AS BILL CONNER SEES THE FLAPPER

There are many who yet remember when Bill Conner was a Cottage Grove editor. Bill was one of the city's pioneer newspaper men and as such had much to do in laying the foundation for the Cottage Grove of today.

Bill is now editor of The Poultry Journal, Salem. Which should make him an authority upon chickens. No doubt many who in years past read his paper will be interested to know what his trenchant pen is now producing.

Is it any wonder that vice is on the increase and that young people are showing less regard for the rules of propriety when all classes of women will parade the streets in styles of dress that ten years ago would not have been tolerated even in the red light districts of the larger cities.

times upon the invitation of a total stranger, and in a vain attempt seek to make their short skirts cover their bare knees. Is a man to be blamed for seeming boldness, lack of respect and oftentimes ungentlemanly conduct toward such unthoughtful, immodest girls, regardless of the fact that the prevailing 'styles' give full license and sanction to this common shockingly immodest show? It would no doubt be interesting to know the people intimately and the motive responsible for the creation of these freak jazz styles for which femininity heedlessly fall, like a flock of sheep following a mutton-headed bell-wether, be he black or white. Talk about humble, obedient and covered subservience to the iron rule of a haughty, ruthless monarch, it is nothing compared to the abject, spineless slaves and dupes of our prevailing jazz fashions fostered upon a helpless public by the Paris and New York fashion kings.

Red Grange, on going into professional football, made the public statement that the hurrahs are sweet at the time, but that in five years one is forgotten. In a way Red is right. You can be applauded for a hundred things well done, but for one mistake all the things well done are forgotten, if they were indeed ever remembered.

One thing about the Baker incident, it has made it necessary for all candidates for United States senator to declare themselves upon prohibition, and they don't seem to take much stock in the claim that a majority of the people want liquor in some form.

The picture which a certain hosiery firm has made famous is woefully out of date. The girl is holding her skirts so that nothing shows above the knees.

Rudolph's wife is ready to start a divorce suit. From the pictures we have seen we should say that she ought to start one of some kind.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Simple and Economical

CAKE that is easy to make and will keep well when baked in a long loaf, is:
One-Egg Plum Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar gradually, beat to a cream; add one cupful of milk, one beaten egg, salt, ginger and a little nutmeg with two cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add one-half cupful of chopped raisins, putting them in layers as the cake is poured into the pan. Bake in a moderate oven.

Ben's Delight.—Take two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, the same of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of mace, one cupful each of raisins and currants. Mix well, add one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and steam three hours. Serve with a fruit sauce.

Fruit Sauce.—Mix one cupful of sugar with two tablespoonfuls of flour or one of cornstarch, add one cupful of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of butter and one-half cupful of any canned fruit juice; if sweet, add a dash of lemon juice or use less sugar.

Apple Tapioca.—Take one-fourth cupful of tapioca, add one quart of water and let it soak overnight, add one cupful of sugar, four good-sized apples peeled, cored and quartered; put into a small baking pan and bake one hour or longer in a moderate oven. Serve hot, or cold with cream.

Apple Roll.—Roll out a rich pastry into an oblong strip, cover with finely chopped apples, with a few raisins, a little spice to taste. Roll up like a cinnamon roll and cut into slices. Place the slices in a dripping pan and put a small piece of butter on each. Bake in a quick oven and serve with sugar and cream.

Maitre d'Hotel Butter.—Beat four tablespoonfuls of butter to a cream, add gradually one tablespoonful each of vinegar and lemon juice, half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of minced parsley. Spread over fish when serving.

Hester English
Hester English was a Frenchwoman by extraction, and she was eminent for her fine chirography in the time of Queen Elizabeth and James I. Many of her performances are still extant, both in the public libraries and in the hands of individuals. She was thought the most exquisite writer of her age. She married, at the age of forty, Bartholomew Kello, a North Briton, and had a son, who was educated at Oxford and was minister at Speckshall, in Suffolk.—Chicago Journal.

Making Real Pearls
Japanese pearls formed by an oyster round a nucleus of mother-of-pearl can now be definitely told from real pearls by spectrography with monochromatic X-ray waves. The mother-of-pearl center in the Japanese pearls produces a definite figure arrangement not unlike the Lane figures, while the real pearl shows a definite unstriated series of rings. The difference between the simple structure of the Japanese-grown pearl can be immediately recognized.

Centuries Have Seen No Change in Hammer

Recently an old hammer was found embedded in a mass of concrete to which was attached a piece of Roman tile. From the broken crockery found with it, there is no doubt that it must have been a Roman hammer dating from the Second or Third century. The fortunate discoverer of this interesting relic was carrying it off in triumph to his office when he happened to pass a workman nailing a carpet with what is known as an upholsterer's hammer. This, on inspection, turned out to be an exact replica of the Roman instrument, except that it was very slightly smaller. The bevel on the inside of the claws of the nail wrench was the same. The same number of rivets was used to attach the head to the wooden handle, and those rivets were fixed in exactly the same positions. As "Q. W.," writing of the incident in one of the papers, remarked: "So with all our vaunted progress, there seem to be some things which, having once been designed to meet a special need, cannot be improved upon so long as the need remains the same."

