EXPLORER TELLS STORY OF CRUELTY IN RUSSIA

much information regarding the country and its people.

The idea that Siberia is a barren country is entirely incorrect. There are wheat fields, rich mineral deposits, the greatest timber belts in the world and a great supply of natural wealth in this country.

The intense suffering of the people under the Communist rule was vividly told by the speaker. Living in want with all their property confiscated the peasants are forced to provide splendid feasts for the officials who are never without food themselves. These banquets are used very largely for the purpose of impressing visitors with the apparent prosperity of the country and inducing them to believe that Communism is a success. That many visitors to Russia have been fooled in this was the opinion of Captain Gudmunson.

He challenged and adherent of communism in the audience to show one good thing about it and declared he was going into Idaho and challenge Senator Borah to meet him in debate at any time to show why the United States should recognize the Soviet republic.

Declaring that charity begins at home he said that we should take care of the children living in the American cities before sending money abroad for charity. While the Bolsheviks were raising money to send propaganda to America we were sending money to Russia to take care of the suffering there.
