan, adding water and seasonings. Bacon rolled may be used in place of the sausages.

Up Against It

"You've heard of a person being in a quandary, haven't you?" Peterson asked.
"Sure," replied Brown. "Why?"
"Well, I just had a letter from an old friend, and he's in one. He's been in rather bad health for some time, so the other day he went to see a doctor, and the doctor advised him to take two or three months' complete rest. That's where the quandary comes in. He's been working for the government for fifteen years, and doesn't know where to look for a more com-

Sunrising

When the sun approaches towards the gates of the morning, he first opens a little eye of heaven, and sends away the spirit of darkness, and gives light to a cock, and calls up the lark to matins, and by and by builds the fringes of a cloud, and peeps over the eastern hills, thrusting out his golden horns, like those which decked the brows of Moses when he was forced to wear a veil because himself had seen the face of God; and still, while a man tells the story, the sun gets up higher, till he shows a fair face and a full light, and then he shines one whole day.—Jeremy Taylor.

Making Fine Distinctions

"A woman does not mind being called a kitten, but hates to be named a cat. A man, on the contrary, is flattered at being thought a dog, but resents being referred to as a puppy."
"When a man describes a woman as a 'sympathetic soul,' you know that she has placed herself like a silent and succulent sponge full in the flow of his eloquence for a considerable number of hours, while he declaimed to her his 'conquests, glories, triumphs, spoils,' in an uninterrupted monologue of complacency."—"Mere Man," by Honor Bright.
