Our Stores Play Big Part Future

Merchants Spend Time and Money To Bring Newest Creations, Inventions for Your Approval.

Have you ever noticed what a large part the downtown or neighborhood store plays in your everyday life? Although you may never have thought of the store in this connection, yet when brought to your attention the close relationship is obvious.

The merchant, to be sure, is not a social secretary, yet ask a woman where she saw so-and-so and she will invariably say at such-and-such a store. Shoppers, urban or rural, expect to encounter their friends in the stores they visit. Shopping lowers all class bars.

There is another light in which the merchant is seldom seen though always present and that is as the patron of all progress, art, comfort and invention. He is the first to bring us the invention, the newest creation in art, the latest appliance or commodity for our comfort, aid or amusement. The wonders that he brings us are not less amazing and dazzling than those collected from the four corners of the world by the merchant ships of medieval times. Even today how often in the modern store seen as a fair-land and palace of dream things.

The wits and wags have discovered a distinction between the definitions of "buying" and "shopping," but no such distinction is recognized by the merchants themselves. An antiquated and now discredited business motto was "make a sale before the customer leaves the store." Today business men do not jam their merchandise down your throat and drag your money out of your pockets. They welcome you into their places of business either as "buyers" or "shoppers." They show what they have for sale and they leave the sale to the customer. They encourage "shoppers" because every "shopper" is after all a buyer.

Your physician recommends a physical examination for every member of the family at stated intervals; dentists urge regular examination and cleaning of the teeth; the piano and the automobile are overhauled once a year. Why not a periodic tour of the home-town stores as an efficient and effective way of diagnosing the needs of the house and family.

By occasional visits to the stores one may find that little household utensil or appliance so long desired, or see just the right paper for the library walls and curtain material which will harmonize well in the living room.

In the hardware store will be found a regular storehouse of necessary conveniences and repair parts for the household. The only way to buy books is to see them on the bookstore shelves. You can always find something you need at the department stores and more than one man on a chance visit to the men's shop has found the pair of trousers to match an odd coat and vest.

W. B. D. Dodson Coming.

W. B. D. Dodson, manager of the Portland chamber of commerce, will be here Wednesday evening to address members of the chamber of commerce and business men of the city. The meeting will be held in Philips hall at 8 o'clock and all residents of the city have been invited to attend.
