High Aim in Teaching Kindness to Animals

Several years ago, writes M. L. H. of the Humane Education Press bureau, Boston, the well-known American journalist and poet, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, wrote:

"Many times I am asked why the suffering of animals seems to call forth more sympathy from me than the suffering of human beings; why I give more time and effort in this direction of charitable work than toward any other.

"My answer is because I believe this work includes all the educational lines of reform which are needed to make a perfect circle of peace and good will about the earth.

"A majority of the people who hear about societies for prevention of cruelty to animals imagine the work of these societies consists in arresting and punishing cruel drivers and furnishing homes for vagrant animals. But these are only side issues of the main work. The real work is the education of the growing generation in kindness to all weaker and lesser creatures on earth.

"Thoughts are things. Thought is energy—thought is creative power. That is why it is important to direct the minds of human beings to good, kind, helpful thoughts."

It is, therefore, the aim and object of the humane education organizations in this country to instill in the minds of the boys and girls in the schools today the principles of justice and kindness and mercy to all living creatures.

Finest Chinese Teas Regarded as Dessert

Of course, Chinese do not eat ice cream, for the whole cult of cold foods and cold drinks is contrary to their dietetic principles. Many centuries ago when China was swept by cholera one of the sages recommended that the water be boiled, and in order to make the heated fluid more palatable a herb was steeped in it, now known as tea. Hence the development of tea culture throughout the Flowery Kingdom and the ceremonial significance of tea drinking. John W. Harrington writes in the New York Herald-Tribune. In the chop suey restaurant ordinary tea is served in pots, just as though it were water, but the superfine teas are in reality dessert drinks, just as a port wine or champagne was once considered in the days of the three-bottle men. When one is offered after dinner a small cup in which is such tea as "Mist of the Mountain," costing many dollars the pound, one knows that something most complimentary and luxurious is intended.

The city kid was roaming about in the country when he came upon a dozen or so empty condensed milk cans. Greatly excited, he yelled to his companions. "Hey, fellers, come here quick! I've found a cow's nest!"—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

LAND OFFERED SPRINGFIELD BY EUGENE COUNCIL

City Would Be Given Long Term Lease on Tract Formerly Held for Shop Site.

Eugene made reparations to Springfield for the loss of the Southern Pacific car shops and took a decisive step toward healing the breach between the two cities when the Eugene city council Monday night voted to lease to the city of Springfield for 49 years at a rental of $10 per year the 250 acre tract in Springfield originally intended for use as the site for the car shops. This tract of land, which was owned by the railroad company, became the property of the city of Eugene by an exchange which gave the Southern Pacific a 205 acre tract northwest of Eugene.

A part of the tract at Springfield will be used for park and playground purposes, it is said. The lease requires the use of not less than five acres for a municipal park.

Leading citizens of Springfield are said to be pleased with the action of the larger city. They are already making plans, it is said, to invite industries to locate there, offering free sites as an inducement.

The offer to lease this tract is an expression of good will toward the people of Springfield, members of the Eugene council stated, and is in line with plans announced some time ago for consolidation of the two cities.

Plans for joining the cities include re-routing the Pacific highway by building a broad road around Judkins point, eliminating the railroad crossing at the end of Thirteenth avenue and crossing the railroad track by either an over-head or undergrade structure a short distance from the point. Plans also include erection of a highway bridge on the old concrete piers of the street railway company.

Why Farmers Should Keep a Bank Account

Their bank deposit book affords them a complete record of their cash receipts, while the stubs of their check books are a perfect record of expenses and payments. Paying a laborer, a store account or any other bill with a bank check is much safer than with money; because you avoid the risk of handling the actual cash, and the endorsed check returned by the bank is the best kind of a receipt.

Farmers, try the experiment for one year of keeping a bank account and see if it does not pay you. A large number of the best farmers have accounts with us now—we want
