Example of Chivalry Among Lower Animals?

An unusual "big brother" act among animals is described by a park naturalist who saw a large marmot or woodchuck attack and drive off a mink after the latter had captured and fatally wounded a ground squirrel.

The scene of the little drama was near the bridge over Lava creek, a small stream in the northern part of Yellowstone park. After describing the capture of the luckless squirrel, the naturalist goes on to say:

"While the squirrel was struggling in the clutches of the mink a large woodchuck, apparently attracted by the squealing of the squirrel, came and stood on his hind legs a moment to review the scene, then ran straight for the point of battle. The mink raised his head just in time to see the marmot and escape him by rushing to the bank of the nearby creek; the marmot followed, but too slowly.

"The railing of the creek bridge is supported by low uprights with leaning braces of timber. On one of these braces the marmot climbed, facing the squirrel left dying in the road some yards away; then he calmly proceeded to wash his face with his front paws. Apparently the 'big brother' act is an old story in the wild animal world, like so many other things which we have thought human, only to discover, upon investigation, that we have merely adopted them with human procrastination.

"In a former year I once saw a mink deliberately attack a marmot of medium size. In this case the contestants, after a fierce battle, finally called it a draw."

Word "Hell" Has Been Given Many Meanings

The word hell has today several meanings. 1. The abode of evil spirits; the infernal region, especially a place of eternal punishment for lost spirits. 2. Figuratively it is used to indicate a place of extreme, evil or misery. 3. A place of departed spirits, called by the Greeks hades, and by the Hebrews sheol. 4. A place of evil or rejected things.

Smith's Dictionary of the Bible states that "This is the word (hell) generally and unfortunately used by our translators to render the Hebrew word Sheol, or else render it always by 'the grave' or 'the pit' . . . It is clear that in many passages of the Old Testament sheol can only mean 'the grave' and it is so rendered in the Authorized Version. In Genesis 37:35; 42:39; 1 Samuel 2:8; Job 14:13. In other passages, however, it seems to involve a notion of punishment, and is, therefore, rendered in the Authorized Version by the word hell. The word most frequently used in the New Testament for the place of future punishment is Gehenna or Gehenna of Fire."

Our word hell is a Teutonic word from a root meaning to cover. In old English the word was written hel.

New Sea Discovery

In a recent scientific expedition on the sea there was discovered a gigantic tiderace where two great currents meet. The mass of foam caused by their violent collision extended for miles, and in this foam great numbers of whales and porpoises wallowed, attracted by the immense supply of food. There were also great quantities of wreckage, covered with organisms, and fish of all kinds feeding on them. For the first time the scientists found the eggs of halobates, the only marine insect in the world. The eggs are being hatched in tanks. Vast numbers of jellyfish colored the water purple for many square miles. The expedition caught more than 150 species of fish.

As Magnet Finds Iron

If any one should give me a dish of sand and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by mere power of attraction! The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day and, as the magnet finds the iron, so will it find in every hour some heavenly blessings; only the iron in God's hand is gold.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Tuberculosis

All animals have a certain degree of resistance to the attack of the germ of T. B.; in some this power is low and others very high. The guinea pig, for example, has almost no resistance to this disease, while the goat has so high a resistance that it is very hard to infect it at all. Among human beings the Indian and negro usually show a very low resisting power and when infected are apt to have the rapid and dangerous form of the trouble. The average white man, on the contrary, has considerable resisting power.
