It is early to make predictions, but it appears that Charley Hall and Ike Patterson are going to have things much to themselves so far as the contest for the republican gubernatorial nomination is concerned.

Both have been candidates before. Each has a strong following. Each has certain claims upon his party. So far as can be judged by sentiment so far expressed, a race between the two would be one to be long remembered.

Hal Hoss or Ed Brodie, whichever one writes the editorials for their Oregon City Enterprise, is becoming worried over the statement of the cosmicians that with in 10 years the men will be applying cosmetics the same as the women do now.

Really, either one of these editorial gentlemen should welcome the opportunity to plaster something over what he now wears above his chin.

A market quotation says that woolen dress goods have reached new low levels. The paper which printed that needs a more observant reporter.

It must be great to be a cartoon strip character and not have to work and yet always have plenty of money at the whim of the artist.

Prisoners are singing their way to liberty in Multnomah county. How come, can't the other prisoners stand the racket?

A girl falls from a mountain peak, the news dispatches tell us. Probably stopped to powder her nose.

First with Cottage Grove news—The Sentinel.

BOOSTER CLUBS NOT NEEDED

Cottage Grove, Ore., August 4.—(To the Editor.)—In the interest of economy and to show our faith in our fellow man, we wish to prove that Cottage Grove does not need a booster club of any kind, whether it be called a booster club, commercial club, chamber of commerce, Lions club or something else.

Some of the business men say that Cottage Grove has a wide awake chamber of commerce, but I can't see it that way. It has been going now for a year and a half and should by this time have the New York Central extended from Buffalo to Cottage Grove, but we don't need it.

"Why?" you ask. I will convince you that it is unnecessary, that both time and money can be saved without it. We all know, or ought to know, that the other cities are advertising Oregon and doing it well.

What they say will certainly convince all that our state is the finest place outside of heaven in which to live. This being the case, why should we go to the expense of advertising and boosting when Eugene is ready to take care of our interests? Eugene will see that this end of the county gets more than its share of the road funds. They are personally interested in our merchants, in our mills, in our factories. All we have to do is to say to Eugene and other boosting cities, "God bless you, we know that you will give us all that is good for us."

We are going to write 25 cities at a cost of 2 cents for each letter, or a total of 50 cents. Ten of us propose to divide the expense. We shall tell them that the Bible says that it is more blessed to give than to receive and we are sure that they will be anxious to get the blessing and that they will show a christian spirit by sending to Cottage Grove any prospect with whom they may come into touch who wants a location for a new industry. They may invite the prospect back to their city in case he does not find a suitable location here.

My other friends and I are happy to feel that we have solved this problem of getting industries to our city. We like to have this confidence in our sisterhood of cities. We know that they will take care of our interests. Individually I am happy to find others who can share with me this sublime faith in mankind. Yes, we are going to cling to our money and trust God and our sister cities and all will end well with us and with our businesses.

Dodge Car Travels Without Gas

Traveling without a gas tank is a new one even for a Dodge car, but that's what was done by the Dodge in which A. W. Helliwell and S. S. Lasswell left for the Bohemia district this forenoon. The car stopped about three miles from the city and an examination revealed the fact that the gas tank had been lost. It had been filled just before the men left the city. They returned to the city by feeding gas into the vacuum tank but did not find their missing tank. They had a new tank put onto the car and left at noon to complete their trip.

Soldier Raises Money By New Method

A new stunt for getting money upon which to travel was put over on the American Legion yesterday. The legion purchased a ticket for a soldier who had appealed for aid, giving the Southern Pacific a check for $5.31. Today it was learned that, instead of returning to his barracks at Vancouver, the soldier left from here by stage for the south. It was further learned that the check given the Southern Pacific had been cashed at the Tourist cafe. Evidently the soldier redeemed the ticket at the Southern Pacific station, being given the check with which the ticket was purchased, but as the check was made to the Southern Pacific there is doubt as to whether the endorsement thereon will stick. American Legion officials have communicated with the barracks at Vancouver and have learned that the soldier who imposed upon the boys here is considered reliable.

Old Mythical Hero

Siegfried is a semi-fabulous personage of superior strength and beauty who occupies a conspicuous place in various Teutonic legends and is especially distinguished as the hero of the great German epic, the Nibelungen-Lied. He cannot be identified with any historical personage. In an old saga, he is represented as having slain a dragon and bathed in its blood, where-by his skin became as hard as horn, except in one spot where a leaf intervened. But he is most celebrated for having vanquished the ancient fabulous royal race of the Nibelungen and taken away their immense treasure of gold and gems. He was finally slain by Hagen, who had learned from Chriemhild the secret spot where alone Siegfried was mortal.—Kansas City Times.

You Don't Mean It!

The following is a single sentence from an article by Dr. Frederick Mote in the London Lancet: "Seeing that every sensation and every mental image or engram leads to a reflex activation which may be apparent or not, according to the influence of positive or negative inhibition; to every sensation and image or preception there must, in consequence of this reflex motor action, result a corresponding kinesthetic or postural excitation of different stimuli flowing along proprioceptive neuronal systems from muscle spindles, tendons, bones and joints, which, combined with associated labyrinthine sensations, form a sensory continuum which is intimately integrated with the exteroceptor sensory continuum on one hand and the motor continuum on the other."

Community Song Book Proposed

That the community adopt a community song book was the proposal made today to the Lions club by Mrs. Hugh Trunnell, who has been prominent in musical circles for many years. The first move asked was that the club adopt a song book. The suggestion was made that such action be followed by its adoption by other clubs and societies. N. J. Nelson and S. L. Mackin were appointed a committee to report upon the proposal two weeks later.

Road Machinery Arrives

Dorena, August 4.—(Special.)—The county's big road building machinery, including caterpillar, scraper and grader, has arrived here for use on the part of the main road that is being rebuilt this summer.
