FLAPPERISH NEWPORT.

"What has happened to old Newport?" is the first question that arises to the lips of one who visits there for the first time within a year. The transformation is astonishing.

Sandy stretches that did valiant duty as arteries of traffic have given way to macadamized streets, miles of them. Most of the planks that formerly kept automobile wheels from sinking into the sands are gone and those that remain are to go.

We were proudly informed that the city by the sea now boasts a sewer system.

Only Front street remains as of yore. There the salt sea water yet beats against a dilapidated timber breakwater and flippers "fliv" over a plank street, some of the planks waving wildly in the air as the heaves and lizzies filled with jazz kids hurtle over them.

Only Front street reminds us of the quiet old Newport which we wish to fondly cherish in memory. There the water front yet reminds one of a chapter out of Dickens describing a coast village in yestermerrie old England of long ago. From one of the weatherbeaten, salt air cured shanties yet remaining one may expect some Dickens character to emerge.

And soon these scenes along Front street are to be no more.

Already work has been started upon a concrete breakwater. And the planks that rattle and sway in the breeze are to give way to a modern street.

Newport always did have some of the finest people in the world. Their hospitality, and attention to guests are not equalled anywhere else in the world. Their seafood banquets will long be remembered by those who have partaken of them. But few ever dreamed that these good people would within a year transform their town from a sleepy fishing village and haven of refuge from the madding crowd into a bustling modern summer resort. Yet that seems to be what has happened.

Even the salt air complexions seem to be no more and the variegated flapper rooms at will, although her bare knees attract little attention where surf bathing is the popular pastime.

The next time we visit Newport we shall expect to find the bivouacs doing the rock oyster wriggle, the crawfish crawl, and the muscle massage and wearing their shells at half mast along with the rest of the flappers.

The change in Newport is startling, daring, somewhat disconcerting, but probably presages the development of a great seaside summer resort and outing rendezvous.

The grazing of cows on the city streets has in these modern days "evolved" into gazing at the calves.

A Washington street car conductor has been rewarded for courtesy to a woman passenger by a present of $4000. He probably needed the money. Evidently he was a new man on the job.

It doesn't pay to ridicule others. In an effort to make laughing stock of one who had written a sarcastic letter to it, the Oregon Motorist printed the letter "as was"—misspelled words and all—but in its own comment it did a good job of misspelling.

Another Rodeo for Calapooya.
Guy Ray, who put on the rodeo at Calapooya springs July 3 and 4, will put on a racing, bucking, fancy riding and roping exhibition there on Sunday, July 26.

SOCIETY

A wedding of interest to many here was that of Miss Bertha Alice Hays and Edward Dorris McAllister, both of Eugene, which was performed this forenoon in Eugene at the Alpha Xi Delta house, of which sorority the bride is a member. The newlyweds left immediately for a week's outing on the McKenzie and will then go to Berkeley, Calif., where both will have college teaching positions the coming year. Both were teachers in the University of Oregon last year. Those from here present at the wedding were Superintendent and Mrs. O. W. Hays, Mr. Hays being a brother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Georg Bjorset and Miss Marian White. Mrs. Bjorset and Miss White are sorority sisters of the bride. Others in the party from here were Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Hays, of Ashland, and Mrs. Dorothy Hill, of Pe Ell, Wash., who had been guests at the O. W. Hays home here. I. J. Hays is the father of the bride and Mrs. Hill a sister.

Members of the Eastern Star and the Constellation club gave a miscellaneous shower Friday for the Earl Baldwin family, whose home was destroyed by fire July 4. The women gathered at the Roy E. Short home and went to the Ernest Baldwin home at Curtin, where the Earl Baldwin family were making their home. About 25 were present.

Mrs. J. D. Monroe entertained last evening at an informal dinner complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Ray Finley Huff, newlyweds. Those to enjoy the affair were the F. A. Monroe, W. C. Monroe, J. D. Monroe and Wallace Derriek families and Mrs. F. C. Kress. The latter is of Corning, Calif., and is visiting at the Monroe home.

Mrs. Teeters was surprised Monday afternoon by eight W. R. C. members who dropped in for a social afternoon. Ice cream and cake, which the guests took with them, were served.

The Eugene chapter of the Eastern Star has invited the local chapter to join in a picnic to be held tomorrow evening at Goshen.

Elmarts club members have been invited to a 1 o'clock luncheon tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Ivan Barker at Oakland.

Utopia club members and their families will hold a picnic July 30.

This conversation is said to have taken place in an exclusive underworld circle:

"Here's a paper," said Languid Lewis, "which tells about a horse running away with a woman, and she was laid up for six weeks."

"That's nothin'," rejoined Bostful Benjamin. "A friend o' mine ran away with a horse, and he was laid up for six years."

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Dishes in Season

FOR those who cannot eat rich pastry, but enjoy the filling of a pie, the following will be enjoyed:

Pumpkin Ramekins.—Take one and one-half cups of steamed strained pumpkin, add two-thirds of a cupful of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half cupful of cream, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two eggs and one and one-half cupfuls of milk. Mix the ingredients and fill ramekins, which have been rinsed in cold water—fill two-thirds full. Bake in a moderate oven and when a golden brown cover with a meringue and brown, or serve with whipped cream.

Cranberry Jelly.—To one quart of cranberries add just enough cold water to float the berries. Cook until the berries swell and burst; take from the fire and put through a sieve. Return to the pan and add two cupfuls of sugar, cook five minutes and turn into a mold. Serve cold.

Fruit Cocktail.—Take one large grapefruit, two large oranges, one can of sliced pineapple, one-half cupful of white grapes, one cupful of white cherries, one small bottle of maraschino cherries and one cupful of sugar. Remove the seeds from the grapefruit and oranges and scoop out the fruit with a spoon. Cut the pineapple into small pieces, remove the seeds from the white cherries, cut grapes into half and remove the seeds. Pour over the sugar and let stand in an earthen dish at least twenty-four hours before serving.

Creamed Celery.—Remove the outside stalks, scrape and cut into inch lengths. Let stand in cold water for fifteen minutes. Drain and drop into boiling water; cook until tender; drain and add to a well-seasoned white sauce, using one cupful of sauce to one cupful of the celery before cooking.

A little ham left from baking, or broiled ham, put through the meat chopper and added to an omelet just before it is folded to serve, makes a hearty dish for a luncheon or supper.
