

"As Usual During Alterations"

Convenience of our depositors has always been foremost in the minds of those associated with this bank. Naturally, this thought has been incorporated in the alterations now being made in our banking rooms.

Our enlarged quarters will enable us to offer patrons an even better banking service than has heretofore been possible.

While these changes are being made we ask the indulgence of our friends. The new rooms will repay any inconveniences to which we may now be subjected.

Harry Leon Wilson was praising California. "California is so wonderful," he said, "that if you praise it unreservedly strangers will think you are lying. Like Mike, you know. Little Mike was telling his little eastern friend about his California visit and about Santa Cataline, with its wonderful glass-bottomed boats wherein you float over rose-colored coral reefs and watch the gorgeous fish swimming in the crystal water 30 or 40 feet below. 'Yep,' Mike concluded, 'we could see the fish just as plain, laying on the bottom of the ocean.' 'Lying, dear,' corrected one of the ladies present. 'I ain't neither,' said Little Mike. 'It's the gospel truth.'"

Once Populous Cities Reclaimed by Jungle

The old question whether a thing can be lost when you know where it is applies in part to lost cities, because the sites of many of them are known and in some cases even the buildings and statuary are almost intact.

Now, however, their only inhabitants are the beasts of the jungle, lions prowl through their echoing halls, monkeys race across their fretted arches and snakes lurk in their dark dungeons or glide across their crumbling pavements.

For instance, the holy city of the Buddhists—Harabodoo, in Java—had been forgotten for 800 years when Sir Stamford Raffles rediscovered it and its wonderful temple, the eighth wonder of the world, says a writer in London Answers.

The jungle of Siam has hidden its ancient capital, Ayuthia, for four centuries. Its inhabitants fled before the conquering Burmese, and never returned. It is now said to be the lurking place of thousands of enormous snakes.

Mystery surrounds the dead city of Tibet, which Captain Rawling discovered. It is a vast collection of palaces, monasteries and dwelling houses, but the Tibetans professed ignorance of its existence, and also of the reason of its abandonment.

Five centuries ago Angkor had a population of three-quarters of a million. Today it is the dead city of Cambodia. The carved stone elephants, the immense causeways, the majestic temples, still remain, but the jungle has invaded the streets and squares.

Young Ducklings Early at Home in the Water

The woodduck, unlike most other ducks, usually builds his nest far from his natural element, water, writes E.H. Gilmore MacLeod in St. Nicholas. But no sooner are the eggs hatched and the ducklings in its bill, wriggles through the opening in the chestnut tree or white oak which harbors the nest, and with a quick glance lost some enemy may lurk near, flies swiftly overland to creek or water hole. Here the two tiny burdens are dropped gently into the water.

Without previous swimming lessons, these newly hatched mites dart over the surface of the water for the cover of marsh grass or lily pad where they hide until the return of their parents with more of their brothers and sisters.

The flight of the old ducks continues back and forth from the home nest to the water until the family of from 12 to 18 are assembled, when, at a soft call-note from the parents, every little paddler darts from cover and starts chasing water spiders, as if that were an old game.

His Way Out of Dilemma

The commanding officer looked down the charge sheet to see what type of case he had to deal with that morning.

Suddenly he started. "Mutiny!" he muttered. "Private King charged with mutiny!" Then aloud: "Where is the corporal who made this arrest?"

"Here, sir," answered a corporal, stepping forward.

"Do you charge Private King with mutiny?" was the stern inquiry. "I do, sir," was the reply. "On what grounds?" The corporal hesitated for a moment. Then: "Well, sir," he said, confidentially, "it was really insubordination, but I didn't know how to spell that, so I put 'mutiny.'"

Heat Kills Germs

Radiant (or visible) heat was emphasized by Prof. Leonard Hill—at a recent meeting of the London Zoological society—as "most useful in helping caged animals to fight against infection" from tuberculosis. Hot-water pipes, he pointed out, though an economical way of raising temperature in the animal houses, do not provide all the benefits of radiant heat such as we know best in the form of sunlight and, in another form, in the domestic coal fire. In fact, central heating—excellent in its place—is not healthy heating, as the prevalence of tuberculosis in steam-heating countries such as Sweden, Russia and the United States goes far to prove.

Passed Over Bonanza

Although any '49er who made good in the gold rush to California in 1849 had no bone to pick with his fate, it is a comment that many of them and their brothers who were not so successful walked right over a rich bonanza in the southern part of Mexico, along the isthmus of Panama, over which many of them trekked. Along the river of the Winding Snake many '49ers walked on their way to the Pacific coast, little knowing that later prospectors would find a rich field of oil beneath their feet.

Rather Cynical Test

The subject of text-finding was being discussed by two clergymen in regard to addresses of married couples at wedding services.

"Do you have a text as a rule?" asked one of the other. "No; I never have had one," was the reply, "but I know what I should choose if I did have one. It comes from Psalm 2, verse 7—'Abundance of peace so long as the moon endureth.'"

New Descriptive Word

"My wife is forever saying, 'When are you going to do this?' and 'When are you going to do that?'"

"My boy, you're whenpecked."

The Trade Name

"I hear they have established a home for telephone operators." "And what did they name it?" "Listen Inn."—Overhead Wires.

PIONEER PAGEANT TO BE HELD ON MAY 9

A pioneer pageant, to be participated in by the school children of the county, is being arranged by E. J. Moore, county school superintendent. It will be held in Eugene May 9. The pageant will consist largely of floats which shall symbolize the experiences of the pioneers crossing the plains or establishing their homes in the west. Other means to represent the experiences of the pioneers may be employed. Five prizes totaling $195 will be offered. Prizes also will be offered for largest attendance from one school and for the best essays. The essays are to be written and judged previous to the pageant and the prize winners will be read by their authors at a public meeting to be held in the afternoon.

The purpose of the pageant is to commemorate the early struggles of those hardy souls who gave us the Oregon country.

CONTRIBUTION IS BEING ASKED FOR HOSPITAL

The Portland Telegram, in cooperation with the American Legion in Portland, has started a campaign having for its object the raising of funds with which to put in operation the Doernbecher hospital in Portland, a gift to the state university. The appropriation for the support of the institution was vetoed by the governor and the hospital can not be put into operation without funds being supplied from private sources, the amount needed being $60,000. The Telegram has found that there are 1500 children in the state needing the treatment that this institution will provide. Churches, lodges and other organizations have been asked to participate in the campaign. Contributions may be sent to "Good-fellow Editor, The Telegram."

A candidate called upon a farmer and started the conversation by asking, "How's politics this year, old man?"

"Rather mixed," said the tiller of the soil. "Mirandy is a democrat, I'm a republican, the baby is wet and the cow is dry."
