Bees, like humans, dislike winter moving. If not moved in early fall then delay the process until next March, at least, says H. A. Scullen, bee specialist at O. A. C. If moved more than two miles the bees should be aroused and unclustering by pounding on the hive and by smoking, to enable them to take new observation. Otherwise many may return to the former location. Grass or weeds placed over the entrance helps.

"Are there any lobbyists in Washington?"
"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "The old time lobbyist who used to buy dinners for everybody has been replaced by the propagandist who expects you to pay to hear him lecture."—Washington Star.

Society

Members of the Cochran family met at the home of M. C. Cochran Sunday for a family reunion. Grandmother Cochran Harrison was the guest of honor. Mrs. Harrison, who has lived in Cottage Grove for the past 20 years, will leave soon for Flora, Ind., to make her home with her eldest son, Charles E. Cochran. She will make the trip with her grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Cochran, of Flora. Those present at the reunion were Grandma Cochran Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Cochran and sons, Wendell and Maurice, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cochran and daughters, Esther and Betty, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Jess Cochran and son, Lloyd, of Marcola; Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Cochran and Miss Leota Estes.

Mrs. Fred Anderson entertained the Elmarles club Tuesday afternoon. A short business session was held and was followed by social conversation. A dainty luncheon was served. Various colored autumn flowers were artistically arranged for decoration. Mrs. Robert Thomas, guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Victor Chambers, was an invited guest.

Mrs. H. H. Veatch entertained the Past Matrons' club at her home Monday afternoon. A two course luncheon was served. A beautiful collection of dahlias was presented to Mrs. Veatch by Mrs. Herbert Eakin and Mrs. H. A. Miller. Mrs. K. K. Mills will be hostess to the club at its next meeting.

Mrs. Harry Metcalf was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the La Comus club. Guests spent the afternoon in needlework and pleasant conversation. A dainty two course luncheon was served. The living room was decorated with bowls of delphiniums and zinnias while choice white gladioli formed the decoration for the dining room.

Teachers of the city schools will be guests Monday night at the annual teachers' reception, to be held in the high school gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The reception is sponsored by the Tuesday Evening Study club and the school board. Patrons are also invited.

The women's foreign missionary society of the Methodist church will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. R. L. Cooper. The newly elected officers of the society will be installed.

The women's relief corps will give their quarterly dinner October 10 in the I. O. O. F. hall. Mrs. H. E. Slattery, of Eugene, will be present and inspect the corps.

Miss Lula Currin will be hostess to the Joker club at its next meeting tomorrow.

Constellation club will meet this afternoon in the Masonic lodge rooms.

Simple Reason for the Change in Name

The ease with which many of the recent accessions to our population change their names is illustrated by the following anecdote:

The teacher in a South Boston school became so interested in a little Polish girl that she was anxious to learn of her progress after she was promoted to a higher grade and asked her new teacher concerning her.

"There is no such child in my room," answered the one so questioned.

"No Marie Levenski! Why! I know that she was sent to your room, for I asked about it at the time."

"There is no Marie Levenski in my room. I am sure," persisted the other.

"But I have seen her go in the door, and there she is now," darting as she spoke toward a small girl approaching from the opposite direction. "Isn't your name Marie Levenski?" she demanded.

"It need to be, but now it is Mary Jones," was the calm reply.

"Mary Jones! How can that be?"

"Why, father buys and sells old junk, and one day there was a door plate with the things, and the name on it was Jones. Nobody would buy it, so we put it on our door, and now my name is Mary Jones."—Youth's Companion.

Semi-Savage Chileans
Serve as Stevedores

Colonel is the principal coaling port on the west coast of South Africa and there it is customary for freighters to ship 20 or 30 stevedores in addition to the regular crew to break out the cargo when it is consigned to the various ports further up the coast, the New York Times states.

These men are mostly Chileans, and a tougher-looking company than these seagoing longshoremen could not be found, even among the bandits of southern Europe and Asia or the old-time pirates of the West Indies.

