AN OLD WOMAN'S ONLY JOY.

She is no longer spry of step, although once she romped and played with the best of them.

But that was many years ago.
Since then there have been sweethearts and wedding ceremonies and children.

And there may be grandchildren and great grandchildren for aught we know.

And children mean many cares that take the suppleness out of limbs.

And the passing of many summers, and as many winters, brings the infirmities of old age.

With but a few years here at best, she wants but few of the comforts, of which there are so many more than when she was a child.

She does not begrudge others joys and pleasures, of which there are so many more than she ever knew.

But it seems to her as though the more pleasures we have for ourselves the less we think of others.

When she was young, there were so few things at which one could employ his or her time selfishly that there was plenty of time to give heed to the welfare of friends and neighbors.

As the sun of life goes down, about all she asks is to be able to sit at her window and see the world go by. She is interested in what others are doing and watching them from the window is the nearest she can come to visiting with those who bustle and hustle by intent upon business or pleasure.
She does not know one of a hundred. Many with graying hair she knew as babes, but she does not know them now. She may have known as girl and boy the parents of the little tot who hops, skips and jumps past her window.
Some peculiarity of action of the little one may bring to mind another girl she knew many years ago, and the recollection of that other day is like a ray of sunshine in the gray-haired woman's day.

For many years no one put any barrier before her window.

But that was before the day of automobiles. That was before the day that it was possible for children to whiz away from home to school a dozen miles away.

And now school children park their cars where it obstructs her view.

They may not know that they are taking from her about the only joy she has in the few years that she is yet to know earthly joys and sorrows.

But it was stated at the city council Monday night that the superintendent of schools had been informed and that he was unable to do anything.

We are loath to believe that this is so.

These boys and girls have mothers who will be old and feeble some day and to whom one little pleasure such as this may mean all the difference between sunshine and darkness.

Surely they must have some heed for another who has been a mother —another who has done her part in the world and is now waiting for the final summons. The schools of today, the advantages which the young of today enjoy, are possible because of the efforts and the sacrifices of those who were carrying the burdens of the world half a century ago. Who knows what sacrifices this woman may have made that had a part in making possible great schools for those who now heedlessly—surely not intentionally—block with their cars this woman's only contact with the world.

We have said that we were loath to believe that boys and girls have given no heed to word from their superintendent, but—

We have examined the place where the boys and girls park their cars, and we found old papers and the refuse of lunches thrown on the grass along the hedge of private property. Children who are thus heedless of the rights of others may not care whether or not they do something to bring happiness to another.

And the effort would be so little, for there is plenty of parking space a few feet beyond.

Surely young folk in the prime of life, full of vigor, who have mothers of their own, who will themselves be old some day, can and will make this little effort that will mean so much to someone else. If they are of the stuff from which upstanding citizens of the future are to come, they will not wait for the authorities to compel them to do what common ordinary respect for the wishes of others should impel them to do.

Society

The auxiliary of the American Legion held its first meeting of the season Monday night. Plans were made for a card party, a play and a moving picture to be given in the near future. Proceeds of the picture will go to help the legion in outfitting a drum corps.

Mrs. C. C. Cruson and Mrs. Victor Chambers were named on a committee to arrange the card party.
Mrs. Ray Nelson, Mrs. F. L. Grannis, Mrs. Herbert Whitlock and Mrs. Fred Bennett were appointed to arrange for the picture show.

Advertising will be in charge of Mrs. George Matthews, Mrs. June Byrd, Mrs. W. J. White and Mrs.
G. C. Dyott will select the play.
It will be directed by Miss Claire Dunn, Mrs. Iva Brann, Mrs. Clyde Leonard, Mrs. H. E. Edwards and Mrs. George McQueen. Mrs. Peter Nelson, Mrs. C. E. Dunn and Mrs.
Charles Hall will have charge of Christmas baskets and boxes to be sent to the veterans' hospital.
Jams and jellies will be sent under direction of Mrs. O. M. Kem, Mrs.
C. O'Hoyt and Mrs. Jean Long.
Mrs. V. T. Randall, Mrs. Delmar Laffoon and Mrs. Charles Beidler will send rugs to the hospital.

Mrs. J. P. Graham entertained Tuesday evening for members of the O. H. L. club and their husbands. The house was decorated with autumn flowers and bright foliage. Light refreshments were served after an evening of five hundred. Mrs. William Thum held high score. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hemenway, Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Graham. Additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. V.
Allison, Mr. and Mrs. William Thum and Mrs. C. E. Frost.

The Tuesday Evening Study club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. B. R. Job. The club's lesson course for the first half year is "South America." Mrs.
Omer Moore and Mrs. Job had charge of the program. Plans were made for the teachers' reception to be given in a week or two. The club plans this entertainment each year, with the help of the city school board.

Mrs. W. H. Daugherty was hostess Tuesday to the Tuesday bridge club at a 1 o'clock luncheon in the Gray Goose. A glass basket of pink and lavender asters graced the center of the table. Following lunch the party went to the home of Mrs. Daugherty and spent the afternoon playing bridge. Mrs. C. J.
Kem held high score. Mrs. Schofield Stewart will entertain the club at its next meeting.

Mrs. Alva Gore honored her daughter, Mrs. T. A. McGinnis, with a surprise party on Mrs. Mc-Ginnis' birthday, Monday. The guests met at Mrs. McGinnis' home. Guests were Mrs. George Lee, Miss Elsie Lee, Mrs. J. M.
Eastman and Mrs. C. A. James.

The ladies' aid of the Methodist church met in the church parlors Wednesday for the first meeting of the season. Mrs. N. E. Compton presided. A social hour followed the business session and ice cream and cakes were served. Forty-two were present.

The women's relief corps will hold their regular quarterly meeting Saturday. At the next meeting on October 10 regular quarterly dinner will be served.

Mrs. Herbert Eakin will entertain the Social Twelve club this afternoon.
