Kiddies Visit Store For First Time In Yuletide

The tendency of children to "spill the beans" has resulted in a much happier Christmas for four children here than they otherwise would have had. Two girls, aged 10 and 12, were at the Penney store of this city with their parents and let drop the information that it was the first time they had ever visited a store during the holiday season, for the reason that their parents could not buy them the things that they would see and want.

Clerks in the store were touched by the story, took up a collection among themselves, bought the kiddies the prettiest presents they had ever had and added some for two little brothers, aged 3 and 5, who had been left at home.

It is the policy of the state commission to close most tributaries of large streams.

Dog and Pups Put Cougar Out

Probably the first case ever recorded here of a full grown cougar being killed by dogs has been reported from Rujada, the Anderson & Middleton logging camp. The dogs were a Kentucky foxhound and two Rednail pups, owned by Bill Patton. Word was sent Patton, who was at work in the logging camp, that the dogs had taken the trail of the big cat. He got a half hour off from work and at the end of 30 minutes had returned with the varmint, which measured six feet. The dogs had practically finished the job when their owner arrived. They had been successful in keeping the cat from getting into a tree and the pups probably kept the prey entertained while the older dog did the real work.
