

HARVEY JONES IS DROWNED IN MOSBY CREEK

Lad and Two Companions Fall From Horse Upon Which They Are Crossing Stream.

The first drowning of the season happened Wednesday when 10-year-old Harvey Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Jones, lost his life in a swimming hole near the Jones place seven miles from here on Mosby creek.

The lad and two companions attempted to cross the stream on the back of a horse and fell off into the water. The lad's companions were able to reach shore themselves but were unable to save their companion, who sank in 14 feet of water. The Jones lad might have been accidentally kicked by the horse and thus rendered unable to help himself.

The other lads immediately summoned the Jones boy's parents and a number of neighbors soon gathered but it was probably 45 minutes before anyone arrived who could dive for the body. After the body had been recovered it was probably 45 minutes before a physician arrived. Even then the physician was able to start heart action but was unable to get oxygen into the body. He was of the opinion that with the aid of a pulmotor the lad might have been brought back to life.

The funeral is to be held at 2 o'clock Friday at the Blue Mountain cemetery.

MYSTERY CAR IS FOUND

Papers and Books Give Name of O. M. Hand, Salem.

Mystery is connected with the finding by the city police officials of a Chevrolet car bearing Arizona license plates. It had been left for a day or more in a clump of oak grubs just south of the city park. Residents of that vicinity reported that they had seen it there upon other occasions. In the car were found books upon which appeared the name of O. M. Hand, with a Salem address. The books and papers indicated that their owner had been employed with a fruit growers' association in Arizona.

Word was sent Salem police officials of the finding of the car and return word has been received that O. M. Hand, whose name appeared on the books and papers, will come here Sunday to get the car. No explanation was offered as to how the car might have gotten here.

Funeral of Mrs. England Held.

The funeral of Mrs. Lowry England, held yesterday from the Presbyterian church, was largely attended, especially by friends from Dorena, and the floral tributes were magnificent. The service was conducted by Pastor J. E. Ostrander, of Eugene. Interment was in the Sears cemetery.

London Bridge Is Opened.

London, July 29.—(Special.)—The new bridge over the Coast fork near the school house has been completed by the county and is now in use. The new structure is so located as to do away with a bad and dangerous piece of road.

BLUE MOUNTAIN.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Miss Roberta Miller, who had been visiting with her mother, has returned to the LaSells Stewart home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duerst and baby picnicked on Sharp's creek Sunday.

Miss Frieda Castle visited several days of last week with her father, who is employed at Anlauf. Tony and Mack Tonole spent the week-end with their parents at Divide.

Mrs. Louise Kibbey and Mrs. Finley Whips and daughter Gladys attended camp meeting in Cottage Grove Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Moody have moved to the Perini mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Perini and baby were in Eugene Monday on business.

Bill Wilcox returned Monday from a visit with relatives at Harriburg.

Fans Are on Edge for Woods-Hand Go

Fans are on edge for the wrestling match Saturday night, when Sailor Jack Wood and Ralph Hand will play a return engagement. Neither was satisfied with the outcome of their recent match, which went to Hand on a referee's decision. Local fans are of the opinion that Hand was the master of the situation, despite the fact that one fall had gone against him. Several times he had the sailor tied in knots from which he escaped only by crawling to the edge of the mat or by using his feet. Hand has agreed that for the match Saturday he will take better care of his pedal extremities and will wrestle the kind of game that meets with the approval of the local fans.

Harry Neet and Bud Riley will wrestle during the preliminaries.

CHAMBERS RAILWAY GRADE IS COMPLETED FOUR MILES

Rails Are Down for Mile; More Rails Are Here and More Coming From Belgium.

The grade for the J. H. Chambers railway to timber west of here has been completed for four of the 10 miles. Two bridges are yet to be built in this distance before the rails can be placed. Rails have been laid for a distance of a mile and the grade ballasted for that distance. The laying of track was held up because of lack of rails but several carloads have been unloaded this week and that work will now proceed. The rails now going down are 75 pounds which Mr. Chambers has bought from the Southern Pacific. They have had little use. They are apparently coming from Mexico, where some branch line probably has been abandoned. A large shipment of new rails will arrive from Belgium during the latter part of the year.

The rock that is being used for ballasting is being secured from a gravel pit upon property southwest of the city adjoining the railway. A part of this property is being used for yard purposes.

WATER VIOLATORS FINED

Several Deposit $3 Each for Irrigating Beyond Time Limit.

That law is no respecter of persons was demonstrated this week when five prominent water users appeared in the recorder's court to answer complaints filed by Water Inspector Boyd. In each case it was charged that the water user had been caught three times using water for irrigation an hour or more past the limit fixed by the water committee. Each paid a fine of $3. Irrigation hours are from 6 to 8 a. m. and from 6 to 8 p. m. The rule that water rents must be paid or water services refused is having its effect in decreasing the number of delinquencies.

Takes Drink; Is Robbed.

Eugene, Ore., July 30.—A drink of moonshine liquor proffered by newly made "friends" resulted in R. E. Balfour, of Cottage Grove, losing his money, watch, pocket knife and hat about 7:30 o'clock last night, according to the report made by the victim to the police. About $19 in change and a gold watch were the heaviest losses suffered by Mr. Balfour.

