The Punishment and the Crime.

Is public sentiment changing in its attitude toward crime? Three years ago, at the time of the Warren murder trial in this country, fully one-third of the talesmen examined for jury service expressed conscientious scruples against capital punishment. This week, of 34 men examined for jury duty in the Lloyd murder case, not one stated that he was opposed to the death penalty, although the question was asked of each prospective juror—Polk County Itemizer.

Mice Without Hair

A tribe of hairless mice were recently discovered in London and they were regarded as such great curiosities that they were exhibited before the members of the Zoological society. The little animals were caught in a trap in the northern part of the city of London and several of them have been observed by scientists who are endeavoring to explain their origin. Several mice have been born in captivity and when the pink little ones are first seen they are much like other mice at the same period of their lives. The hair appears in the usual way but when they are about three weeks old the hair has commenced to disappear. That of the top of the head is lost first and then gradually the baldness extends all over the body.

Halcyon Days

According to Greek mythology Alcyon, or Halcyon, the daughter of Aeolus, married Ceyx. Ceyx was drowned, and Alcyon, on learning his fate, threw herself into the sea. The gods were moved by the tragedy of the young lovers; they brought them back to life in the form of halcyons, or kingfishers, and they decreed that for the seven days from December 22 to December 29 the sea should remain calm while the seabirds build their nests upon it. Those seven days, the last of the year, are therefore called halcyon days, days of tranquillity.

Stripping Cork Tree

If it is done properly, the commercial value of the cork is improved by stripping a tree of its bark. A cork tree is stripped for the first time when it is about twenty years old. This virgin cork is rough and coarse. Successive layers of bark are taken at intervals of eight or ten years. This must be done carefully, as any injury to the delicate inner skin of the tree results in the permanent stoppage of growth of cork at that spot.
