Stocks One of Oldest Forms of Punishment

The stocks at Wroxball recalls one of the oldest forms of punishment of drunkards, disorderly persons, and other offenders against the law. The chief merit of the punishment was that it was cheap, no expense being incurred by the parish. Every village was required by the law of 1405 to provide stocks, and these as a rule were placed just outside the church, as being the most prominent situation. Up and down the Midlands the old stocks are still to be met with. In London their use was discontinued nearly a century ago, but in the provinces they were not abandoned until some years later, says the London Chronicle. So far as Birmingham is concerned, the last person placed in the stocks was in 1844, the punishment taking place in the yard of the old public offices in Moor street.

It is recorded that at Stratford-on-Avon as late as 1808 a man who had taken too much malt liquor was put in the stocks, but does not seem to have been at all abashed by his public degradation, for when an inquisitive person inquired how he liked being there he was reported: "I beat the first man as ever were in the stocks, so I don't care a fardin about it." Biblical students need not be reminded that Jephthah, the prophet, was placed in the stocks by Pashur, and Paul and Silas would seem to have suffered much the same kind of treatment at the hands of the jailer at Philippi.

Much Work Involved in Making Dictionary

The dictionary, together with the textbook, is largely responsible for the uniformity of pronunciation in the United States and the general adoption of a similar system of spelling than that which is used in England. Such words as "labor" and "color," spelled with a "u" in the second syllable in England, are examples of the newer method.

The business of making a dictionary is a stupendous task. A dictionary is a record and arrangement of all the words of a language, current and obsolete, together with all their meanings and uses. In addition, a dictionary is a historical record of words.

The lexicographer—for that is the name given to a man who compiles a dictionary—must indicate the origin of each word so far as it can be determined, and the changes which have come about in its meaning through the passing of the years. If a word has died out, he must tell when it happened.

We Have No Real Bananas

While the banana is eaten in great numbers and made the subject of song, loud and vociferous, the statement is made that we do not know what bananas are until we have had the experience of eating them in the land where they are grown. Those which we in this country are familiar with are grown in Costa Rica, Jamaica and countries in tropical America, but they are picked for shipment long before they have ripened and before they have taken on their best flavor. Efforts have been made to grow the fruit in California, Louisiana and other warm sections of this country, but the attempts have been generally unsuccessful, for the tree will not stand the temperature approaching frost. The efforts have never been commercially successful. In the East Indies bananas are grown that are a foot long and two inches in thickness, but it is impossible to ship these.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Two Howlers

Special notice has just reached me of two excellent schoolboy howlers. The first is the most idiomatic translation of "Pax in bello," which was rendered "Freedom from indigestion." The second relates to the well-known historical incident of Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh's cloak. After describing the scene, the pupil made the queen say: "Sir Walter, I am afraid I have dirtied your cloak."

"Dieu et mon droit," replied Sir Walter, which means in English, "My G—d, you are right!"—London Daily News.

Oddities of the Wind

A prevalent idea about wind is that it consists of a mass of air moving steadily and with approximately the same speed in all parts. Such a wind is a rarity, says Nature Magazine, and perhaps never occurs near the earth's surface. A normal wind is full of waves and eddies, and it flows past any particular point in a succession of gusts and lulls. These irregularities in the wind are revealed by the movements of smoke pouring from a chimney on a windy day.

Dated Famous in History

The name "Eighteenth Brumaire" is given the bloodiest revolution whereby Napoleon Bonaparte, on November 9, 1799, overthrew the directory and of the five hundred, established the consulate in its place and had himself chosen first consul. This coup d'etat was so called because it took place on the eighteenth day of Brumaire—the first month of the year according to the French revolutionary calendar.—Kansas City Star.

The Black Death

With the exception of the World war, perhaps no other calamity that ever befell the human race can be compared with that of the black death and the accompanying famine, which afflicted all Western civilization during the middle decade of the fourteenth century.

Its toll has been variously estimated at from one-fourth to three-fourths of the entire population of Europe. Certainly it was not less than 20,000,000 people.—Exchange.

Does Your Back Ache?

Bad Backs Bring Suffering to Many Cottage Grove Folks.

Is that dull, constant backache making you old and miserable? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going? Do you suffer headaches, dizzy spells and urinary disorders; feel weak, tired and worn out? Then look to your kidneys. Delay may mean serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's Pills are recommended by Cottage Grove folks.

Mrs. Narcissa L. Smith, 118 N. First, Cottage Grove, says: "My kidneys were out of order and I suffered so with my back I could hardly keep going. Frequent dizzy headaches made me miserable. My work was burdensome and I often neglected it and my kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Pills cured me of the backache and all signs of kidney complaint."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Day of the Ironing Board Is Past

The day when women were content to do everything by hand is gone forever. Household work is done by machinery for the same reason machinery is used in factories, the work is done better and done faster.

What intelligent woman will push and pull an iron over a long table cloth when there is a good machine at a reasonable price which does the pushing and pulling for her.