Because of changes in the route of the county road between Cottage Grove and Dorena, the city will be required to lay more than 2000 feet of 12-inch pipe. The location of the present main line is such that it interferes with the county road in its new location. It was thought best to lay new pipe instead of moving the pipe now in use.

Grove Tops List Again.

Cottage Grove headed the list of cities in its class for enrollment for the recent Defense day test. The enrollment here was 561. Eugene was to the front for cities of its class with an enrollment of 5082.

MOVING OF RESERVOIR DIRT IS UNDER WAY

Godard & Randall, Contractors, Have Hoist Ready for Hauling Material Up Grade.

Work is now well under way on the city's new reservoir. Godard & Randall, the contractors, have their hoist set at the top of the hill and have smoothed out the humps in Madison avenue leading to the top. Soft spots have been planked. The hoist will be used to assist trucks in climbing the grade, but there will be few heavy loads until the hauling of materials for the concrete starts within two or three weeks.

The contractors started yesterday to irrigate the earth that is to be removed. Wetting it down makes it easier to dig and also puts it into condition to pack better in the fills. Skinning the ground where the reservoir is to be placed was begun today.

The reinforcing steel for the concrete has arrived and the roller that is to be used in packing the fills will be here within a few days, possibly this week.

LONDON.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

July 29.—Mrs. Charles Wood, son Robin and niece Daisy Warwick spent several days last week in Eugene as the guests of Mrs. Wood's sister, Miss Viola Welby, who is attending summer school at the university.

Several members of the C. W. Ewing family were on the sick list last week.

George and John Sutherland have traded places, the change to be made in about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cox and children and B. G. Banton attended church services at Lone Cedar Sunday.

Miss Hazel Powell spent Sunday at Lorane visiting home folks.

A daughter was born July 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Newton. Mrs. Newton is at The Dalles with her mother, Mrs. Matney.

Mrs. J. E. Banton, B. G. Banton and daughter Geraldine, and Mrs. Gerald Abene and daughters left Tuesday morning by motor for Sunnyside, Wash., for a week's visit with the Charles Marlow family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyons are having their house painted. W. T. Jones is doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Roberts and sons, of Anlauf, and Mr. and Mrs. George Sutherland and children were guests Sunday at the B. A. Pruett home.

Miss Emma Jones, of Black Butte, spent Sunday at the home of her brother, W. T. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Pruett, who have been residents of this neighborhood for five years, are moving to Cottage Grove, where their daughter Jessie will attend high school.

Mrs. England, who died at Cottage Grove Sunday, was a cousin of George Bailes of this place.

Mrs. W. T. Jones is remodeling one of the cottages she purchased last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. James Powell and family spent a three days' vacation at Bandon and Port Orford.

Glen Banton, William Bachelder and Hubert Ewing were business visitors in Corvallis Monday.

The threshing machine association held a meeting at the store Tuesday evening.

Miss Lulu Hull, of Cottage Grove, was a guest of Miss Nola Banton over Tuesday night.

Interest in C. of C. Takes Spurt

Interest in the chamber of commerce has taken a sudden spurt, as was evidenced by the crowded table for the Tuesday noon luncheon. Much of this interest is due to the activities of Secretary Mendenhall and much to the adoption of the luncheon plan. Fifteen new members were reported.

Favorable action was taken upon the proposal that a number of chamber members attend the harvest festival to be held tonight at Hebron by the Farmers' union.

Secretary Mendenhall reported numerous inquiries from California and eastern points for information and literature. Fifteen inquiries in one day was the record, he said.

Thieves Strip Car and Leave in Woods

The body of what was once a Chevrolet touring car has been found in the woods above the Blue Mountain school house and was brought to the city yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Frank McFarland.

All identification marks and even the license plates had been removed from the car. A chisel had been used in removing the motor number and factory number. The car had been stripped and everything removable taken with the exception of a spare that was in poor condition. There is no clew whatever as to how the machine got to the place where it was found or who took it there. What remains of the car is apparently in good condition.

Trails to Nowhere

By O. Lawrence Hawthorne

"I have no time to travel far
The trails that lead to Nowhere,
For I must learn where riches are
And follow roads that he said;
I could not well afford," he said,
"To wander where some cowpath led!"

Two years ago and miles away
I heard this declaration,
But I am wiser grown today
And know its refutation;
And I have seen how tragic is
The fate of men with hearts like his.

I chose a charming trail one day
They said would lead to Nowhere,
But I went blithely on my way
To find what flowers grow there,
For I was seeking happiness
And courting Nature's kind caress.

I followed far this sylvan lane,
Enchanted by its beauty,
Forgetting quite all hope of gain
And thinking naught of duty,
When suddenly I found that thing
For which my soul was hungering!

I found the fortune which my friend
Had sought in vain on highways;
I found contentment at the end
Of one of Nowhere's byways.
Here was the chance at last, I knew,
To do the work I wished to do!