Days of Life Should Not Be All Routine

Life consists of days, not years. Days are all that we're sure of. Too many of us drift along and forget the approach of that final event called Death. Time is everlasting, but you and I have only a tiny bit of it. Herbert N. Casson writes, in Forbes Magazine. What we would do, we must do quickly. Time is the stuff that Life is made of. There is nothing in the world so precious and so scarce as time. We have no days to waste. We need every one of them to build our lives with. No one, ever, has too many days when he comes to the end of his life. That is why we should not allow a day to be all routine. That is why we should always put to a good use the two or three hours before bedtime. That is why we should end every day with a little friendship, or music, or study, or fun, or family sentiment. Never a day without a laugh, except when sorrow comes. Never a day without a book. Never a day without a friend. That is the way to be sure, every evening, that you have come to the end of a perfect day.

British Bird Sanctuaries

Ferne Islands, off the Northumbrian (England) coast, have been handed over to the national trust for preservation as a bird sanctuary. The islands number 15, and have an area of 80 acres. The regular breeding population includes gulls of three species, terns of four, auks of three, cormorants of two, waders of two, and one species of duck. The islands form one of the most southerly stations in the breeding range of the eider duck. The most interesting species, perhaps, is that of the roseate tern, now found only in a few British localities. As a breeding place for sea fowl the British Islands have no equal around the British coasts, and even the great bird stations among the Scottish Isles lack one or two of the species represented here.

Britain's Constitution

The constitution of Great Britain, many of whose principles form the foundation of about every free constitution in the world, is an accumulation of statutes, customs and decisions. The Magna Charta, granted in 1215 by King John, may be regarded as a starting point. Other salient features are the petition of rights and the declaration of rights, the habeas corpus act, the act of settlement, the franchise laws and the practices and customs respecting the responsibility of government. The sovereign would accept or decline gifts of small value or of no political significance, according to his own wish or judgment, but a gift of very considerable value would not be accepted without the advice and consent of the ministry.

Sand Feet for Clowns

Stilts usually employed by circus clowns to give them gigantic stature during their antics in the rings have feet of sand to aid the performer in walking and to maintain his balance. The poles are of stout hickory flattened and widened at the tops to fit the wearer's thighs and fitted with straps to hold them in position.

Toward the bottom the props are rounded and tapered, ending in soft shoes filled with coarse sand which are fastened on the sticks so that the heels support the points. Wide trousers or other apparel cover the stilts for their full length, and the clowns appear to walk on their heels.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Rough Stuff

He met and wooed her. She was coldly indifferent. He showered costly gifts on her. She encouraged him. He married her. She was bored. He laid himself at her feet. She trampled on him. He was faithful and loyal. She flirted. He lost his temper. She liked him. He knocked her down. She adored him, and they lived happily ever after.—M. S., in London Mail.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Elliott were guests of honor Wednesday night at a surprise party at their home on Row river. The party was arranged by Mrs. Gertrude Whitsett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and the occasion was the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Elliott. The evening was spent in games, after which luncheon was served by Mrs. Whitsett and Mrs. N. E. Elliott. Mrs. Elliott was the recipient of many gifts. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Van Schoick, Mr. and Mrs. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. William Hands, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hands, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reule and Billy Ruel, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Elliott, W. A. Ward, Miss Bernice Whitsett.

Mr. and Mrs. George Knowles entertained Tuesday evening for members of the O. L. H. club and their husbands. The evening was devoted to five hundred. Mrs. William Thum held highest score. A delicious luncheon followed. Additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Thum, Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried Graber, Mrs. A. W. Swanson, Mrs. Roy Meeks, Mrs. H. H. Veatch, H. J. Shinn and Miss Lula Curran. Mrs. J. P. Graham will be hostess to the club at the next meeting December 15.

Mrs. H. A. Miller entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon this afternoon for the Social Twelve. The rooms were decorated with bouquets of white chrysanthemums and the dining table was centered with a bowl of pink and white chrysanthemums. Following the luncheon hour the afternoon was spent in social conversation and needlework.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Eloise Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan, to Edward E. Fullmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fullmer, to be held Sunday afternoon, December 27, at the home of the bride's parents. The principals are prominent in the younger circles of the city.

An elaborate chicken dinner was served Wednesday evening by the women of the Christian church in the church parlors. A novel feature was that tables were set aside for each month of the year, each diner taking the table for the month of the year in which he was born. The women netted a neat sum.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens entertained the Tillieum club at their home Wednesday evening. Five hundred was enjoyed and a dainty luncheon followed. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leabo of Creswell, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Mills were special guests.

Mrs. S. S. Lasswell was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the Tuesday Bridge club. One o'clock luncheon was served and was followed by an afternoon of bridge. Mrs. Schofield Stewart held the highest score. Mrs. Fred Anderson was an additional guest.

The missionary society of the Methodist church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Loren Harvey. Mrs. Augusta McCormick was in charge of the meeting.

Regular meeting of Constellation club will be held Thursday, December 10. Hostesses will be Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. D. H. Homenway and Mrs. Clara Burkholder.

The Elmarles club will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Merrill Veatch.

FOR CHRISTMAS BREAKFAST
It's hard to imagine a more pleasant atmosphere for the Christmas breakfast than a table equipped with all the helpful electrical appliances—grill, toaster, waffle iron and percolator.
When the percolator bubbles merrily, and the aroma of coffee competes for attention with the fragrance of brown toast and the delicious odor of crisp, curling bacon, even the most jaded appetite needs no further stimulant.
Make This An Electrical Christmas
You can use all these appliances in your home on Christmas morning, and enjoy the convenience and pleasure of preparing breakfast electrically the year round.
