WHAT A COLLECTION PLATE THINKS.

Well, here's where I do my little one-act comic-tragedy again.

I can always tell when I'm going to be trotted out for my performance because such an odd kind of hush comes over the audience and because the choir are unable to sing and the organist has to go it alone.

Wonder who is going to pass me around today? Last Sunday evening Old Reliable was sick and the extra who handled me wasn't onto his job and I didn't do as well as a blind man selling pencils at the postoffice corner.

The old veteran who usually handles me in my appearances before the church-going public never makes a mistake like that. He knows that folks dislike to have me go by without dropping me something, and he knows the church it is a physical and mental condition. If you have lost that youthful up-and-coming feeling, and your only enjoyment is resting, you need a tonic.

PEPTONA

will give you the vim, vigor and vitality of a youth, because it enriches the blood, builds strength, gives the system real PEP and tones up health generally.

A run down condition is especially bad at this season of the year.

Peptona is $1.00 a large bottle.

can't afford to miss a nickel or dime. I often wonder why they always pass me around before the sermon is preached. It isn't customary to pay for something before you get it.

Possibly they have me take up the collection in advance so that the preacher will know how good a sermon to preach, or possibly so that he will feel free to say what he pleases about some of those in the audience—or possibly he wishes to know whether he is going to get enough to make it worth while not to say some of the things he knows he ought to say.

Passing me around in advance is often bad policy. How can a preacher be expected to preach a good sermon when he sees that $1.50 is the amount I have collected as an offset for the day's time he has expended in preparing himself.

It seems peculiar to me that although I'm one of the most useful persons in this church I'm one of the most unpopular. It's no wonder I have a sour disposition. Some endure me gracefully but none greet me with a smile.

Well, here's where we go. Watch me do my stuff! That's a good start and makes me happy. That poor widow dropped me a dime. A dollar from many others wouldn't mean so much to me as that widow's dime.

That fellow who always tries to arrive about two minutes after I've done my stuff. I never was popular with him. We're going to get him this time. He's usually liberal when he does get caught. Why shouldn't he be? He's merely giving up what he's been holding out on me.

What do you think of that? That fellow let his wife drop two nickels—and he spent two dollars taking another fellow's wife to the show in Portland last week. I heard the ladies' aid talking about it.

Two pants buttons from that traveling man. Possibly he made a mistake, but the preacher needs them. His wife had to borrow one from a neighbor this morning and the preacher was late at Sunday school.

There's Old Money Bags trying to stare me out of countenance. If the smallest piece of money he has is more than a nickel he always has me make change. I hope someone drops some pennies before I get to him. Here's that fellow again with his bobbed-haired sweetie. He always drops a two-bit piece with the air of a millionaire and spends five dollars taking her for a motor ride in the afternoon.

I got a dollar from that fellow. I heard the ladies' aid say that he squanders an awful lot of money on cigars and things. It might be better for me if more did the same. Thank goodness that my stunt is over. I'm as nervous as a school kid speaking her commencement piece.

Not a bad foregone, I'll say—six dollars in silver and thirteen pennies—the best I've done for a long time—but if folks were as thrifty in other ways as they are in their financial relations with the church, we wouldn't have any paupers.

Cottage Grove wants a new union high school. The project was suggested by County School Superintendent Moore at an institute held in Cottage Grove recently, and the suggestion seems to have taken well. Cottage Grove is just the sort of a community to see the thing through to fruition.

It is but a short time ago that Bryan retired from the newspaper business and now he is reported to be a millionaire. What a Croesus he might have been had he quit the newspaper business years ago.

An explorer in Africa has found fish that flirt. All fish aren't flirts, but all flirts are fish.

TWO TONS OF POISON ARE FED TO RODENTS

This is rodent control week throughout Lane county and indications are, from the amount of poison bait mixed and distributed through the county agent's office, that a bunch of digger squirrels have turned their toesies to the heavens permanently.

Due to the lack of a county agent to take charge of the rodent control work, squirrels and other rodents have gained a foothold during the past two years. In nearly every section there are a few who have failed to cooperate for the extermination of the rodents.

The law is now such that such persons can be punished for permitting rodents on their places and at least one of these in charge of the work here proposes to see that the law is enforced.

Notice to Registered Voters!

The County Clerk's Office has completed checking by precincts the names of registered voters who have failed to vote in the precinct during the years 1923 and 1924.

Where any doubt exists in the mind of the voter as to his proper registration, it will be well to check up at the Clerk's office.

The desire of the County Clerk's office is to clear the files of duplications, which the law requires to be done, and we will gladly give attention to any corrections or re-statements which may be requested.

Registration for voters is possible at all times except thirty days prior to elections.

R. S. BRYSON, Clerk.