"OUT—A MILE!"

When the movie beauties down California way get tired of coveting before a battery of cameras—they choose batteries of their own and start a baseball game. At least, so the over-heated press agent wrote who sent this photograph along as proof of his story.

You see those beautiful beauties are in constant need of exercise to keep their figures within the much desired "perfect 36" class and hold their jobs. And when you look at the two shown above, really don't you think they're showing good form—as baseball players!

That's Blanche Mehaffey sliding for the bag, with Kathleen Collins about to tag her out. Looks like Blanche's hard slide was a little bit short. As a fan would say, she's "out a mile."

INTEREST IN BUILDING FOR HOSPITAL CONTINUES

Chamber of Commerce Appoints a Committee to Cooperate With Eugene Promoter.

The chamber of commerce is taking an active interest in the proposal for the establishment of a hospital here and at the noon luncheon Tuesday a committee headed by J. H. Chambers as appointed to meet with Charles E. Turner, Eugene contractor, who represents those who propose the erection of a fire-proof structure in the business section of the city that would be used for mercantile and office purposes as well as for a hospital. Other members of the committee are T. C. Wheeler and R. S. Trask.

Mr. Turner stated Tuesday that nothing will be done toward financing the proposition until sufficient tenants have been secured to make certain a profit upon the required investment.

COMPTON GETS CONTRACT

Objections to Washington Avenue Paving Are Not Renewed.

A contract for the paving of Washington avenue with two inches of black top was let Monday night by the city council to the J. C. Compton company, the only bidder.

Awarding of the contract had been held over for a week upon request of property owners who had questioned whether the price was reasonable and whether two inches of black top over the present macadam would make a good street. At the Monday night meeting no one appeared to object to the awarding of the contract.

The reason that there was but one bid was because no one could compete in price with the J. C. Compton company, which has the other street contracts. The price to be paid is the same as that to be paid on the other streets being paved.

Death Is Preferred To Asking Aid

Roseburg, Ore., July 28.—Wilbur Atkinson, 85 years of age, for 40 years a resident of Wasco county, and for ten years city dump tender at The Dalles, was found this morning helpless and slowly dying of starvation at a point along the bank of the south Umpqua river within a few blocks of the heart of the city.

For a month he had lain ill with disease and too sick to work and for two weeks had tasted no food other than a clover tea which he brewed himself. His health forced him to quit heavy work twelve years ago, he said, and he remained in The Dalles tending the city dump for ten years. Finally he was unable to do that any longer and with his savings practically gone he came to Roseburg in search of something to do. At last almost penniless and too proud to seek help or charity, he crawled off to die. His condition finally attracted attention and he was removed this morning to the county hospital.

Saginaw May Vacate Streets.

That Saginaw, two miles north, was once a more important place than Cottage Grove is brought to mind by a contest that is brewing before the county court over a petition that has been presented for the vacating of streets that were laid out when the big Booth-Kelly mill was in operation there many years ago and when it appeared that a city might grow there.

A counter petition which has been presented to the court gives reasons why it is desirable to have the streets remain open.

2000 EXPECTED AT MEETING BY SUNDAY NIGHT

Fully 300 Are Members of Camp Grounds Family; Many Preachers Are Present.

The attendance at the fifth annual camp meeting of the Oregon Methodist conference has become so large that practically all camping space has been taken. Thirty additional families have arrived on the camp grounds during the week, bringing the camp ground family to at least 300. Many more from outside points are quartered in private homes and the hostleries of the city.

Conversions range from 40 to 75 each day and the total is several hundred.

Practically all Methodist pastors of the southern Oregon district were on the grounds Monday afternoon, when a conference was held. This brought the total of preachers to 50. Many are remaining for the close of the meeting Sunday night. Evangelists Miller and Hargett are drawing large afternoon and evening audiences. A number of visiting preachers are being used for the forenoon services. It is estimated that fully 2000 will be present for the closing services Sunday, when many from outside points will camp for the day.

Preachers in attendance have voted to give their support to the camp meeting grounds for every activity of the church.

The annual meeting of the Epworth League of the state will be held in the camp meeting tabernacle for 10 days beginning August 8.

Tot Gets Steel in Eye.

While the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Guggisberg, of the Row river road, was at play several days ago, something lodged in the child's eye. Little was thought of it at the time, but as the particle failed to dislodge and the eye became worse, the little one was brought to the city for medical attention. It was found that the particle was a piece of steel and that an ulcer had formed around it. The child has now fully recovered.

Beidler Sustains Mashed Fingers.

Fred Beidler sustained a painful injury Monday when three fingers of his right hand were badly bruised while he was employed at the oil well. Beidler was assisting for a few days in the setting of the casing and was almost done with his work when the accident happened. The second, third and fourth fingers were caught by the cable. This is the first accident that has happened at the well.

Adams Avenue Is Completed.

Adams avenue from Second street east to the Southern Pacific right of way is now a completed street and the crew which was employed there has been moved to east Washington avenue, where the base course of black top is being laid today. East Adams will be the next street to be treated and south Sixth street probably will come next.