Swarty, undersized, dirty and clothed in rags, they seem to touch the bottom notch in the scale of humanity. What they lack in intelligence is apparently made up in animal cunning and ferocity. Even a crew of Kanakas refuse to berth or mess with them. Every one carries a knife, which he can throw with the speed and accuracy of a bullet.

They are commanded by an overseer who is addressed as captain and who exerts a certain degree of authority over them. They do their own cooking aboard ship, each man serving as cook for a week, at the end of which time he resigns in favor of the next in line. Of course the captain never descends to menial labor, not even to work the cargo.

Wasps Build Strong House

Scientists claim they have learned some important secrets from the work done by the paper-making wasp. It constructs its houses from paper of its own making that is durable to an unusual degree. The wood-pulp paper made by man today is modeled exactly after the paper made by the wasp and the two qualities are almost identical, the Ohio State Journal says.

The paper is strong, so that when the large wasp house, with its many six-sided cells, is completed, the edifice swings from two to three twigs. It is held there safely by paper cables and anchored so firmly that winds are unable to dislodge it for years after the wasps have deserted it, leaving the top-shaped bag swinging in the winds.

To Renovate Velvet

When renovating velvet brush out all the dust. Hold the right side over steam until quite moist and iron on wrong side, or the velvet can be thoroughly brushed on right side and stains removed, then moistened on wrong side and ironed. Never lay velvet down when ironing. Stand the iron firmly on end, or have some one hold it for you, and, holding the velvet taut with both hands, pass it across the iron. If the garment is large, it may be more convenient to fasten one end firmly, or have an assistant hold it, then holding the other end tightly, up high, with your left hand iron it on wrong side. This treatment will make velvet look like new.—Kansas City Star.

Golf Bulbs

Little Joan had been promoted to a garden of her own, and Joan's father had been using strange oaths about the diminution of his stock of golf balls. He was perambulating the garden when he noticed a curious whitish protuberance in Joan's section, and investigated. The culprit was summoned. "Well," she said, "you did say you wished you could grow golf balls in the garden, 'cos they're so dear, so I thought I'd try for a surprise. And I've watered them every day, and now you've gone and spoiled everything." And Joan's father, regarding half a dozen muddy objects, stole away with a sense of guilt to buy more balls and to find a hiding place for them.—London Chronicle.

Easily Settled

A lady artist was giving a studio dinner with the usual Bohemian twist to it. Approaching a guest she asked in a kitchensh manner: "What is the difference between imported caviar and hash?" Taking this for a playful riddle the guest replied: "I don't know." "Then you'd just as soon have hash," said the hostess, serving him with a large portion.

Firestone
Double the Mileage
at Half the Cost

Only a few years ago a 32 x 4 cord tire listed over $50.00. Today, you can buy the highest quality 32 x 4 tire—a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord—for about $26.00.

Last spring crude rubber cost tire makers around 40 cents a pound. Today, it is over 90 cents a pound.

It was not so long ago that 7,500 miles represented the average life of a cord tire, while today, 15,000 miles—and more—is only the usual performance for a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

Due to large, concentrated production, specialized machinery and simplified factory methods, together with economical distribution, Firestone is able to keep tire prices low—no matter where the price of crude rubber goes.

And, because of special Firestone processes, chief among which is Gum-Dipping, motorists are today getting thousands of extra miles by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is an exclusive method used by Firestone. It is an extra process, carried out in special Gum-Dipping plants, after which the cords are put through the usual calendaring machines. Gum-Dipping insulates and impregnates every fiber of every cord with rubber, and practically eliminates internal friction and heat, and builds strength and endurance into the tire.

In the day-in and day-out service of taxicabs, buses and trucks—on the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere—Gum-Dipped Cords are giving unheard-of mileage, dependability and satisfaction.

Get ready for the coming months of slippery pavements and bad roads. Assure yourself of greater safety, comfort and economy by equipping now with Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons.
